

Nothing to It: Rockefeller

BY LYNN MULVANEY

"No racial discrimination exists in any state agency."

That was the emphatic reply given today by Governor Nelson A. Rockefeller's office in answer to Congressman Joseph Y. Resnick's charges of discrimination against Negroes, collusion and laxity on the part of state agencies.

Blamed Governor

In this, the latest of the congressman's string of attacks on all levels of government, he placed the blame squarely on the shoulders of the governor, saying "I hold the governor solely and personally responsible for this situation."

Resnick's charge was also denied by the New York State Thruway Authority whom Resnick said has only 60 Negroes on its staff of 2,391.

"This kind of charge comes up periodically," a Thruway spokesman said this morning "and when the person has gotten the attention he seeks, it dies out."

The spokesman said the congressman's figures were correct" but added, "is 60 good or bad?"

"We attempt to comply with the spirit and letter of state policy," he said, "and go out of our way to recruit Negroes. This includes placing ads in Negro newspapers and on radio and television stations."

Conscious of Problems

"We are deeply conscious of the problems involved."

Another denial came today from the New York State Bridge Authority, which Resnick says does not employ a single Negro on its staff of 115.

Vacancies in the agency were filled from lists supplied by the State Civil Service Department.

Edward Burns, administrator of the Bridge Authority claims, "If Negroes or Puerto Ricans are not on the list, it's not our fault."

Laxity on the part of the State Commission Against Discrimination, another Resnick charge, brought forth this comment today from the chairman of the New York State Commission for Human Rights, Robert Mangum:

"In my 25 years of public life I don't think I was ever so bewildered as when I read the story from Washington reporting Congressman Resnick's charges."

"Obviously Rep. Resnick is ignorant of the fact that only last month Gov. Rockefeller authorized an ethnic survey of state employees in the nearly 60 units of state service to both collect information appropriate for review and analysis in the areas of recruitment, testing, appointment and promotion."

Smash Cong Near Saigon

Bomb North's Largest Air Base

BY ROBERT TUCKMAN
Associated Press Writer

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. Air Force, Marine and Navy jets, in a coordinated raid today, bombed North Vietnam's biggest air base—the Phuc Yen airfield 18 miles northwest of Hanoi—for the first time in the war.

The Phuc Yen field, where the North Vietnamese based some squadrons of their Soviet-designed MIG fighters, had been on the Pentagon's prohibited list.

A U.S. spokesman said the American planes flew through challenging MIGs, intense anti-aircraft and missile fire to attack the installation. Pilots reported shooting down a MIG21 and probably destroying a second. The aerial action was announced as South Vietnamese infantrymen clashed with a guerrilla force just south of Saigon and the Viet Cong shelled two government positions less than 25 miles north of the capital.

While fighting picked up in an area around Saigon, U.S. Air Cavalrymen in the northern provinces mopped up in a fortified village near the South China Sea where they reported they killed 48 North Vietnamese regulars in seven hours of fighting Monday.

Bomb Rail Yards

Over North Vietnam, American warplanes bombed five railroad yards in scattered areas Monday, including a raid for the second time in as many days on the Haiphong yards 1.7 miles from the center of the port city. U.S. Navy jets also attacked a highway bridge three-quarters of a mile from Haiphong's heart and the Hoa Lac airfield 20 miles west of Hanoi, which until recent raids was a base for MIG interceptors.

In a delayed report, the U.S. Command disclosed that U.S. gunship helicopters killed 17 Vietnamese civilians by mistake and wounded 23 more in the Mekong Delta last Thursday.

The helicopters attacked a treeline along a canal from where they reported receiving gunfire. A spokesman said the gunships fired at the request of a South Vietnamese regimental commander who said his troops were receiving enemy fire. The spokesman said the incident occurred at dusk and the helicopters were unaware of two small hamlets in the area.

In the fighting around Saigon, several battalions of South Vietnamese infantrymen jumped off at dawn on a search and destroy sweep 18 miles west-southwest of the capital.

In three clashes with guerrilla units in the next five hours, a government spokesman reported 11 guerrillas were killed, seven prisoners were taken, and 24 weapons were seized. The weapons included a Soviet anti-aircraft gun with six barrels, the first such weapon reported captured by Vietnamese troops.

The spokesman said the government force had no casualties.

Vietnamese infantrymen suffered light casualties in one mortar shelling 12 miles north-northwest of Saigon, while sea, eight civilians were wounded in the other, 25 miles north-northwest of the capital.

Lindsay Raps 'Timid Charter'

JOHN V. LINDSAY

NEW YORK (AP) — Mayor John V. Lindsay says he will vote against the proposed new state constitution, charging it is a "timid document" which "could memorialize mediocrity in New York State for as long as two decades."

Lindsay's announcement Monday brought a quick reply from Anthony Travia, a Democrat and president of the Constitutional Convention which framed the proposed charter. He termed the Mayor's opposition a "most dastardly act."

Lindsay hit at the convention particularly for not proposing more home rule for cities and for proposing the repeal of the present constitutional ban on the mayor said he reached his decision early Monday before he had a breakfast meeting with Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller. Both are Republicans but Rockefeller has said he will vote for the charter in the Nov. 7 election.

Rockefeller is alone among the state's top Republicans in endorsing the remodeled charter. The top Democrats have all endorsed the product of a Democrat-controlled convention but the liberal and conservative parties are against it.

The mayor who said he would not campaign against it, stressed his objections to the home rule and church-state provisions. But he was also critical of the lack of judicial reform and of the decision to present the charter in one package.

Travia said later in a statement: "I believe Mayor Lindsay's statement is short-sighted and political. He has placed personal political ambition above the interest of New York City as well as the whole state."

State Democratic Chairman John J. Burns touched on the same note when he charged Lindsay was opposing the constitution to further his national political ambitions at the expense of Rockefeller.

Lindsay said that if the voters reject the charter he will draft legislation and amendments to the present constitution incorporating the desirable sections of the new document and submit them to the Legislature in January. "I believe that through forward-looking legislation and individual constitutional amendments, the people of New York State and their elected representatives can succeed where the Constitutional Convention has failed," he said.

On the charter's most controversial item, the repeal of the ban on aid to parochial schools the mayor said: "The value of a strong system of public education which permits the diversion of public funds to private schools poses a serious threat to the already hard-pressed public school system."

In another development Monday, a group known as the "Catholic Taxpayers against the Constitution" was formed in Buffalo. Roger V. Barth of suburban Eggertsville, the group's president, said its purpose was to "inform Catholics of the dangers of the new state Constitution."

Major Bombing Lull Considered by U.S.

SAIGON (AP) — The United States is considering a major pause in the bombing of North Vietnam this winter to test Hanoi's willingness to start peace talks, an American diplomat said today.

But There's Scant Hope

There is scant hope among diplomats here that even a prolonged halt in the bombing will induce North Vietnam to sit down and work out any peace settlement that Saigon and Washington would accept.

But because of heavy foreign pressure for a pause, Washington might order one in an attempt to show that the United States is eager for peace but that Hanoi is unwilling to settle for anything less than American capitulation.

The prolonged bombing

pause, if one is decided upon, probably would begin in December with the traditional Christmas truce. Another stand down is ordered for New Year's and a third in January for Tet, the Buddhist new year celebration.

The United States in 1965 waited for more than a month before resuming bombing of the North after the Tet cease-fire. Hanoi gave no sign that it wanted to bargain and the raids were resumed.

The U.S. military is strongly opposed to a major bombing halt because during it Hanoi can move men and war materials into the South with relative impunity. But the weather over North Vietnam at the turn of the year is usually so bad that bombing of major targets is sharply curtailed anyway.

A bombing pause also would not necessarily cover the air war in Laos where American planes hammer the Ho Chi Minh infiltration trail daily. The United States has never acknowledged this campaign and would be under little pressure to halt it. The weather in Laos is excellent for bombing during the winter months.

Plans for the bombing pause are not expected to be worked out until after the inauguration at the end of October of President-elect Nguyen Van Thieu, who said during his campaign and after his election he would propose a truce in the air war.

Bechtold on Veto:

Deceit Charges Reiterated

Reiterating his charges of deceit by Mayor Raymond W. Garraghan concerning the 25-year retirement plan for police and firemen, C. John Bechtold, Republican mayoral candidate said today, "We have the right to expect truthfulness and good faith from our chief executive and these two attributes are sadly lacking."

Hits Deception

While Bechtold did not argue the mayor's right to veto legislation he (the mayor) did not approve he did take exception to what he considered deception by the mayor in leading the public to believe he would reconsider his veto when in fact he couldn't.

Bechtold said his Democratic-Conservative opponent vetoed the measure on the 6th of October, three days after it passed unanimously in the council, and then said he was reconsidering his veto on the 10th.

Said Bechtold, "It is now apparent that since Oct. 6 when he actually vetoed the bill, Mayor Garraghan was again playing his favorite game of being somewhat loose with the truth. It is a matter of record that during this interval several local newsmen asked the mayor about this issue and were told deliberate untruths. 'Liar' is perhaps too strong a word to use in describing the chief executive of our city but I'm sure the newsmen involved will have their own opinion of his veracity."

Status Real Issue

"But regardless of the mayor's apparent inclination to use any means to confuse everyone involved the real issue facing us is the status of the 25-year plan," Bechtold said.

Bechtold said he has asked Minority Leader John Machione (R-12th Ward) to ask for a

Guns Fire Again at Suez Canal

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Egyptians and Israelis bombarded each other with artillery and mortars today across the Suez Canal near Port Taufiq at the southern end.

An Israeli army spokesman said artillery fire hit and set aflame the oil refineries at Port Ibrahim, across the canal from Port Taufiq. He said the refineries were going up in smoke, cutting off part of Egypt's oil supply.

The spokesman asserted the Egyptians opened up with small arms and then loosed artillery fire, whereupon the Israelis on the east bank of the canal replied. One Israeli casualty was reported.

An Egyptian military communiqué accused the Israeli forces of opening up with machine guns. It admitted that oil refineries were burning.

Israel said U.N. truce observers were informed but both sides reported the firing was still going on.

Israeli newspapers and the man in the street clamored today for vengeance against Egypt after its destruction of the Israeli destroyer Elath, but informed sources said the Jerusalem government planned no hasty reprisals and would "let the Arabs sweat it out for a while."

To Meet on County Salary Study

Wage and salary recommendations for Ulster County Highway employees will be the subject of a special meeting of Ulster County Board of Supervisors according to Peter J. Savago, chairman. The meeting will review recommendations of Hanawalt Associates, consultants, who are now studying compensation in the Highway Department.

Savago said the Hanawalt Organization has already submitted its recommendations regarding jobs covered by Civil Service.

The management consulting firm stated that the increases recommended are necessary to bring county salaries in line with going rates in other counties, and to correct inequities between the present pay scales and work being performed by certain employees.

Steel Haulers Roll Again

PITTSBURGH, (AP)—Steel haulers wheel their big trucks onto the highways for the first time in nine weeks today, ending one of the bloodiest strikes in recent years.

A settlement, accepted Monday by the majority of 10,000 to 20,000 haulers, leaves the steel industry with the chore of moving out an estimated half a million tons of steel piled up in warehouses, a task that could take a month.

King-Size Jewelry Job

TEHRAN, Iran (AP)—The crown that the Shah of Iran will place on Empress Farah's head at his coronation Thursday was the biggest job ever undertaken by the famous Parisian jewelers Van Cleef and Arpels, Pierre Arpels said today.

"It is the first crown we have ever made," the jeweler said in an interview.

The Shah's crown was made in Tehran for his father in 1921 by a Russian refugee.

Expect Probe of Radiogram

ABOARD SS INDEPENDENCE (AP)—The captain of the liner Independence says he expects a federal inquiry into the case of the White House radiogram that strayed into the hands of Republican Gov. Ronald Reagan of California.

Capt. Charles Reilly said his officers have already drafted a report on their investigation of the affair, assuming that men from the Coast Guard and the Federal Communications Commission will want one as soon as the Independence docks in New York late today.

Domestic Woes: 3 Area Dead

By WALTER S. CLARK JR.

Domestic difficulties figured in two Mid-Hudson tragedies Monday night, leaving three persons dead and four children motherless and a Kingston woman in serious condition of stab wounds and facing criminal charges.

Authorities in Ulster and Dutchess Counties pressed investigations to learn the circumstances in both cases.

1 In City, 2 in Dutchess

Clarence Perkins, 40, of 89 South Manor Avenue, is dead. His wife, Romia, 42, was in Kingston Hospital under police surveillance as she underwent treatment for knife wounds.

Mrs. Jean Marie Taber, 36, of Meier Road, Town of LaGrange, and Thomas Keady, 33, who resides at 172 North Clinton Street, Poughkeepsie, but who had been staying at the Taber home, were both found dead hanging in a bedroom of the Town of LaGrange home.

Kingston police detectives were still vague in information regarding the death of Perkins, who had been stabbed in the left side of his chest. Ulster County Coroner Arthur C. Chipp said an autopsy disclosed the man died of severe internal hemorrhages due to a penetrating wound of the heart and lacerations of the left lung.

Dutchess authorities said preliminary examination of the

Money Pouring In as UR Becomes Workable

With the approval of a workable urban renewal program, Oct. 10, money appears to be pouring into Kingston from the Federal Government. Friday it was learned that a loan of $200,673 had been granted the Kingston Housing Authority for rehabilitation of dwellings downtown.

Saturday, Senator Jacob K. Javits revealed that a $365,000 Roundout Neighborhood Center would meet with Department of Housing and Urban Development approval within two or three weeks.

Vital to Downtown

In the words of Mayor Raymond W. Garraghan, the Roundout Center is "vital to the development of Downtown. Something we've needed for a long time."

The Roundout Center will be more than just a recreation center. It will house many social service agencies including program for the aged and a day-care program.

The city's share for the center was $97,000, a bond issue for which was quickly approved by the Council. If the program is approved within a few weeks, work on it could begin quickly. A survey of what is required in the center has already been completed by the urban renewal relocation staff. The study was taken in the Fourth, Fifth, Sixth and Seventh Wards.

Another loan appears near approval. It is small, but significant. Senator Javits indicated that a $5,000 painting contract by Kingston Urban Renewal Agency will be approved in a few weeks.

The money will be used to paint between 20 and 25 apartments in the Broadway East Urban Renewal Area. This request by KURA had been in the hands of HUD officials in New York City for at least four months.

Urban renewal officials believe the $5,000 loan will be followed by others which will allow them to rehabilitate apartments downtown, thus easing their relocation problems.

Relocation Topic

Relocation was discussed at a press conference held by KURA Monday. Chairman of the Board G. Scott Alexander presided along with acting executive director Ward B. Tongue.

It was indicated that a new study of Uptown relocation requirements would be made since the present study is at least three years old and is considered out of date. Applications are now being accepted for relocation workers who will subsequently join the relocation staff in a new office Uptown.

Another addition to the KURA staff will be a new executive director. Alexander said the agency recognizes the value of Tongue but that they need a man who is familiar with the problems of development. Tongue will be retained as deputy executive director, his position under former executive director Eric Hemphill. One of the more serious problems of the agency under the Hemphill regime is believed to be solved with the appointment of a full-time inspector for demolition. The man will be Joseph White of the relocation staff. Demolition is expected to start on some 43 buildings in two weeks. It is expected to continue into early February.

The William Young Company will do the demolishing as they have in the past. Young Company was discussed and Alexander was asked why the company was retained in view of its past violations of its contract with KURA. Alexander indicated that 10 per cent of the quarter million dollar contract was being withheld but went on to say the violations were comparatively minor and that certain discrepancies were to be expected.

More Economical

Alexander also pointed out that it would be much more economical to retain Young of its staff working on residender to bring in a new demolition company. Alexander added he expected the presence of on-site inspector White to put an end to any violations of contract by Young.

Rehabilitation of Uptown was discussed. It was noted that the majority of the Uptown rehab will be done on commercial dwellings and that no one in Kingston and few people in the state know anything about it. The agency presently has two first of these.

tial rehabilitation in the Delaware Avenue area but it is not known if either of the men are proficient in the area of commercial rehabilitation. They will, however, be interviewed for the post which will pay between $8,000 and $9,000. The residential rehab specialists now earn less than $6,500 per year.

The agency announced that it will stage bi-weekly press conferences. Yesterday's was the first of these.

Area Conference Set For Business Faculty

The area conference for business department chairmen or senior business teachers of Orange, Sullivan, Ulster, and Dutchess Counties will be held on Friday, Nov. 3, in Poughkeepsie.

The morning session will deal with the relationship between business and business education and will be held under the auspices of local industry. It will involve personnel requirements, skill development, and curriculum suggestions.

The afternoon session will be held in Taconic Hall at Dutchess Community College where participants will be greeted by Dean Lawrence Monaco of the Collegiate Technical Division of the college. Anthony Krzywicki, head of the Department of Business Technologies at DCC, will be chairman of a discussion panel. The topic will be Articulation Between High School Business Departments and Community Colleges. The chairmen of the accounting and data processing, retailing, business administration, and secretarial science programs of his department will be the panelists. Representatives from the business departments in Ulster, Sullivan, and Orange County Community Colleges have been invited to participate.

The plan of having area leader conferences was established last year by the New York State Bureau of Business and Distributive Education to promote closer relationships between school and industry. Mrs. Thelma L. Loth, business area coordinator of Marlboro High School, has been appointed area leader of Orange, Sullivan, Ulster, and Dutchess Counties.

Against Nothingness

"The new generation is rebelling against the nothingness breeding in the suburbs," Dr. Benjamin B. Wolman, dean of the Institute of Applied Psychoanalysis and professor of psychology at Long Island University, said in analyzing the flight of young people to hippie colonies.

Dr. Wolman said, "What's wrong is that the parents are leading hollow, empty shallow lives and not giving their children anything to hold onto. Parental permissiveness masks the fact that parents had no particular moral norms they cared to pass along. I'm tired of wealthy people who give their children cars, but no moral values, coming to me and saying they don't know what's wrong with their youngsters."

If the parents were conservative, Dr. Wolman suggested children could rebel by becoming radical. If the parents were radicals, their children could become conservative. But their rebellion has come to be against the kind of nihilism they see around them. The hippies become attractive to the youngsters because they seem to have vitality.

This is not an apology for hippies. Their morals repel. It is a plea for parents to give their children the right values before they pick their own wrong ones. Parents have abdicated their responsibilities. They must impose them on themselves before they can expect the younger generation to have any of their own.

Subversives Welcome

The South Vietnamese National Liberation Front, the political arm of the Vietcong we are fighting there, has once again recognized and welcomed the efforts of those Americans who are trying to sabotage the American military effort. The Front has organized a committee to spur Americans to greater efforts to stop the war, not for a just peace, but for a pullout defeat.

In the past, the Front has sent messages of appreciation to anti-war groups here, but this is the first time that a committee of solidarity has been formed to join with, coordinate and accelerate anti-war efforts. The aim is in keeping with the latest assessment of the war by Gen. Vo Nguyen Giap, the North Vietnamese Defense Minister, that the best Communist strategy is to fight a protracted war to wear out American patience. The committee's aim is to help wear down that patience sooner by mounting anti-war demonstrations that will make it appear that the people want the war to end, no matter how.

Fortunately, the majority of Americans are not duped by this Vietcong effort. The patriotic demonstrations this weekend across the country showed that the American people want the war to end, but with justice to South Vietnam, not by deserting that country to the aggressors from the North.

Cooperation in Space

The Soviet Union's request both from the British and French for cooperation to help receive information from the Soviet rocket which reached Venus this week was the first such request since 1960. It was notable for bypassing the United States, whose telescopes are larger than the scopes of any of these countries.

The British not only cooperated but were the first to announce that a soft landing had been made. Sir Bernard Lovell, director of the Jodrell Bank Radio Observatory can receive pictures or messages. The French facilities are more limited and they played only a minor role.

The Soviet request came from the Academy of Sciences, which stated that the information sought about the physical properties of Venus was of "primary interest for world science and goes beyond the importance of one nation's scientific experiment, but of extraordinary importance and significance to mankind."

Perhaps United States scientists have been shunned in this important instance because the Soviet fears they would be too critical and analytical. However, the Venus exploration was thoroughly observed, monitored and studied here anyway.

William W. Scranton, the former Pennsylvania governor whose name was among those mentioned for the nomination for President four years ago, is now one of those eagerly sought for advice by the contenders. In his new role, he is bent on the party's choosing a moderate, as he was four years ago.

After striking for 26 days, the famous dancing Rockettes returned to the precision line at the Music Hall in New York with an agreement to leave their wage and hour difficulties to arbitration. They showed good sense in letting the experts decide their complaints, rather than waste any more time on the picket line.

"Maybe It's Because We Don't Speak the Language"

David Lawrence Says American-Vietnam Policy-Suggestions

WASHINGTON — Two United States Senators, both conscientious men — one a Democrat and the other a Republican — have just made suggestions as to what the American policy in Vietnam should be. Senator Stuart Symington of Missouri, Democrat, thinks there should be a pause in the fighting to find out what the enemy will do. Senator Wallace Bennett of Utah, Republican, calls for a realistic appraisal and says that "The Third World War, Communist Style," has been going on for 20 years. He adds that the United States faces a grave crisis unless it pursues a firm course and rallies the other nations of the world to support its leadership in the effort to safeguard human freedom.

As for Senator Symington's idea — to stop the bombing and all military operations and see what would happen — an Associated Press dispatch from Hanoi, contributed by an Australian who is a correspondent for Communist papers, makes it clear that the North Vietnam government doesn't want "negotiations" and merely seeks "talks" that could last ten years. Presumably it would continue to infiltrate and to attempt to take over South Vietnam.

Senator Bennett's speech in the Senate on Monday of this week, in describing "The Third World War, Communist Style," says the present battle the Third World War as the Battle of the Bulge and the Battle of Midway were in World War II." He declares that the weakness of the Communist countries, due to postwar exhaustion in 1945 and thereafter, did not permit "any massive attack." He adds:

"Instead of open warfare, they proceeded to foster internal revolutions in these nations, begun with subversion and pursued through the use of native Communist guerrilla forces. This time the world was not to be swallowed whole but chewed up in little bites. This time they hoped to consume many key areas without arousing the sleeping giant which is the United States. This time they even hoped not only to conceal the relationship of these wars to their worldwide objectives but also to give them a noble purpose by calling them deceptively, 'Wars of National Liberation.'"

"What would happen now if the United States withdrew before the situation in South Vietnam is stabilized? ... If we allow this to happen, all free nations, particularly the small ones, would be justified in believing that we are unworthy to be trusted as the leader of the free world."

"If we ever lose the right to lead the free world, Communist power would be challenged and Communism would eventually become the wave of the future. One by one, the smaller free countries would have to bow under the South Vietnam 'may' turn out to be as decisive in der its yoke, and the day could come when we stood isolated and alone. Obviously, we must not risk that great tragedy by trying to isolate ourselves from freedom's problems now."

"It is my firm belief that we should not go into any negotiations with anyone until we can be sure that at the end of the negotiations South Vietnam will still be free and independent."

The Utah Senator believes that "premature withdrawal" or "capitulation" would put all nations in the Pacific — including Korea, Japan, Australia, New Zealand and the Philippines — into jeopardy.

Mr. Bennett explains that to us negotiation is 'a process by which decisions are reached through mutual concessions,' but that to the Communists "it is merely an extension of the conflict on a different level." He points out that in Korea "negotiations" are still going on after 15 years of "fruitless peace conferences in Geneva."

So, while the "demonstrations" and the protests against the Vietnam War may give some comfort to the parents of boys of draft age, actually such moves merely harden the determination of the enemy to hang on for an expected surrender by the Americans. This kind of strategy is dangerous. Not only may it prolong "World War III, Communist Style," but it could also precipitate someday a war more terrible than all preceding conflicts.

ed some suitable non-Communist figure to form the central committee of the NLF and to head its numerous functional groups, these persons not only have no real power, but they are largely unknown or obscure persons as far as the Vietnamese public is concerned.

"No prestigious figure in South Vietnam, no matter how strongly in opposition to the Saigon government, has gone into the jungle with the NLF."

The ostensible chairman of the NLF is Nguyen Huu Tho, who in 1947 took part in some futile negotiations to end the earlier Indochina war involving the French. Professor Fall had little regard for him, and the two Southern California scholars brand him a "non-descript Saigon leftist lawyer" who has carried on mostly "decorative duties" since the NLF's founding.

Some 12 of the 15 members of the NLF's presidium are styled as non-Communists, but Swearingen and Rolph say the evidence indicate all 12 have long histories of pro-Red front activities and several may actually be party members. In any event, there are three openly known Communist party members.

Somewhere in this varied assortment of obscure types is the real leader of the NLF. The authors make their own guesses on the basis of the available evidence. They suggest he is probably one Tran Nam Trung, head of the NLF military committee, and likely "one and the same person" with Lt. Gen. Tran Van Tra of the North Vietnamese regular army.

Drew Pearson Says Negro Militant Talks To Riot Commission

WASHINGTON — Because the greatest obstacle to racial peace is the communications barrier, it is vital to keep the lines open between the white majority and Negro minority. This advice came from one of the nation's most outspoken Negro firebrands, Ernie Chambers, a bearded, bushy-haired Omaha barber specializing in Afro cuts and civil rights agitation, who sounded off behind closed doors before the President's Commission on Civil Disorders.

This column has obtained a copy of his confidential advice, which is must reading for whites who are trying to understand how the black militants feel and what they think.

In a voice charged with emotion, Chambers told the commission fiercely: "We have marched, we have cried, we have prayed, we have voted, we have petitioned, we have been little boys and girls. We have done every possible thing to make this white man recognize us as human beings. And he refuses."

"You can understand why Jews who were burned by the Nazis hate Germans, but you can't understand why black people who have been systematically murdered by the government and its agents — by private citizens, by the police departments — you can't understand why they hate white people."

"A policeman is an object of contempt. A policeman is a paid and hired murderer. And you never find the policeman guilty of a crime, no matter what violence he commits against a black person. In Detroit, you were shooting 'snipers.' So you mounted a .50 caliber machine gun on a tank and shot into an apartment and killed a four-year-old 'sniper'."

Father James Groppi, the militant little priest who has been leading Negroes in civil rights demonstrations in Milwaukee, had also come to testify behind closed doors. He nodded his vigorous agreement. "That's right," he said. Chambers kept talking: "Black people doing ordinary, reasonable, peaceful things in this country are attacked by the police; and the police are praised for it. And you talk about giving the police more money and more power."

"You will appropriate all kinds of money to give the National Guard increased training in how to wipe us out. And it's a funny thing that in all these so-called riots, the police and National Guard kill far more people than the so-called rioters. And as for the sniping, don't you believe that. Why are no cops killed? They ought to be killed. I think the cops should be killed. I believe the National Guard should be fought like they are telling us we should fight in Vietnam."

"We are being forced by police misconduct to get together to fight the police. You know when I believe that singing 'We Shall Overcome' is an effective way to fight the police? When I see you send your Marines, your airmen and your infantrymen into Vietnam led by the Mormon Tabernacle Choir..."

"We are going to fight your people like you fight us. And don't say I'm revealing too much, because if something happens to me, there are other people who come up. They killed Malcolm X and produced Stokely (Carmichael) and Rap (Brown). You kill Rap; he will multiply. You kill Stokely; he will multiply. Now you don't know me; so maybe you don't want to kill me. You might just want me in jail. But you get me off the scene, and I'll multiply..."

"Here is what you are going to give my child. I am going to send him to school and teach him to respect authority. So here is a Cracker teacher standing in front of my child making him listen to 'Little Black Sambo.' See, that's the image the school gives him when he's young to teach him his 'place.' A caricature, wearing outlandish clothing that even the animals in the forest don't want to wear..."

"So he goes through the caricature like I did when I was a small child in grade school. And I don't forget these things. I wasn't born with the attitudes I have now. They were put in me by Crackers. I sat through Little Black Sambo. And since I was the only black face in the room, I became Little Black Sambo..."

Sit and Take It

"He gets a little older, so he can't be Little Black Sambo because he's too old for that. So turn to good old Mark Twain, one of your great writers. And the black child grows from Little Black Sambo into Nigger Jim. And the white kids read this stuff and they laugh at the black child; and he's got to sit there and take it..."

"They use the term 'Nigger' on the floor of Congress. And look at Senator Dodd — good old Christian Senator Dodd; and then old black Adam Clayton Powell. Dodd had more charges against him than you can shake a stick at, and in black and white from his own documents what he had done. And you people sat around debating 'whether we are going to censure him or whether we are to reprimand him'..." Then here is Adam Clayton Powell where the charges are very nebulous and uncertain. But the real problem is that he was a black man with too much power. And he was uppity. And he acted just like you have always acted. So you kick him out and say he is a bad man..."

"Some people there (in Omaha) call me militant. How can you call me militant when, in view of all these things I have mentioned to you, I haven't started a riot. I haven't burned a building. I haven't killed a cop. You are looking at somebody who is more rational than any of you — or some of you — because some of you support the war in Vietnam, but you wouldn't support us if we burned down Omaha."

Johnson or Mills Must Budge on Tax Measure

By EDMOND LEBRETON
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The deadlock now gripping President Johnson's tax increase bill is personified by two men who know each other extremely well, have shared many experiences and much responsibility — and don't give in easily.

One is Johnson. The other is Chairman Wilbur D. Mills of the House Ways and Means Committee.

Until one budges, the tax bill is going nowhere. The narrow issue is Mills' insistence that Johnson provide convincing evidence that spending be cut $5 billion to $10 billion — he has never set an exact figure — before Congress moves on taxes.

This collides with Johnson's insistence that Congress first finish appropriating, then let the executive judge where to cut — and meanwhile that the tax increase be approved.

The underlying issues are broader, Johnson, who developed his political philosophy in President Franklin D. Roosevelt's New Deal, is determined that the massive programs he launched against poverty, for education and in welfare will survive the Vietnam-troubled times and endure to be his monument.

Mills is Conservative

Mills, whose first job was to help keep a small town Arkansas bank afloat during the depression of the 1930's, leans markedly to the conservative side in fiscal matters. But he is no blind Southern reactionary.

He does not insist on a budget balanced every year. He has carefully repeated over and over that he is not demanding that the welfare programs bear the brunt of the economies he advocates.

Mills accepted enough of the new economics to pilot to passage the tax reduction of 1964 — despite an unbalanced budget. He wrote into the bill a statement of principles: As the economy grows and provides more government revenues, some should be spent but some should be returned to the private sector in continued tax reductions. Encouragement to private business rather than government spending was to be the major guarantor of prosperity.

The 1964 tax reduction is generally considered an economic smash success. A sluggish economy took off, and though tax rates went down, tax revenue went up. It is for this bill, and for the principle he based it on and to which he constantly refers, that Mills wants to be remembered.

He feels he has been let down, that a commitment to hold down spending has gone by the board. Vietnam, he insists, can be charged with only part of the responsibility for the huge deficit now threatening and demanding the tax increase that would reverse Mills' preferred course.

Have Drawn Apart

So the President and the congressman primarily responsible for tax legislation, two Washington veterans whose easy working arrangements were a byword, have drawn apart. Associates say there has been practically no direct communication between them since the tax message was sent to Congress Aug. 3.

Mills' indirect messages have been increasingly sharp. The most cutting was his committee's recent shelving of the tax bill "until such time as the President and the Congress reach an understanding" on spending cuts. Mills says the action represents the overwhelming sentiment of the House — and he does not bring out of his committee bills the House won't pass.

Moscow Real Culprit Behind World Disarmament Failure

Chicago Daily News Foreign Service

GENEVA — Why have all serious attempts at disarmament, started since the second World War, failed in a welter of disagreement and recrimination?

Who is to blame? Could the United States have done better?

What if anything can be done at this late stage to get things moving?

All of these questions posed themselves at Geneva this week as the 17-nation disarmament committee struggled to agree on a treaty to restrict the further spread of nuclear arms.

The fact that its modest effort appeared to be bogged down provided a dreary and discouraging finale to more than 20 years of effort, real and phony, but largely real, to scale down and finally eliminate the military arsenals of the world.

The first answer would appear to be this:

Disarmament is not an end in itself. The United States has fought two world wars, another war in Korea and the present war in Vietnam because it has believed that world freedom and the basic interests of the United States itself make it necessary. In three of those cases partial American disarmament contributed to the outbreak of hostilities. The United States was fully prepared in only one case, that of Vietnam.

While the United States agrees to disarmament in principle, security comes first. Second, safe disarmament implies that any agreement should involve a system of control and inspection.

The United States has insisted upon the need for verification ever since a United Nations Commission for Conventional Armaments was set up on Feb. 13, 1947.

This committee created a subcommittee which held its first meeting on April 23, 1954, in London. It consisted of the United States, Britain, France, Canada and the Soviet Union. On June 11 an Anglo-French plan was presented calling for balanced nuclear and conventional disarmament by stages, with verification by a control organ at the end of each stage. The Russians then presented a counter plan which confirmed what everybody had suspected. The Russians were not willing to accept any real control system worthy of the name.

However, on Dec. 20, 1961, the United States and Russia agreed to set up an 18-nation disarmament subcommittee. The United Nations General Assembly ordered this committee to work out a plan for general and complete disarmament under effective international control. The 18-nation committee became the 17-nation committee now meeting in Geneva, when France haughtily refused to participate.

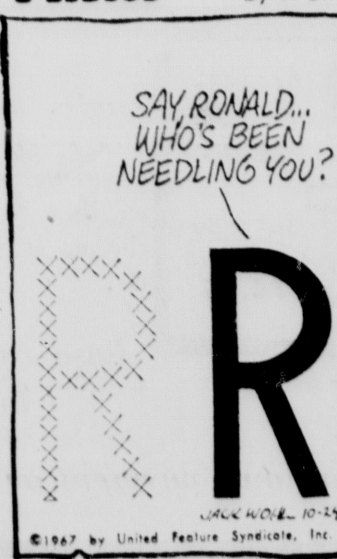

The first session of this committee was held in Geneva between March 14 and June 15, 1962, and it has been meeting periodically since.

France and Red China are both nuclear powers but have no part in the discussions and could not be expected to submit to inspection or control. Japan and India, which are two likely new members of the "Atomic Club," won't renounce the right to have nuclear weapons as long as Red China has them. Israel won't forego such weapons as long as Egypt, Iraq and Syria may get them from Russia.

So the whole thing looks hopeless.

Officials Asked To Appear at Clear Air Meet

Tops on the agenda of the Ulster County Citizens' Committee for Clean Air is introduction of by-laws for approval by the membership and an anticipated report from the Air Pollution Committee of the Kingston City Common Council at the next meeting of the Citizens' Committee to be held Wednesday, Oct. 25, at 8 p. m.

Catholics Capture Big Bloc in Viet

BY JOHN T. WHEELER
Associated Press Writer

SAIGON (AP) — Roman Catholics, who total just 2 million of South Vietnam's 17 million people, appeared today to have won the largest bloc of seats in the House of Representatives as they did in the Senate. But the House is a political patchwork with no faction in the majority.

The 137-member House, said one local newspaper, "will be really representative of the confused political situation in Vietnam."

The Catholics captured about 20 per cent of the House seats.

ballot tabulations showed Monday, while radical Buddhists opposed to President-elect Nguyen Van Thieu, a Catholic, nailed down about 20 seats, and army officers won 15. But the latter's support for Thieu, who was an army general, is unpredictable.

The Hoa Hao and Cao Dai religious sects got a handful of seats. Both of these sects have tried to remain aloof from the war but have lately been sliding into the government camp.

The Catholics include many refugees from North Vietnam and are among the most staunchly anti-Communist of all groups. They would not take kindly to negotiations yielding too much to the Communists. The Catholics' strong showing in the elections reflects their good political organization. The Buddhists are split into radical, moderate and other factions.

The House members are also divided along geographic lines: northerners and southerners. And it is impossible to predict how the House will work with the government of Thieu and Vice President-elect Nguyen Cao Ky, now premier and nominal Buddhist. It seems that Thieu can count on the Catholics to support him on some issues but not on all.

Resort Worker Death Probed

Ellenville State Police BCI officers and Ulster County Coroner Arthur C. Chipp, Kerhonkson, today investigated the death of Frederick Thomas Swanston, an employee at the Granit Hotel, whose body was discovered in a water line ditch.

Coroner Chipp, who investigated with BCI Investigator Michael Bonney and uniformed troopers, said James Watkins of Spring Glen found the body of Swanston after 6 a. m. in a ditch on the Cherry Lawn Bungalow Trailer Colony property at Spring Glen.

"Chipp said the body was in a 'grotesque position' when found.

The body was removed to the county morgue at Kingston Hospital where an autopsy was to be conducted to determine cause of death.

According to the coroner, Swanston left his room last night to visit a friend, Charles Upshaw of Spring Glen. He didn't return to his room and his whereabouts was not known until the body was discovered on the property by Thomas and Rose Archer.

Cause of the man's death and circumstances surrounding his death were under investigation this afternoon.

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — Thirty witnesses gathered here today to testify at a legislative hearing on two controversial sections of the state's new penal law.

Mayor Frank A. Sedita of Buffalo, Al Scaglione, president of the New York Police Conference and Prof. Travis Lewin of the Syracuse University Law School were among those scheduled to speak before the Senate Codes Committee.

A similar session was conducted in New York City on Sept. 21 and more may be scheduled later, a committee spokesman said.

Domestic Woes:

bodies of Mrs. Taber, who was estranged from her husband, Raymond, and Keady, indicated both had died sometime last night from strangulation, due to hanging.

City authorities said Mrs. Perkins was taken to Kingston Hospital suffering stab wounds in the back. Hospital officials or police would not disclose the nature of the woman's injuries. Detectives said they believe the South Manor Avenue tragedy resulted from a domestic quarrel.

It was about 10:50 p. m. yesterday that police were dispatched to the Perkins residence after receiving a telephone call.

According to Coroner Chipp investigation disclosed that a long-bladed knife was used in the incident at the Perkins home. Whether more than one knife was used was not disclosed by investigators.

The Perkins have no children. Sheriff Lawrence B. Quinlan of Dutchess County, who directed investigation of the double-tragedy in the Town of LaGrange with County Medical Examiner Dr. Chester H. Golding Jr., and Assistant District Attorney Albert Rosenblatt, disclosed details of the bizarre case.

Quinlan said Keady had been staying at the Taber home. At 6 p. m. yesterday, Mrs. Taber's four children, Ruth, 17, Raymond, III, 15, Ruby, 8 and Ann, 11, left home to go to a party. They returned home about 9 p. m., and found their mother and Keady apparently had retired as the bedroom door was closed.

ing to bed. Shortly after 7 a. m. today the four children awoke and prepared for breakfast before going to school. They missed their mother and as the oldest of the children tried the door of the bedroom after receiving no response to calling, they found the door locked.

Quinlan said the children pushed on the door until it gave way so that one of them could insert a fork in an opening and lift a latch. As they entered the room they were confronted with the shocking sight.

Mrs. Taber and Keady were both dead, hanging from the ends of a nylon clothesline. Neighbors were called and told of the tragedy. Calls were made to the sheriff's office, and Quinlan, Chief Investigator Charles Borchers, and Sergeant Albert Traver rushed to the Taber home.

Noting that both victims of the double-tragedy were clothed, Quinlan said the nylon rope had been tossed over a beam in an opening of the ceiling of a bedroom closet. One end was noosed around the neck of Mrs. Taber, the other was tied around Keady's neck.

"They were facing each other, not far apart," the sheriff said. "Both died sometime during the night, probably before midnight."

Double-suicide or suicide and homicide? That was the question Dutchess authorities were trying to answer but Quinlan said, "I am not satisfied it is double-suicide."

The sheriff said there was no indication that a struggle had preceded the hangings. He also noted that questioning of the four Taber children showed that neither their mother or Keady had given any indication of the pending tragedy.

Quinlan, who said Keady was employed as a serviceman for a local oil company, told newsmen that a stool found near the bedroom closet, might have been used for one of the two victims to stand on and then step off into sudden death by strangulation.

Duck Hunter Shot

While duck hunting in the Hudson River off Esopus on Monday, Bernard Symanski, 47, of 259 First Avenue, was accidentally shot in the left hand as his gun discharged. BCI Investigator W. E. Wiedemann of the Kingston State Police investigated. He said Symanski was in a boat on the river and as he reached for his gun to shoot at a duck the gun went off and the bullet hit him between the thumb and forefinger of the left hand. The investigation will continue, Wiedemann said.

Wait Sentencing

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — Three brothers await sentencing Nov. 10 for second-degree murder in the shooting of a bartender last Dec. 19 after their conviction by an Erie County Court jury.

The panel deliberated three hours Monday before deciding that Jerome Bussy, 20; his brother Delphine, 17; and their half-brother, Henry L. Rogers, 22, all of Buffalo, were guilty in the death of Nathaniel Jackson, 32.

Jackson was shot twice with a revolver as he tended bar at a tavern on the city's near East Side, police said.

The convictions carry a prison sentence of from 20 years to life. The three-week trial was heard before Judge Burke I. Burke.

The governor's office too, told of this survey, which is to be a "sight" survey because personal records do not indicate race designation.

Defending Rockefeller further. Mangum recalled that 26 of 36 enactments to the State Law Against Discrimination were signed into law by the governor.

"A record that far exceeds that of any previous administration."

Mangum took the congressman to task further for misnaming the agency. "The name of the commission was changed by an act of the legislature to the State Commission for Human Rights, more than five years ago," he said. "That is about as far as Rep. Resnick is behind the times."

Resnick, who said his investigation had not been "very extensive," reached his conclusions after obtaining employment statistics from the Thruway and Bridge Authorities and one unit of the State University system.

He said he would notify Rockefeller his findings "to express my concern and to find out what will be done about this situation."

Will Ask Full Report
Rockefeller would also be asked for a full report on job practices and alleged discrimination patterns in all state agencies, as well as county-operated agencies throughout the state, Resnick said.

"The blame for this entire situation must lie with the governor, who has given lip service to the idea of equal job opportunity but who has failed to back his words up with effective action," he added.

"He has successfully built for himself an image as a great champion of Civil Rights and equality. Nevertheless, he has allowed this discrimination to go on right under his nose in major state agencies. The chairmen of these authorities are the personal appointees of the governor and he has the power to correct these practices merely by lifting a telephone," Resnick concluded.

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Michael Sugarman, head of the Albany County anti-poverty program, was free in the custody of his attorney today after pleading innocent in Police Court to a disorderly conduct charge for allegedly failing to move when told to do so by a police officer.

Sugarman, appointed Sept. 5 to the $11,200-a-year post, spent the night in jail when he failed to post $100 bail.

He is a Harvard graduate who taught at Skidmore College and Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute before taking the anti-poverty post.

Arrested with him was Robert G. Dobbs, 24, of Albany, a member of The Brothers civil rights group. Dobbs also pleaded innocent Monday to a disorderly conduct charge and was continued in $100 bail. He had posted the bail Sunday night.

Quick Action Averts Serious Cantine Fire

Timely arrival and quick action by Saugerties firemen in command of Chief Homer Van Voorhis Monday night, averted what might have developed into a serious fire at the Cantine Company paper mill in that village.

One of several reported in the area, including three in the City of Kingston, at least one of which was termed of incendiary origin, Glasco fire units quelled a grass fire after 3 p. m. and Mutual Aid reported New Paltz firefighters were called out shortly after 2:35 p. m. for a bottled gas fire.

Saugerties Fire Commissioner Donald McCaig said all fire companies in that community were called out on a general alarm at 7:30 p. m. after the County Fire Control Center was notified that a fire was in progress at Cantine's. McCaig said when firemen arrived they discovered roof timbers inside the boiler house were smoldering near the main stack.

Firemen used a booster line to quickly quell the fire. McCaig said when the fire companies arrived at the plant, hoses were immediately laid and prepared for immediate use if needed. "The men did a remarkable job in checking the fire," the commissioner said. "If the fire had broken out early in the morning, or if it had not been discovered as soon as it was, we would undoubtedly have had a bad fire."

A fire official said he understood that work had been done on the smoke stack in the boiler room, and just prior to the fire a slight explosion was heard.

Fire damage was confined to the interior timbers of the roof.

Small Boy Sought

A small boy, seen running from the scene, is being sought as a suspect in the attempted arson of an East Chester Street home, firemen declared this morning.

Official said the department was summoned to 71 East Chester Street Monday afternoon when neighbors spotted a fire inside the dwelling. Firemen said leaves had been piled against the house.

According to officials, a small boy was seen running from the site. Firemen stated neighbors could not identify the youth, but added that all information had been turned over to police. The building, presently unoccupied, was not damaged, authorities disclosed. Firemen said most of the fire had been extinguished by area residents prior to the department's arrival.

At 9:01 p. m. firemen were called to Furnace Street where another leaf fire was in progress, a spokesman continued. Firemen said leaves and rags had ignited near the curb. The fire's origin is unknown, an official stated.

2 Persons Hurt In 32 Crash

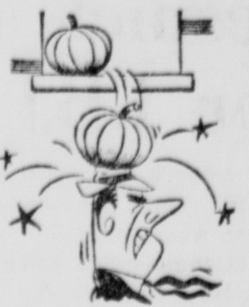

Two persons were injured at 3 p. m. Monday after the 1964 car in which they were riding was involved in a collision with a pickup truck on Route 32 at the southbound entrance to the State Thruway at Saugerties.

Kingston State Police said the car was driven by Patrick Gorman, 27, of 3070 Decatur Avenue, the Bronx, and the truck was operated by Robert Wade, 20, of P. O. Box 446, Saugerties. Injured and taken to Kingston Hospital by the Saugerties Ambulance Service were Gorman, who was treated for a laceration of the forehead and bruises of the knees and Mary Gorman, who suffered shoulder injuries and lacerations of the hands and legs, according to Sgt. Donald Paulsen. Trooper C. W. Bremer investigated and reported Wade was driving north on Route 32, and Gorman was attempting a left turn when the vehicles collided.

Resnick Scores Funds Cutback For LBJ Anti-Poverty Program

The cutback of anti-poverty program funds proposed by Congress was scored this week in a statement by Ellenville Congressman Joseph Y. Resnick.

Led by the same forces that have opposed the War on Poverty from the very beginning, the House has moved to cut the OEO's budget back to a level of $1.2 billion. Thanks to our Republican colleagues it looks now as if the first anti-poverty aid will have to go to the anti-poverty agency itself. It is a crime and a disgrace that with the nation's domestic problems growing at a faster rate than ever before, and the nation's economy entering its 81st consecutive month of record breaking prosperity, we can turn our backs on our poorest, most underprivileged, and neediest citizens.

I find it hard to believe that the American people will stand for this senseless and politically inspired cutback to our poor, especially if they know exactly what these so-called "economies" will mean in abandoned services and lost opportunities, particularly for our young people.

Because I believe if the American people knew the real cost of these irresponsible "economies," I have prepared this summary of the specific ways in which the war on poverty will be paralyzed by a budget cutback to 1.2 billion:

Job Corps—A total of 60 centers would be closed, sending 20,000 enrollees home. A capital investment of $40 million would be lost.

Neighborhood Youth Corps—A total of 250,000 poor youth would be denied assistance, including: 64,000 students enrolled in the In-School program. 165,000 poor youth needing summer jobs. 21,000 school drop-outs enrolled in the Out-of-School program.

Adult Training Programs—Job training assistance would be denied 120,000 hard-core adults in both urban ghettos and rural economically depressed areas.

Legal Services—In the Legal Services program we would have to close over 320 of the 850 currently funded law offices and lay off over 750 of the OEO's 2,000 currently funded attorneys. This would have to be accomplished through eliminating at least one hundred entire programs and closing some offices in many others. It would mean that nearly 300,000 fewer people would receive legal assistance during fiscal year '68.

Head Start Follow Through—The $4 million limit would:

1. Fund the existing pilot projects for 3,000 children for the school year 1967-1968.
2. Preclude any projects being run for the year 1968-69. 185,000-190,000 would be served under the President's budget.

Head Start—The $260 million

limit would:

1. Deny full year Head Start to 92,000 children who would be able to participate under the President's budget level.

2. Cost 9,000 non-professionals their jobs.

3. The greatest impact would be felt in large cities (up to 20-30 per cent) because of the impracticality of reducing smaller programs.

Local Initiative Funds—Program levels would be reduced by nearly 407 per cent. Additional impact of this action is:

1. Elimination of as many as 200-250 of the 1,050 community action organizations.

2. No special summer program.

3. No rural thrust.

4. No program for the aged.

Migrant Program—At the reduced level, the programs will deprive 15,000 migrants of adult basic education, day care, and housing—a 22 per cent reduction. It would be necessary to eliminate almost all small grantees.

Rural Loans—1. Number of individual loans cut by 6,700 (12,000 to 5,300).
2. Number of Cooperative loans cut by 200 (400 to 200).

VISTA—All of VISTA's new regional training centers would have to be disbanded and the $2 million already committed would be lost. Nearly 1,300 applicants already invited for training later in the fiscal year would now have to be turned down. Approximately 50 per cent of all VISTA projects would have to be closed, depriving an estimated 1.5 million poor people in 300-400 communities of VISTA assistance. The VISTA Associates Program would be abolished.

UPWARD BOUND—The $20 million limit would:

1. Deny participation to 12,000 students who would be served under the President's budget.
2. Eliminate 7,000 students from existing programs. (The 1967 level was 23,000 students).

Comprehensive Health—The $30 million limit would:

1. Curtail operations in the 10 health centers now taking patients and training the poor for subprofessional jobs.
2. Delay progress of the other 33 programs which are not yet operational.

Patterns Supports JDA Proposition

The 15-member executive committee of Mid-Hudson Pattern for Progress, Inc., a citizen's regional planning agency, has thrown its support behind a proposal to increase the lending power of the New York Job Development Authority to $200 million.

The proposal, which will appear on the November 7 ballot as a constitutional amendment,

Cash for Cash

NEW YORK (AP) — During a recent visit here, country-western singer Johnny Cash was robbed of his wallet, which contained money, checks and his identification.

He went to his recording company, Columbia, which gave him a check. But then he had the problem of cashing it without identification. So Columbia also gave him a record album with his picture on it, "Johnny Cash's Greatest Hits." He used that to prove his identity at the nearest bank, and got the check cashed.

The authority was originally established in November, 1961 by voter approval of another constitutional amendment, and went into operation January 1, 1962 with a total state-guaranteed bonding authorization of $50 million.

As it stands now, more than $40 million of this authorization already has been committed in an effort to place the state in a better competitive position to attract new industry, to help its existing industry expand and prosper, and to create more and better job opportunities.

JDA has approved over 300 loans to aid construction of new plants and acquire or expand existing facilities in amounts up to 30 per cent of the cost of land and buildings, according to a statement by Ronald B. Peterson, authority chairman, and State Department of Commerce commissioner.

In turn, this assistance has resulted in more than 13,000 new manufacturing jobs statewide, and the saving of another 5,500 jobs by enabling existing manufacturers to expand rather than discontinue operations or move out of the state.

Payrolls provided by these manufacturing jobs support an additional 40,000 jobs in the state's service and trade industries, Peterson explained in his statement.

The program also has spurred the growth of local nonprofit industrial development corporations, some 200 in number throughout the state. They are the only vehicle through which JDA loans can be made.

C. David Locks, Pattern's president, noted that a total of 17 JDA loans have been granted in the seven-county Mid-Hudson region in the last five years, 11 of them in Orange County.

The loans totaled $1,733,353, and involved projects totaling $5,777,843, Locks said, quoting JDA figures. This, in turn, created 624 new jobs and saved another 291 jobs.

Two of the largest loans in Orange County (each totaling $150,000) went to Spence Engineering Co., Inc., of Walden and Active Specialty Corp., which is in the process of moving its operation from Walden to Newburgh.

VAW United Aluminum Works of America, Inc., of Ellenville, Ulster County, received a loan of $294,000; and the V and O Press in Hudson, Columbia County, $360,000.

Only two of the region's seven counties — Dutchess and Sullivan — have not applied for assistance, according to JDA officials. Up until 1966, when the original act was amended, Dutchess and other counties with relatively high employment rates could not qualify for loans. Now, the employment rate is no longer a factor in eligibility.

Pattern for Progress, which is based at the State University College, New Paltz, is a citizen's regional planning, research and development corporation, specifically concerned with helping guide the orderly future development of the region's seven counties — Greene, Columbia, Ulster, Dutchess, Putnam, Orange and Sullivan.

Blood is one of those things that shouldn't have a price tag.

If you belong to our blood program... it won't.

Blood. Any time. Any amount you need. When you need it. And, at no cost. And, since the blood is collected by your local hospitals, it stays right in your community. That's the way it ought to be, and that's the way it is for members of the Blue Cross Blood Program.

Now, you and your family are eligible for unlimited amounts of blood. Whether it's the usual three or four pints necessary for a transfusion, or whether you need as much as twenty to thirty for major surgery, it's no cost to you.

It's the newest Blue Cross benefit developed in cooperation with the Community Blood Council of Greater New York and its cooperating agencies. No other health plan has anything like it.

Here's how it works:

A small percentage of your company, union, or any Blue Cross group donates blood through the Blue Cross Blood Program. This automatically establishes coverage for all members and their families. Many large and small groups, as well as those people who belong to Blue Cross individually, have already signed up for this new benefit.

Shouldn't you?

For information on how your company, union or group can qualify, see your Blue Cross representative. Or write to: Blue Cross, 82 Washington Street, Poughkeepsie, N.Y. 12601. Or phone GLobe 4-0300.

Successful Investing....

by ROGER E. SPEAR Investment Advisor & Analyst
Trying for Fast Buck
Is Always Hazardous

Q—I must admit that I come under your heading of a speculator, or, I should add, not any more. In the past I was out for a fast buck, but have realized that growth in stocks is the key to my future. I now own RCS, Holiday Inns, General Plywood, Applied Devices and Pancoast Tete. Do you recommend selling the last three? — L. O.

A—You have expressed very cogently the danger of trying for a fast buck. Every time you buy a speculative stock, someone is selling it and quite often that someone is better informed than yourself. You cannot realize very much from the sale of the last three stocks on your list—probably about $700. It is impossible for me to say with accuracy whether any of these situations will rebound. The market is indicating that they will not. I suggest you dispose of them and replace them with 20 shares of Del Monte—the world's leading packer of fruits and vegetables.

Q—I have at present $3,000 which I would like to invest.

This money came from an inheritance. I have had a wonderful time with part of this money and now I'm afraid that what's left will slip through my fingers. The only stocks and bonds I know about I'm afraid of. What do you advise? — A.R.

A—You've rather put me at a disadvantage. You're afraid of stocks and bonds and a savings account would obviously make it too easy for you to get at your money and see it slip away. I'm going to advise you very seriously to put $3,000 into Series H savings bonds. These bonds are registered in your name and you will receive a check semiannually from the government.

The yield is 4.15 percent, if held to maturity, and the bonds can be redeemed without advance notice after you have held them six months. Nothing to fear here, is there?

(Mr. Spear cannot answer all mail personally, but will answer all questions possible in his column.)

Financial Ruin Seen In Consumer Credit

AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — An American way of life has been built on consumer credit since World War II, but it has also become a typically American way of financial ruin for thousands of families.

Since 1946 consumer credit has risen from $8.4 billion to nearly $95 billion. Almost $30 billion of that debt has been run up since 1960. And since 1960 the number of bankruptcies has grown to 175,000 from 98,000.

The benefits of credit are clear, for it permits a family to enjoy a standard of life beyond its present savings and income. Its dangers are just as obvious and opposite: handled unwisely, credit leads to poverty.

Now that the number of families in financial trouble continues to rise, the extenders of easy credit are becoming worried—just as some analysts have been alarmed for years.

The result, fortunately, is the development of more nonprofit credit counselors.

A study by the Family Service Association of America, a voluntary and nonprofit group, shows that counseling services are operating in "more than 50 communities in the United States and Canada."

Some 32 family service agencies now counsel financially distressed families. Local credit bureaus, to some extent, have been helpful. Credit unions are developing programs. Consumer finance companies have helped.

The net result, however, has been almost insignificant compared to the mounting size of the problem. The most optimistic outlook is that, at least and at last, a start has been made.

In a study of such counseling services, the Family Service Association found that "for every family experiencing bankruptcy, 20 more, it is also believed, are being squeezed in the debt vise."

In its study of 65 families now being counseled, the association found that the median take-home pay was $400 a month; that is, 32 earned higher than that and 32 earned lower. The median non-mortgage debt was $3,600.

At $400 a month, a family's yearly income is $4,800, yet debt among those being counseled totaled $3,600 owed to 11 creditors.

Why were these families permitted to run up such debts? Did the credit agencies fail to make complete investigations? Did the borrower lie about the amount of his other debts? Are lending practices slipshod?

One might assume from the recent proliferation of credit cards, some of them unsolicited by consumers, that credit may be slipshod. Some "easy" terms are misleading; they are, in fact, quite difficult when it comes to paying.

If credit is to continue bringing the good life to America it would seem that all concerned—the lender as well as the borrower—should be more careful.

$265,528 For UR in Ellenville

Governor Nelson A. Rockefeller announced today that the State will provide $265,528 to the Village of Ellenville as a first progress payment on the Village's Central urban renewal project.

"This project is being undertaken to revitalize Ellenville's business district," Governor Rockefeller said. "The new moderate-income housing and pedestrian shopping mall that will be constructed in the project area will benefit the entire community and will provide a new look to the Village's center."

The first payment represents 85 per cent of the State's $312,386 urban renewal grant for the Central renewal project. The remaining funds will be paid after final audits on the project have been completed.

The 53.3 acre project area is bounded by Bear Kill Creek, Liberty Place and Canal, Water, Warren, Park, Center and Child Streets.

The State's program of urban renewal grants was instituted in 1960 to enable municipalities to take maximum advantage of available Federal funds for urban renewal. The State provides up to one-half of the municipal costs of such a program.

The State funds will be presented on Wednesday, October 25, to Mayor Eugene Glusker by Assistant State Housing Commissioner Albert E. Bibby.

Phone Worker Hurt in Fall

While working on a utility pole at Pine Hill on Monday, Leonard J. Byer, 49, of Windy Ridge Farm, Phoenicia, was injured when he fell about 15 feet to the ground.

Byer, an installer-repairman employed by the New York Telephone Company, was taken to the Margaretville Hospital and later transferred by Doctors Ambulance of Kingston to Benedictine Hospital.

According to a family member, Byer suffered a broken shoulder fractured collarbone and rib injuries. Further reports of x-rays are awaited.

Leaves Pickup Listed in City

The schedule for pickup of leaves has been released by the Board of Public Work indicating that leaves will be gathered in the city from Monday, Oct. 30 to Monday, Nov. 20.

The Second Ward will be cleaned on the 30th. Wards 12 and One on Nov. 2; Wards 11 and 10 on Nov. 8; Wards Nine, Eight, Seven and 13 on Nov. 13 and Wards Three, Four and Five on the 20th of November.

The schedule will be followed, weather permitting. In case of any changes the public will be notified.

The public is asked to refrain from raking leaves into the gutter too far in advance of the pickup so as to keep the fire hazard to a minimum and to maintain normal drainage.

Vote Starts Today On Pact at Ford

DETROIT (AP) — The 160,000 United Auto Workers who struck Ford Motor Co. 48 days ago begin voting today on a new contract that would send most streaming back to their jobs by the weekend.

The danger of a veto by skilled tradesmen existed but union leaders discounted this possibility.

The contract contains a guaranteed annual income, effective in December of 1968, and the company says it would make them "among the best paid and best protected of all U.S. industrial wage earners."

The union's leadership agrees, and the UAW's 200-member National Ford Council overwhelmingly recommended ratification Monday night, despite the "No!" shouts of an estimated 200 to 250 dissident skilled tradesmen who were beaten off when they attempted to storm the meeting.

Fists flew briefly. At least three men were knocked down and several noses bloodied.

Council delegates and UAW international representatives came storming out in a flying wedge as the loudly chanting tradesmen-pickets followed television cameramen into a lobby off the council's downtown meeting hall and threatened to force its doors.

About 20,000 skilled tradesmen and 140,000 production workers employed by Ford will vote separately on the new three-year pact.

Inventory Move Found Success at Area School

At the February meeting of the Ontario Board of Education, Erik Stoutenburgh of Glenford was appointed to a newly created position of Stores Clerk. Since this appointment he has made a complete equipment and furniture inventory of the elementary schools of the district and is now in the process of completing a furniture and equipment inventory at the central building in Boiceville.

The results of the inventory at the elementary schools have provided the board of education with more exact records and have given them specific information on values which will result in the broadening of insurance coverage.

At the Central Building in Boiceville many hours have been spent cleaning, cataloging, and properly storing all equipment in the basement of the building. Many obsolete items have been sold to the highest bidder. This has been done

Daring Gang

LIVERPOOL, England (AP) — A gang of thieves apparently felt confident after stealing $64,400 worth of cigarettes from a Liverpool brewery in daylight Sunday a block from the central police station.

Many brewery employees saw the gang take the cigarettes and drive off with them in a company truck and nobody tried to stop them.

So the thieves stole a second through legal advertisements of sale in the local newspapers. A great deal of furniture has been repaired, refinished and placed in the classrooms of the new addition, thereby eliminating the expenditure for new furniture.

Some other items of equipment have been reconditioned and placed in service in the kitchen of the West Hurley Elementary School and in the new kitchen at the high school.

The basement area of the Central Building has been modified to provide adequate dry storage for the school district and plans are being made to implement a central supply program for all schools which will result in better inventory control and lower costs of operation for the district.

Young People Hear Talk on Narcotics

The young people of the First Baptist Church of Kingston were addressed Sunday by District Attorney Joseph P. Torraca and Investigator Thomas Mayone of the district attorney's office.

District Attorney Torraca's topic was Narcotics and the Teenagers. Investigator Mayone showed members of the Baptist Youth Fellowship, the Junior and Senior High School group and their guests, the members of the Youth Fellowship of Trinity Methodist Church, colored slides and discussed and gave a talk on various kinds of narcotics which are in general use today.

Following the talks a period for questions was held.

Squad Car Heist

CHICAGO (AP) — Policeman Michael Debella spotted two young men early Sunday who appeared to have sampled too much wine. So, he placed one of the youths in his police car and set out on foot after the second.

But while Debella was on the chase, the squad car pulled away with engine roaring and tires shrieking.

The car was found later, abandoned.

TODAY IN HISTORY

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS: In 1952, presidential candidate Dwight D. Eisenhower said he would go to Korea to seek an end to the Korean war if elected.

Today's highlight in history: On this date, in 1945, the United Nations Charter went into force as the Soviet became the 29th nation to ratify it.

On this date: In 1603, James I was proclaimed King of England, Scotland, France and Ireland.

In 1648, in the Peace of Westphalia, Europe recognized the independence of the Netherlands.

In 1861, the first telegrams were sent across the United States.

In 1929, Wall Street prices collapsed as more than 19 million shares of stock changed hands.

Slate 1968 State Parley Here

Preparations for the 1968 convention of the Department of New York Marine Corps League to be held in Kingston, were discussed at a staff meeting Saturday night in Rochester.

Gilbert E. Gray, who attended the session with Joseph Sullivan, representatives of the Ulster Detachment, has been selected chairman of the convention to be held in July in this city. It is expected that each Detachment will send delegates to the annual convention.

Gray reported at the Saturday session that plans were moving along smoothly on every front and plans are progressing for events to be held as features in addition to the regular schedule of meetings.

Sullivan reported on the activities of other detachments in the Eastern area of New York State and noted that New York State led the nation in 1966 in membership and efforts are being made to retain the membership leadership this year.

Department Commandant Edward Bange announced the 1968 national convention will be held at Bridgeport, Conn.

Savings Banks are people banks.

If Savings Banks had a theme song, it might well be "Home, Sweet Home."

Because Savings Banks are people banks. They specialize in providing personal financial services to help people at every stage of family life. That includes helping them take the biggest single financial step most families ever take—buying a new home.

More than 8½ million people in New York State live in homes and apartments built or bought with Savings Bank mortgage money. That's almost half the people in the state!

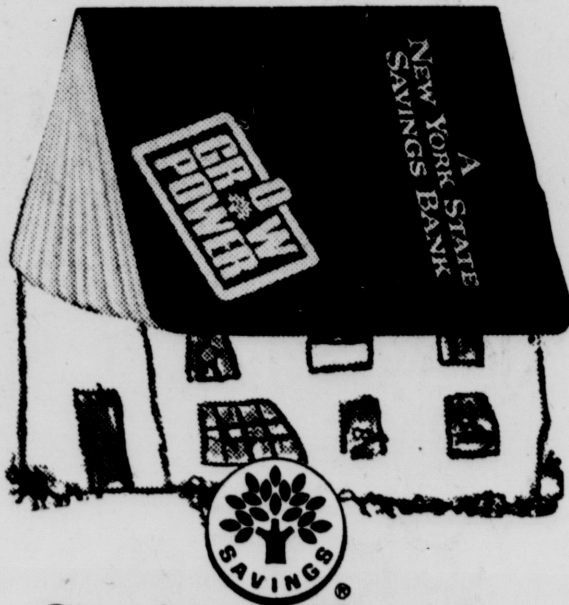

Savings Banks have invested more money in homes than all other banks, savings associations and insurance companies in the state combined.

And Savings Banks help people modernize and expand their homes, too. Thousands of homeowners have been able to increase the size (and value) of their homes thanks to low-cost Savings Bank home improvement loans.

Millions more save in Savings Banks and earn the highest interest-dividends paid by any banks in the state.

In fact, more people in New York State save in Savings Banks than in all other banks combined. Latest figure: 11 million accounts.

If there were no Savings Banks, somebody would have to invent them. Because Savings Banks are people banks . . . banks of Grow-Power and progress for the people of New York State.

A WINNER IN STEEL

Alligerville Span One of 11 In Country to Receive Award

Awards come Ulster County's way in many categories. The most recent was won by a bridge.

The Alligerville Bridge on County Road 29A, spanning the Rondout Creek, was one of 11 bridges in the nation to receive the American Institute of Steel Construction Award of Merit for 1967.

Short Span Division

The local span was named in the short span bridge division. Prize bridges were selected in six categories with 11 receiving awards of merit from a total of 144 entries. All were opened to traffic in 1966.

Judges noted this year's entries in the AISC Prize Bridge Competition were exceptional in both esthetics and safety.

The six prize bridges will have stainless steel plaques affixed to them as a permanent tribute. Designers, owners, general contractors and fabricators of all 17 winning bridges will receive award certificates.

Replaced 89-Year-Old Bridge

The new steel span in Alligerville replaced an 89-year-old wooden bridge with metal superstructure. The original bridge was originally ordered by catalogue from the Wrought Iron Bridge Co., Canton, O., and placed on abutments poured by the town highway crews.

The steel and concrete replacement was constructed 100 feet downstream by the V. J. Costanzi Corporation, Poughkeepsie. Ninety-foot long steel girders were fabricated by the American Bridge Division, U. S. Steel, Pittsburgh, Pa., and set in place with huge cranes.

The modern bridge was designed by the Office of the Deputy Chief Engineer (Bridges), New York State Department of Public Works, Albany and is owned by the Department of Highway Bridges of Ulster County.

College at Dutchess Given Recognition

Dutchess Community College received recognition Saturday as "an outstanding example of the comprehensive community college" from a dean of the State University of New York.

Dr. James A. Frost, recently acting president at the State College at New Paltz and presently SUNY dean for four-year colleges, gave the principal address at the dedication ceremonies for two new buildings at Dutchess.

Speaking on "The Ghosts of Academe," he told his audience of students, faculty, and guests that Dutchess has had the courage to break with tradition.

Others who spoke were Dr. Kenneth T. Doran, State University associate dean for two-year colleges; Dr. Robert H. McCambridge, State Education Dept. assistant commissioner for higher education planning; Ralph Dean, president of the age to try new concepts in higher education while not entirely breaking with all that tradition contributes.

"It is altogether fitting that Dutchess should be dedicating a new library and a new gymnasium," said Dr. Frost. "The ancient Greeks, who contributed so much to the idea of higher education, always stressed the value of a sane mind in a sound body."

At the ceremonies, David C. Schoenag, chairman of the Dutchess County Board of Supervisors, formally presented the library and Falcon Hall, the physical education facility.

Day Division Student Association; Theodore Schubert, chairman of the Executive Council of the Evening Student Association; Floyd Grant, president of the Dutchess Alumni Association; and Dr. James F. Hall, college president.

Following the program, guests had the opportunity to tour the library and Falcon Hall and to watch an exhibition by the Danish Gym Team in the new physical education building.

Those who served on the planning committee for the dedication program are: co-chairmen Anthony A. Adamo and Philip Magnarella, Alfred Lane, Jack C. Miller, John Nadeau, William Nichols, Jane Roush, Marion Russell, Beatrice Sheffield, Richard Skimin, and Ewing Smith, all of the Dutchess staff.

Also students Ralph Dean, Patricia Maldonado, and Ethel Ruane, as well as alumna Susan Lucy.

Local Teacher Serves As Curriculum Aide

Mrs. Viola Opdahl, a member of the social studies department at Kingston High School, will be a consultant at a workshop on the new social studies curriculum to be held at Cathedral High School in New York City Nov. 1.

Mrs. Opdahl was a member of the original committee which met last spring in Albany to work out the details of the first revision of the new curriculum in 11th grade social studies, and she has since served as consultant at a workshop at the Fox Lane School in Westchester County. The workshop at Cathedral is co-sponsored by the New York State Education Department and the Archdiocese of New York.

The "new" social studies aims to increase student understanding of the events of history through this careful investigation of the facts of history. It emphasizes scientific inquiry, use of primary sources whenever possible, and development of the student's own conclusions through this inquiry.

Mrs. Opdahl gave a concrete example of the new curriculum as it applied to the study of the Presidency. "We begin with a concept—for example, leadership. What is leadership, how do we recognize it in local and national politics? From this we go to an understanding of this concept as applied to our own government by considering the roles of strong Presidents in determining foreign and domestic policy. Last, we hope, the student is able to form his own generalization based on his careful investigation of the events of our history. He might conclude that confidence in government is often a result of positive leadership. This idea drawn from his own thinking about American History, will enable him to establish standards of judgment for future events."

Thinking Man

Mrs. Opdahl's enthusiasm for this "thinking man's" approach to history was very obvious in her discussion of its use in her own classes. "I have found over the past year more student participation and interest and greater understanding of the relationship between the material they study and their life outside the classroom. They also seem better able to express their ideas in writing."

This new approach to instruction in social studies is one aspect of the growing emphasis on student understanding which can be found in all the areas of study in the Kingston Schools.

Mayors Back Transit Issue

The Transportation Bond Issue, or Proposition 1 on this year's ballot, received a boost today in the form of an endorsement from the New York State Conference of Mayors.

In a telegram sent to Governor Nelson A. Rockefeller, the president of the Conference, Mechanicville Mayor John H. Connors, said that the organization "by unanimous action of its executive committee, wholeheartedly supports the state $2.5 billion transportation bond issue."

The telegram further stated, "Mayors and other officials of cities and villages will be asked to join in this Conference-led effort, and to encourage support in their communities on Election Day for this important referendum question."

The New York State Conference of Mayors and other municipal officials, now in its 58th year, is the state's official association of cities and villages of which more than 400 are presently members.

It serves as the clearing house for data and developments on local government, functions as the liaison with the state and federal government, conducts training sessions and special seminars, and publishes informational materials and reports, all in keeping with the objectives of fostering and promoting progress in local government.

Included on the executive committee of the Conference is Mayor Eugene Glusker of Elmhurst.

Mrs. Gloria Starling, president, represented the Colonial Valley Chapter of the National Secretaries Association (International) at the 1967 Northeast District Conference October 20-22 at the Americana Hotel in New York City. Alternate delegate was Mrs. Beatrice Edwards, vice president of the Colonial Valley Chapter, NSA.

The keynote address of the conference was, "The Price of Excellence," by Dr. Reuben Gornitzka of Hoover Worldwide Corporation. Dr. Gornitzka, author of several books, is known as "Pastor of the Celebrities." At the CPS luncheon, honoring the CPS's of 1937 and 1967, Dr. Donald B. Roark, Dean, Institute for Certifying Secretaries, discussed, "If I Were A Secretary." The topic for discussion by Dr. Edward F. Feathers of Resource Associates at the afternoon workshop on Saturday was "Secretary: Communications Link or Block." Friday was a time for early bird sessions and round table discussions on NSA future plans, especially in the areas of the Certified Professional Secretary and Future Secretaries Association programs.

On Sunday the group heard the reports of the Northeast Dis-

Former Area Resident Married in Florida

Miss Gretchen Baer Schwartz, daughter of Robert and Jeanne Baer Schwartz, 411 Southeast 8th Avenue, Pompano Beach, Fla., and formerly of Kingston, was married Saturday, Oct. 14, at First Presbyterian Church, Pompano Beach, Fla., to Ronald Frank, son of Frances and Alan Frank, Lighthouse Point, Fla.

The Rev. Wynblair Sutphin officiated at the ceremony. Arden Whitacre, organist, provided traditional wedding selections.

Area residents who attended the wedding included Mrs. Nancy Molyneux of West Hurley, Miss Melanie Gobie, Mr. and Mrs. Warren Simmons and daughters, Valri and Jodi, of Hurley.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor length, bridal white peau sheath gown fashioned with a cage of satin embroidered English net and long full sleeves. A court train of English net and embroidery detached from the back neckline of peau scallops. Her bouffant French illusion veil attached to a cluster of lace and jewel petals. She carried a bouquet of lily of the valley and a white orchid.

Mrs. James (Lynda) Frank, Deerfield Beach, Fla., was matron of honor for her sister. She wore a floor length princess skimmer styled with a high demi-rolled neckline and elbow length sleeves. The gown was fashioned of crepe peau in bouquet green color. Her headpiece, double crown bows, was of matching material.

MRS. RONALD FRANK

Miss Julia Frank, sister of the bridegroom, and Lynn Beaver, both of Pompano Beach, Fla., were attendants. Their gowns were fashioned identically to that of the honor attendant.

Jennifer Butts was flower girl. She wore a white silk organza gown fashioned similarly to that of the bride. A French circle bonnet served as her headpiece.

James Frank, Deerfield Beach, Fla., was best man for his brother. Ushers were Thomas Butts, Boca Raton, Fla., and William Beaver, Pompano Beach, Fla. Frankie McCarthy served as ringbearer.

After the wedding a reception for 150 guests was held at Lighthouse Point Yacht and Tennis Club, Lighthouse Point, Fla.

For her wedding trip to Nassau in the Bahamas, the bride selected a two-piece turquoise silk suit with matching accessories.

The bride attended Kingston High School for three years and was graduated from Pompano Beach High School and Broward Jr. College. She is employed by Dr. John A. McCarthy.

Her husband is an alumnus of Palm Cove Private School and Broward Jr. College.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank will reside in Nassau.

Cut Study Time With Know-How

Check up on yourself the next time you study. For all the time you spend on your books, how much of it is really effective, concentrated studying?

We'll take a look at the study environment you should have. If it's not the kind of study environment you do cause then your eyes are closer to the bottom of the page than the top, and you'll be constantly changing your focus down the page.)

The internal environment:
● If you have any problems or if anything's worrying you, get it off your chest before you start studying. For example, if you're wondering whether so-and-so will go out with you Saturday night, call her up and find out!

● If it's not the kind of problem you can take care of with a phone call (you might be waiting for him to call you), a good trick is to write down whatever is bothering you. Once it's down in black and white, you'll usually be able to stop worrying about it. Besides, problems rarely look very serious once they're written out.

● Or if you have a headache or if you're sleepy, take an aspirin or take a nap and hit the books later. Don't waste your time studying unless you're going to get something out of it.

There are two kinds of environment — the external and the internal. First the external.

● Study in a quiet room by yourself. NO television, NO distracting records and NO radio. Actually, it's better to have a slight, regular background noise than none at all. A slight noise, such as normal household or street sounds, will make you raise your whole level of concentration.

● There should be a good light, at least 100-watt, coming over your shoulder. If it's in front of you the glare will tire your eyes.

● Use a straight chair; a kitchen chair is perfect. In an easy chair you'll start daydreaming.

● Hold your book about 14 inches from your eyes and on a 45-degree angle from the table. (Your eyes will tire quickly if the book is laid flat, be-

Doing the Right Thing

OWNER SHOULD BE CONSULTED BEFORE BORROWING WEDDING DRESS

Dear Mrs. Post: I met a lady in the beauty parlor who said that she married off her daughter last year and, as her daughter went to live in Arizona, her wedding gown is at her mother's house. I had told her I am engaged and planning an April wedding. She said what a shame that a $450 wedding dress just lies in her closet. She practically begged me to wear her daughter's dress. She gave me her address and asked me to come over to try the dress on. Would it be proper for me to borrow it? If I do borrow it, as I expected to give her a gift, and if so, what do you suggest I get her? — Sandra

Dear Sandra: It seems to me it is up to the girl whose dress it is, rather than her mother, to make such an offer. Call the lady and tell her you would feel uncomfortable wearing the dress without specific permission from the bride. If the daughter agrees, you may borrow the dress. Be sure to have it clean and in perfect condition when you return it, and do send both mother and daughter a gift. A crystal vase, a silver picture frame, a leather album or a beautiful ornament would be appropriate thanks for the loan of such an expensive dress.

On Eating Doughnuts

Dear Mrs. Post: Recently, on a coffee break, a number of people were eating doughnuts with a fork and knife. I said that doughnuts were finger food. One woman replied, "Anyone who knows etiquette knows that the correct way to eat doughnuts is with a knife and fork." I have an etiquette book which does not mention doughnuts. It does mention cakes. Please help us with our problem. — Harriett

Dear Harriett: I don't know from which authority the woman got her information, but I've never heard of eating doughnuts with a knife and fork — unless they had a "gooey" icing. They are finger food, and no etiquette book in my library says otherwise!

A Wife Complains About Her Husband's Manners

Dear Mrs. Post: My husband feels it is all right to sit slouched on the couch when visiting friends or when watching a movie or play. I think this looks very rude. He also talks with a mouthful of food bulging his cheeks, or he may drink a beverage while he still has food in his mouth. Do you think I should have to tolerate these table manners? Another thing, when serving olives with a meal, I think they should be served with no fork. My husband thinks a fork should be placed on the dish. Who is right? — Jane

Dear Jane: 1. Your husband may slouch all he wants in his own home, but at a friend's home, or in a theater, he should sit reasonably erect. 2. You did not marry your husband to reform him. If you can't teach him table manners by good example, or a tactful hint, learn to live with them, and think of the things he does right. 3. Olives are finger food. They are not served with a fork.

May Girl Invite a Boy to The Theater?

Dear Mrs. Post: I'm a 16-year-old girl with a puzzling situation. My mother gets season tickets to the theater every year. Sometimes she is unable to go to the productions and says I may use the tickets. Is it proper for me to invite a boy to take me? Does he take me out to eat afterwards, or do I have to eat afterwards, or do I have to go steady and have no particular boy friend. There are several boys whom I have never dated, but would like to go out with. Could I ask one of them, or must I ask one I've gone out with before? — Valerie

Dear Valerie: This is one of the occasions when it is absolutely proper for a girl to ask a boy for a date. But you should choose a boy you have dated before or your invitation will look very "obvious." Make it clear whether your invitation includes a meal. If it doesn't, then he is responsible for paying if you decide to get a snack after the play.

Ladies Usually Wait To Be Escorted Up The Aisle

Dear Mrs. Post: When two ladies are attending a wedding and the usher takes one down the aisle, what does the other lady do? Does she wait for the usher to return, or does she follow the other lady and usher? I had this problem once and did not know what I should do, so I followed. Others must have wondered about this. — Ruby Whitehurst

Dear Miss Whitehurst: The second lady ordinarily waits for the next free usher to escort her. But if she sees none about to be free, or there are many others waiting, it is perfectly correct for her to walk down the aisle close behind her friend.

Two minutes later Fred Seegar pushed the ball past the arms of Gold after a cross by Steve Lonergan.

Seegar tallied his second goal at three minutes of the second period. Later in the same period, Dave Roberts caught a cross from Korzen-dorfer and rode it into the goal.

After the Comets tallied their only goal on a penalty kick by Ellie Patton in the fourth quarter, Bob Joyet of Gilmer.

500,000 Hunters Poised for Opener

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Thou-sands of red - coated hunters, spurred on today by bright fore-casts for both weather and hunt-ing, watched the clock creep toward sunrise Wednesday — the opening hour of deer and bear season in northern New York.

The Weather Bureau predict-ed Indian Summer tempera-tures in the 60s and 70s for open-ing day, but cooler and possibly showery weather was expected by the season's first weekend.

The Conservation Department said it expects the season to pro-duce a record harvest of deer.

Approximately 500,000 men, women and teen - agers are li-censed to hunt big game dur-ing the season ending Dec. 5.

Each has either held licenses during previous seasons or has passed a hunter - safety course prescribed by law.

Although the largest influx of hunters is expected over the weekend, motel and lodge own-ers said they expected a large turnout on opening day. Some hunters headed for the Adiron-dacks early today, planning on setting up camps in remote areas and scouting for signs of deer.

Booming Business

Gun smiths and sporting goods dealers have done a booming business during the pre-season weeks. A gun smith in suburban West Sand Lake said he has been busy from 8 a.m. through 9 p.m. daily for several weeks, installing tele-scopic sights, repairing weapons and selling guns and ammuni-tion.

He and many other hunters—possibly 3,000 — plan to start their hunting in the Moose River Plains area near the Adirondack community of Indian Lake. There, hunters have been grant-ed special permits to take antlerless deer as well as party permits authorizing parties of hunters to take additional deer.

Conservationists expect a large harvest of deer this year because recent mild winters have enabled the deer to multi-ply. Severe winters with heavy snow take a large toll through starvation.

Hunting hours are from sun-rise to sunset. Season limits per hunter are one deer carry-ing antlers at least 3 inches long and one bear.

In addition, however, there are five special "party permit" areas in the northern region. In these, parties of two to four hunters have acquired state per-mits authorizing their group to take one additional buck or doe. Other regulations cover the Moose River area.

The state's Northern Zone, in which the season opens Wednes-day at sunrise, extends north of a line through Washington, Sara-toga, Fulton, Herkimer, Oneida and Oswego counties and in-cludes all of the Adirondack Forest Preserve.

The season in the Southern Zone, including the rest of the state barring Westchester and Montgomery counties, New York City and Long Island, opens Nov. 20.

NEW YORK (AP) — The backup quarterback who sits on the bench with the headphones and thinks how much better he could do is finally getting a chance this season.

Kent Nix at Pittsburgh, Jim Hart at St. Louis, Gary Cuozzo at New Orleans, Daryle Lamoni-ca at Oakland, Pete Beathard at Houston and Steve Tensi at Denver all are getting a chance to play after riding the bench behind No. 1.

Nix was a taxi squad man at Green Bay last season, seen only during the week while the Packers charged through the National Football League and then beat Kansas City in the Super Bowl.

Traded to Pittsburgh, where he figured to be No. 2 to Bill Nelsen, Nix was promoted to first string when Nelsen's trou-lesome knee gave out again. The young man from Texas Christian set a Steeler record Sunday with 28 completions against Dallas.

Hart was supposed to tag along behind Charley Johnson at St. Louis. When Johnson was called into the Army, the Cards had to fall back on this untried rookie from Southern Illinois who had only one experience had been completing four of 11 passes in last year's finale with Cleveland. Hart passed for four touchdowns Sunday against Philadelphia.

Kilmer Failed

When the New Orleans Saints traded their No. 1 draft pick to Baltimore in the deal that brought Cuozzo to the Saints, they figured Johnny Unitas' un-judicious would take over the job. Billy Kilmer had such a fine preseason record that Coach Tom Fears went with him for a time but seems to have shifted over to Cuozzo.

Lamonica played second fid-dle to Jackie Kemp at Buffalo for years while the crowd hoot-ed. Now he is No. 1 at Oakland and throwing his weight around the American Football League.

He passed for four touchdowns Sunday in the rout of Boston. Beathard chafed under the restraining rope at Kansas City where he was behind Lenny Dawson. So he was traded to Houston. Although he completed only three of 14 passes Sunday, one was for a touchdown in the 24-19 victory over Dawson and his former mates.

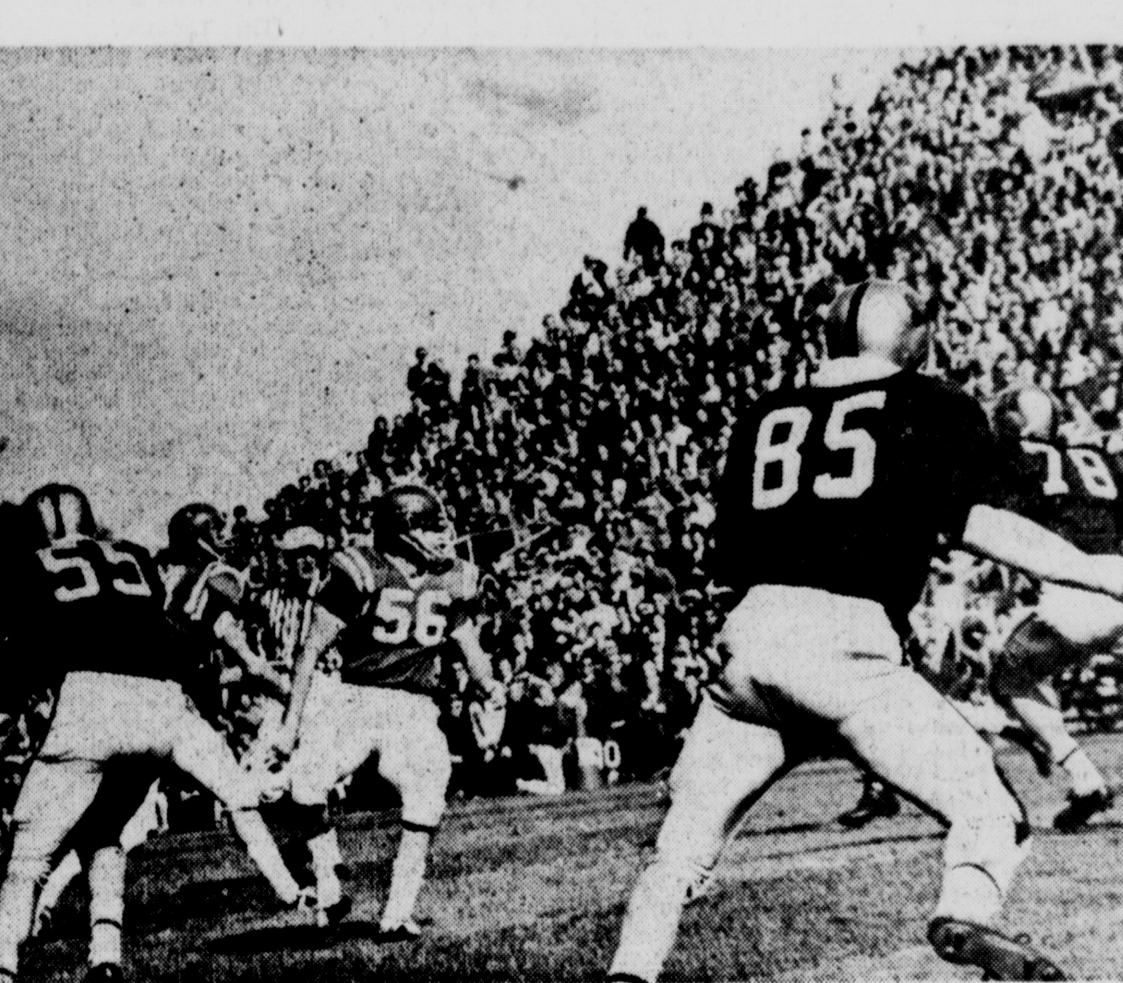

Tensi, injured after he was traded to Denver by San Diego, threw for 234 yards Sunday in a losing effort against the Charge-rs.

Meredith Not Playing

Craig Morton and Jerry Rhome are getting their chances while Don Meredith is out of action. Morton's third scoring pass Sunday beat Pitts-burgh.

Joe Kapp, a Canadian League star, has moved in as No. 1 at Minnesota. He hit with 15 of 25 for 203 yards and a touchdown and got a 20-20 draw in a duel with Baltimore's Johnny Unitas Sunday.

The return of Bart Starr sent Zeke Bratkowski to his normal backup role at Green Bay after two games as a starter.

UCCC Cross Country Team Nips Dutchess

John Roettger ran the fastest time of the year over the 3.2 Orange Community College course and the unbeaten harri-ers of Ulster Community College nipped the powerful Colts, 27-28, in a Mid Hudson Conference dual meet Monday.

In gaining their eighth straight verdict, the Senators turned in their best effort of the season. Coach Dick Glazer cited the en-tire squad with special praise to Roettger and Tom Garofalo, who finished third.

The Senators will entertain

USC, UCLA

West Coast Elevens Pacing AP Grid Poll

Unbeaten Southern California, unanimous choice as the na-tion's top college football team in the latest Associated Press poll, has what appears to be a breather coming up this Satur-day.

At that, though, the Trojans will be more vulnerable than second-ranked UCLA. The Bru-ins, who replaced Purdue in the No. 2 position, are not sched-uled, USC goes up against Ore-gon, loser of five games in a row before its 31-6 victory over Idaho last weekend.

The Trojans, 6-0 after defeat-ing Washington 23-6 last Satur-day, drew first-place votes from all 37 sports writers and broad-casters on the AP's national panel in the latest poll.

Bruins Are 6-0

UCLA collected 303 points on a basis of 10 for a first place vote, 9 for second, 8 for third etc. The Bruins also lifted their record to 6-0 by beating Stan-ford, 21-16.

Colorado is third followed by Tennessee, North Carolina, Georgia, Purdue, Wyoming, Houston and Indiana.

The major gains were achieved by Tennessee, Georgia and Wyoming. The Volunteers climbed from seventh to fourth after upsetting Alabama 24-13 and dropping the sixth-rated Crimson Tide out of the rank-ings.

Georgia advanced from eighth to sixth after walloping Virginia Military 56-6 while Wyoming edged from 10th to eighth. The Cowboys downed Wichita State 30-7 for a 6-0 mark.

Indiana Tenth

Indiana took over the No. 10 spot. The Hoosiers beat Michi-gan 27-20 for their fifth victory against no defeats.

Colorado, also 5-0, takes on

Port Freshmen Nip KHS, 18-13

Moving 30 yards in the final period after recovering a fumble, the Port Jervis frosh foot-ball team nipped Kingston, 18-13, Monday at Dietz Stadium.

Both sides exchanged first period scores. Wayne Smith went two yards for the Raiders and Harold Anderson ran 38 yards for coach Frank Modica's gridders.

The KHS team moved in front as Dwight Byrd scam-pered 28 yards in the third pe-riod and Anderson made the extra point.

Port came back in the third session with Butler climaxing a long drive by going over from the one. The extra point was missed and it was 13-12 game.

Then came the fourth period fumble and it cost the locals their third setback in four starts.

Kingston is at Middletown on Monday.

KHS lineup: Ends—Johnson and Grover; tackles—Lackaye and DeForest; guards—Barnes and Grommoll; center—Avery; quarterback—Perry; halfbacks—Geunules and Byrd; full-back — Anderson. Reserves: McComber, Brocco, Lawrence, Snyder, H. Johnson, A. John-son, Bodby.

Score by quarters:
KHS Frosh 6 0 7 0-13
Port Frosh 6 0 6 6-18

Nekola Knew Shortstop Yastrzemski Could Be Successor to Ted Williams

By FRANK ECK
AP News-features Sports Editor

BOSTON (AP) — "When Ted Williams retires," former Holy Cross southpaw pitcher Frank (Bots) Nekola was saying in 1958. "I have the man who will replace him in left field for the Boston Red Sox."

"Now I'm certain of it," scout Nekola said the next summer when Carl Yastrzemski, then only 20, led the Carolina League in hitting with .377 for Raleigh, N.C.

Carl Michael Yastrzemski, who grew up on Long Island potato fields and played semi-pro shortstop next to his third baseman father, made 45 errors at Raleigh. But Bots Nekola knew Yaz had the arm and speed to become a left fielder.

Nekola was so high on Yaz as a teen ager that he could make the 60-mile-trip blindfolded from his New Hyde Park home to Bridgehampton where the Yastrzemskis lived.

A number of teams were bid-ding on Yaz's services but only

CARL YASTRZEMSKI

Nekola had a chance, because Nekola put up the money—$108,000 of it.

And Red Sox owner Tom Yawkey put up the money—$108,000 of it.

Right now, Yaz is more popular than Ted Williams, the last man to hit .400.

Yaz now will get $100,000 and he won't have to ask for it.

What makes Yaz so popular? Another Williams, Dick, can best answer that. Says the Bos-ton manager:

"Yaz is a devoted team man all the way. I have never seen any player put forth so much individual and team effort as Carl did during the entire season and in the seven-game World Series.

"He is so dedicated to the game that he changed his hit-ting habits almost overnight and became a slugger. I can't re-member any other player ever being able to accomplish what he did in one year.

"Even with his quick hands and quick bat he is able to swing where the ball is pitched."

Some believe it's sacrilegious to say Carl Yastrzemski right now is more popular than Ted Williams ever was. Not so, Ted was an individualist. Carl is anything but.

Ted Williams thought the fans had no right to boo him. He cursed them even in spring training. When they applauded he refused to tip his cap.

For one hour after the World Series, hundreds of reporters surrounded Yaz. He never once tried to brush them off. When new questions showed up, Carl repeated his feelings and thoughts on the team as its un-official leader.

The American League's triple crown winner and most valua-ble player praised the Cardi-nals, then said:

"In my six previous seasons here I looked upon them as nothing special. But now I can't wait until spring training begins. I'm looking forward to it and I know all of the players feel the same way."

The people of the Fens like the way he hustles after a fly ball, charges ground balls, throws runners out and hits baseballs out of sight.

He has done it all this year, and he will be doing it for a few more.

The talk in Boston during the World Series had the Red Sox shifting Ken Harrelson to first base, first baseman George Scott to third base and Joy Foy to the trading block.

The fact that Scott happens to be the best first baseman in the business apparently didn't disturb the "insiders." Harrelson at best is a journeyman major leaguer.

The Foy would be traded off to the New York Yankees in turn for a pitcher. Foy happens to be a third baseman. The Yankees, meanwhile, are playing Bill Robinson the outfield bust of 1967, at third base in the Florida Instructional League. Some of the Yankee brass feel Robinson, an expensive investment, can make it at the hot corner.

WHERE DOES ALL of this leave Mike Ferraro of Kingston, who is still on the Yankees' official 40-man player roster?

In the normal course of events, Ferraro will report to the Yankee training camp at Fort Lauderdale next spring and get a "fair" shot at the third base post. Johnny Johnson, head of the Yankee farm system, assures one and all that Mike is "very much in the Yankee plans of the future."

If Ferraro fails to make the grade next spring, then what. The Yankees can still option the Kingston lad once more.

IF THE YANKEES DECIDE to send Ferraro back to the farm, he will be faced with an important personal decision. He tells friends he hasn't decided what he'll do if the Yankees send him down again.

Meanwhile, there is a report that the Chicago White Sox might be willing to take Ferraro off the Yankees' hands. How much substance there is to this speculation is unknown. In any event, if Mike leaves that would take the pressure off Bill Robinson and maybe raise his batting average from .198 to .225.

Off the Top of the Head

If there is a high school coach in the area, who can handle young football players better than Oteora's Paul Jordan, we haven't seen him.

The most precious commodity for the Associated Press' Top Ten selectors this season must be aspirin.

Proving what a difference a year makes, does anybody really care about that Notre Dame-Michigan State thing at East Lansing this weekend?

Isn't it about time to start billing that Nov. 18 clash between Southern Cal and UCal as the second "Game of the Decade"?

Football facilities at most UCAL schools can stand vast improvement with respect to better seating accommodations, printed game programs, public address system, etc. Year after year, Oteora makes the best showing in this department, even though school authorities have failed to capitalize on a natural setting for a large bleacher section on the hilly east side of the football field.

DOES JOE DI MAGGIO need money so badly he has to shill for the likes of Charles O. (for Oveer) Finley with the new Oakland franchise in the American League? Or is Joe Di really a lonesome man as many contend?

Isn't it time for all good citizens to come to the aid of the U.S. Olympic team by making a donation at Howard Johnson's in Kingston?

We get the feeling that the tremendous talent of the Oteora High school band, cheer leader and majorettes is often wasted on pitifully small crowds.

The guy was stretching for a gag when he said the New York police nearly declared Yankee Stadium a disaster area in the fourth quarter of the Giants-Packer contest.

A slight exaggeration to be sure, but the Giants were pretty awful. However, if it comforts Giant fans to any extent, we got the impression the Giants weren't that bad and the Packers weren't really that good.

Alex Gerlak Shares Northeast Pro-Pro

Alex Gerlak of Twaalfskill climaxed one of his best seasons in many years on the Northeastern PGA trail Monday by teaming with John Kellar of Pittsfield to capture the association's 1967 Pro-Pro championship.

The Gerlak tandem posted 33-35-68 to edge several teams that deadlocked with best-ball 68's in the tourney at Shaker Ridge Country Club.

One of the teams tied at 69 was that of Wiltwyck Country Club pro Ian (Scotty) Robertson and Glenn Young of Pinehaven (36-33). Jim Hutchins of Woodstock and Young's father, Claude of Winding Brook also tied at 69 with nines of 36-33.

Also at 69 were: Dick Hughes, Colonie, and John Wall, Glens Falls, 37-32; Ralph Montoya, Little Falls, Bill Gressick, Catskill, 33-36; Ed Bossee, Colonie, and Guy Farina, Caroga Lake, shot 34-36-70, as did Gerlak with a second partner, Bill Conway of Albany at 36-34.

Gressick Elected

Bill Gressick of Catskill Country Club was elected president of the Northeastern at the annual election of officers following the tournament.

Other officers elected were: Jim Murray, Pine Brook, first vice president; Bob Smith, Wolfers Roost, second vice president; John Gaucas, Vanden Schaick, secretary-treasurer.

Named to three-year terms on the association's board of directors were Larry Ostrander, Windham; Al Stein, Glens Falls; and Marty Czawinkel, Normanside.

Gaucas was voted the association's golfer-of-the-year award.

Csonka Is Named Rate Northeastern Small School Leader

NEW YORK (AP) — Northeastern with five straight victories is rated No. 1 in the weekly Lambert Cup poll to determine the top Eastern middle-sized (K Division 11) college football team.

Northeastern moved into the top spot by whipping previously unbeaten Springfield 19-0 last week. The Huskies, third a week ago, compiled 78 points in the Lambert voting by a panel of athletics directors, sports writers and broadcasters.

Hofstra 5-1 was second with 67 points. West Chester, 6-0 third with 60. Temple 3-2 fell from first to fourth followed by New Hampshire 3-1 Springfield 4-1 Wesleyan 4-0 Bucknell 3-3 Williams 3-0-1 and Delaware 1-4.

Bucknell Star Earns Laurels

NEW YORK (AP) Quarterback Sam Havrilak, who led Bucknell to a come-from-behind 28-27 victory over Pennsylvania last Saturday, heads this week's ECAC Division II All-East football team.

The junior from Monessen, Pa., ran for 94 yards three touchdowns and completed 13 of 21 passes.

Rounding out the backfield on the team named today were halfbacks Jack Maitland of Pittsburgh and Bill Phillips of New Hampshire and fullback Bill Curran of Northeastern.

The linemen are ends Dave Robertshaw, Lafayette and Don Wilkison, West Chester State; tackles Steve Sekula, Southern Connecticut and Jim Wiley C. W. Post; guards Dom Femino Bowdoin and Bob Eberly Gettysburg and center Herb Cooper of Wesleyan.

There were no knockdowns. Both fighters weighed 177.

Attitude Is Key At San Diego

By RON ROACH
Associated Press Sports Writer

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — Many people have wondered what has made the San Diego Chargers the only undefeated team in the American Football League.

The factors are many—quarterback John Hadl, flanker Lance Alworth, two rookie runners, additions to the defensive unit. But Coach Sid Gillman gives most of the credit to attitude for San Diego's 5-0-1 record.

"I truly believe this is one of our best teams," Gillman said Monday. "It's not laden with so much talent but one thing we have is attitude. That's 90 percent of the battle."

"The players just know there's going to be some way to win the football game—punt return, fumble recovery, blocked kick—they know something will happen."

The Chargers have won five Western Division titles and one league crown since the AFL was founded in 1960. But they fell off to a 7-6-1 mark to finish third in the West last year.

Gillman's troops appeared headed for their worst season since 1962 (4-10) during the pre-season exhibitions when they were routed by three National Football League foes.

Quarterback Hadl was throwing almost as many interceptions as completions and the defense looked as if it belonged on a playground.

Then the Chargers suddenly jelled, upending Boston, 28-14 in the season opener. They whipped Houston, 13-3; Buffalo 37-17; Kansas City 45-31 and Denver, 38-21. They tied Boston 31-31.

"Hadl's arrived as a pro," Gillman said. "He's not just a quarterback with a play book. He's able to set himself and pick defenses apart with rhyme and reason."

Defensively, newcomers Scott Appleton and Tom Day on the line and linebackers Johnny Baker and rookie Jeff Staggs have played inspired football.

Sophomore Joe Beauchamp has developed into a "beautiful cornerback," said Gillman. Veterans Speedy Duncan, Kenny Graham and Bud Whitehead are playing some of the best football of their lives in the secondary.

Longendyke Blasts 300, 712 in Four-Man Classic

Ralph Longendyke defied tremendous odds to fire the first perfect "300" game of the 1967-68 bowling season Monday night in the 4-Man Classic at Mid-City Lanes.

Longendyke, a long time 190-average bowler, tossed 10 straight 1-3 pocket shots, then crossed over to the "Jersey side" for his last two strikes.

The 300 game followed scores of 178 and 234 to give Longendyke a 712 series—highest in the circuit to date and third "700" set of the season. The 300 was the first of his career.

Runnerup was Herb Petersen who collected 684 off 225, 203, 256 in the Summit Classic.

Ernie Bartroff rolled a 287 solo and 647 triple in the 4-Man Classic.

Frank Ferrendino unloaded 247-231-667 in the City Minor. Al Bagatta had 248-641 in the Mid-City Mixed and tied at 641 were Ted Wiands, with 270 solo in the Tavern Association, and Vince Carpino 227-641 in the Summit Classic.

John Hevey won a Century Award with a 257 solo, 100 pins over his average, in the Sunday Weekenders.

Bob Scheneman posted 635 in the Summit and Ray Augustine had 248-631 in the same league.

George Chakiris Cast In TV Role Tonight

AP Movie-Television Writer
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The name of George Chakiris appears in the cast of tonight's ABC television special, "Kismet."

George Chakiris, a few images register: The slender, tragic Puerto Rican who danced and acted with gifted skill in the film "West Side Story." The shyly exuberant actor sharing Academy Award honors with his date of the evening, Rita Moreno. And then, the star of a succession of foreign-made movies, most of them eminently forgettable.

Chakiris today remains slender and handsome. Also shy, but he has learned to live with his shyness. And his lessons since winning the Oscar as best supporting actor of 1961 have been profound, though painful.

"I never did a single one of the things you're supposed to do if you aim to pursue a movie career," he remarks. "I should have stayed here and gotten to know the people who were hiring me. I should have gotten a press agent. No, I wouldn't have taken starlets to nightclubs. But I should at least have let people know that I was still in the business."

"I didn't do any of that. But I have no regrets, because I didn't know any better at the time. The only thing I could do was profit by my mistakes."

Success came too fast for Chakiris. He practically stepped from the chorus to a leading role in the biggest musical hit of its day, "West Side Story." He recalled being invited to parties at the homes of his bosses, the Mirisch brothers.

"People like Melina Mercouri, Shirley MacLaine and Natalie Wood were there, and I couldn't think of a thing to say to them," he recalled.

"Then I found myself being co-starred with Yul Brynner in 'Flight from Ashiya.' I wasn't up to it, and the part wasn't right for me. I found out why the producer, Harold Hench, hired me: because the picture was a Japanese coproduction and I was big in Japan because 'West Side Story' was such a hit there."

More films followed: "Diamond Head" in Hawaii; "Kings of the Sun," Mexico; "633 Squadron," England; "Bobo's Girl," Italy; "The High Bright"

Sun, "England; "The Theft of the Mona Lisa," France, Italy; "The Girls from Rochefort," France.

Hollywood remained the actor's home, but he returned here only to see friends, take some dancing lessons and pack up for another overseas location. Earlier this year Chakiris decided it was time to halt his wanderings and attend to his domestic career. He put together a night club act and opened at Caesar's Palace in Las Vegas.

"The results were fantastic," he remarked. "Virtually everyone in show business comes to Vegas to see the shows, and out of that engagement I got offers for Ed Sullivan's show and Carol Burnett's. And I wouldn't have been asked to do 'Kismet' if I hadn't done the Vegas act."

WAC Visits Family, Leaves For Okinawa

SP5 Gabrielle Broncato recently visited relatives and friends in Tillson.

Miss Broncato is a graduate of St. Peter's School, Rosendale, and attended Kingston High School. For a time she was employed at the Kingston Knitting Mills. In July, 1961 Miss Broncato entered the Woman's Army Corps at Albany. Later she was stationed at Fort Holabird, Md., and then Frankfurt, West Germany. On her return to the United States she was stationed at Walter Reed Army Medical Center for two years where she was with the Chief Administrative Section, Education and Training Branch.

Last Thursday Miss Broncato left for a new assignment and will be stationed for a two year period at Okinawa.

'Sticky' Library

FESTUS, Mo. (AP) — If voters decide in Tuesday's special election they don't want to approve a $65,000 bond issue for a new library after all, the situation is going to get sticky.

The library already is under construction.

Voters approved the bond issue April 4, but the City Council learned the election notice was not properly handled and a new election had to be called.

TASTING BENEFIT—Robert Schneller, owner of Schneller's Meats in Kingston, and Carl Jackle, internationally known cheese expert, get together to select the gourmet cheese to be served up at the Wine and Cheese Tasting Party here on Sunday, Nov. 5. Fete will be held at the Governor Clinton Hotel to benefit the Hudson Valley Philharmonic Society. Those attending will get chance to sample imported wines and fancy cheese at this second annual event, slated from 5 to 7 p. m. Other attractions besides food and drink will be music and exhibition of paintings. All proceeds go to the Philharmonic and tickets to soiree are available from Schneller, Dr. Richard Messina of Saugerties, or Jon Doyle at Kingston's Community Theatre.

50 HJ Managers To Attend Meet At Motor Lodge

Fifty managers of Howard Johnson's motor lodges in nine states will meet at the Kingston Route 28 motor lodge Oct. 26-27 for the company's annual seminar.

Robert M. James, vice-president and Director of Operations, said the seminar is one of eight similar meetings being held across the nation for representatives of the company's chain of more than 300 motor lodges from Maine to California. Twenty-three motor lodges are located in New York.

"The theme of the seminar is 'Open-Minded Management,'" James said. "Our members will review their goals and the challenges of the lodging industry in the future."

"The agenda includes human factors and relationships, guest services, and exercises in problem solving—all directed toward providing better service to the traveling public."

James said the company is continuing its nationwide expansion program, including construction of additional facilities in its chain of motor lodges and more than 800 restaurants from coast to coast.

Man's Possessions

CHEYENNE, Wyo. (AP) — Carl Moulden of Casper, finally got his fishing tackle and portable ice chest.

But it took a Wyoming Supreme Court decision to do it. Moulden was granted a divorce from his wife, Dorothy, in 1964. He was awarded the fishing tackle, portable ice chest and certain photographic slides.

In 1966 he filed suit contending his former wife refused to let him take the fishing tackle.

The district court ruled in his favor, but Mrs. Moulden took the issue to the state supreme court, where the original decision was affirmed.

'68 CHEVY II NOVA COUPE

The day of the plain Jane economy car has come and gone. Chevrolet has something far finer to offer.

LONG HOOD, SHORT DECK

You get your economy now under Nova's new swept-back roof. You get your engine dependability under Nova's new long hood. You get your rust prevention beneath Nova's new rounded fenders and larger body.

SUPERLATIVE RIDE

You get the smoothest in handling, too. The wheel stance is wider, the rear suspension has been resigned, and there is a new cushion-mounted front end. Nova feels like it's a thousand pounds heavier. It rides with amazing silence and smoothness.

NEW ALL OVER

The grille is new. The interior is new. (There's even a special custom interior you can order, the likes of which no economy car has ever offered before.) The standard V8 is bigger, more powerful. So is the standard Six with its new Monojet carburetor that contributes to greater efficiency, economy and performance. There are many new safety features, including energy-absorbing front seat backs to go along with the proved GM-developed energy-absorbing steering column. And when you equip a Nova with the SS package, you look out over a special hood and black accented grille, housing a 350-cubic-inch Turbo-Fire V8.

Front to back, Chevy II Nova's now a driving enthusiast's kind of car but, fortunately for you, it still comes at a saving enthusiast's kind of price. Very low.

Manufacturer's suggested retail price for standard Six Chevy II Nova Coupe shown above includes Federal Excise Tax, suggested dealer delivery and handling charges. Model shown above equipped at additional cost with Custom Exterior $84.30, White Walls $31.35, Wheel Covers $21.10. Transportation charges, accessories, optional equipment, state and local taxes additional.

Be smart! Be sure! Buy now at your Chevrolet dealer's.

Dear Abby

The Second Time Around

(© 1967 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: I am a widow, having loved my husband very much after living many happy years with him. Now, after a reasonable time, I am keeping company with a fine man who has been a widower for a like period. He also loved his wife very much and had a happy life with her. Abby, I love this man, and would like to spend my remaining years with him. The trouble is, that although I'm sure he loves me, too, he feels that by marrying again he would be disloyal to the memory of his first wife. Because of this we are losing precious time that we could be spending together. I maintain that a person can "fall in love" more than once in a lifetime and that after losing one's beloved mate, in time, the heart "heals" and there is no disloyalty in finding happiness with another.

What is your viewpoint on widows and widowers caring for each other and making new lives together?
HOPING
DEAR HOPING: It is said that one who has known true happiness in marriage and has lost his mate will remarry for he respects the married state and wishes to know it again. I agree with you. But if your widower friend balks at marriage, no matter what his reason, he probably doesn't want to get married. So, if you do, don't waste any more precious time on him.

DEAR ABBY: My daughter, who is 15, is thinking of getting married to a boy of 16. I have tried to talk her into waiting until she finishes high school. (This is her first year.)

Recently she told her father and me that if we didn't give her permission to marry she will get herself in a fix like lots of girls do, and then we will have to let her get married or she will disgrace us.

I told her that was the wrong attitude to take, but she said she doesn't care, she loves the boy.

Have you advice to give her? She reads your articles every day. I hope you will print something to help us with this situation as she is about to drive her Pa and me nuts. Thank you.

HER MOM
DEAR MOM: I could give your daughter plenty of advice.

DEAR ABBY: In the book of etiquette it says that all personal notes should be written in either dark blue or black ink. Well, how about professional Irishman who uses nothing but GREEN ink?

This man is so proud of the fact he is Irish that he never lets anybody forget it for a minute. He wears green all the time. His house is painted green. He drives a green car, and he has cute little shamrock designs on everything from his business stationery to his mailbox. Don't you think someone ought to tell that "Jolly Green Giant" that GREEN ink is not considered good etiquette?

KNOWS BETTER
DEAR KNOWS: I'm sure it wouldn't faze him. And he'd bet you his shillelagh that he's gained more by being a "professional Irishman" than he's lost.

Problems? Write to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal., 90069. For a personal reply Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal., 90069. For a personal reply inclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

FOR ABBY'S NEW BOOK-LET "WHAT TEEN-AGERS WANT TO KNOW," SEND $1.00 TO ABBY, BOX 69700, LOS ANGELES, CAL. 90069.

If you want to use fragment bids, the first thing to do is to get together with your favorite partner or partners and agree on which ones to use. As a starter, you should stick to sequences that start with a one-over-one response.

In case you missed yesterday's column, a fragment bid is a super jump in a new suit. A regular jump is forcing and supposedly shows strength in the suit. This superjump is also forcing and also shows tremendous support for partner and a singleton or fragment in the new suit.

Fragment bids may well be described as high level bridge. You can get to even a higher level if you add things to them.

North's four club call is a fragment bid. What is South's jump to five spades?

Roger Stern of New York who made that five spade bid had never discussed it with Larry Rosler of Jersey City, but Roger and Larry are scientists and Roger felt sure that Larry would know what it meant.

Larry is not one of our fastest players, but after two or three minutes of thought he decided that Roger was saying, "I have first round club control, but the heart suit may be wide open and I have two potential heart losers."

After that, Larry bid six hearts to show the ace of that suit and for Roger went all the way to seven spades.

Of course, they might have gotten there with Blackwood. However, if Roger had used Blackwood and Larry had shown only one ace, Roger would not have known what to do.

Producer of 'Timmy' Excels

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Paul Bryant, coach of the University of Alabama's football team was the subject of an ABC "Profile" Monday night. But the hour, even for a rabid football fan, had to be as disappointing as a movie fan magazine with a lurid headline and nothing much to back it up.

Bryant, coach of a number of winning teams, was presented as a man accused of "brutalizing" football and a man with an overwhelming desire to win games. A lot of viewers must have been people who just happened to stick around after "Cowboy in Africa" and others just waiting for "Peyton Place" to start. And they were presented with a mild-mannered fellow with a soft Southern accent urging his players to say their prayers, smile a lot, keep clean and have good characters.

Like Interview
As the program progressed it took on the shape of those TV sports interviews in which invariably a player is asked if he thinks his side will win.

The alleged documentary reached some sort of a new high in sophistry when we were treated to a postgame—it was a tie—locker room session showing the players on their knees in prayer, followed by a gentle, sad remonstrance from the "Bear" as he is called. A latter day Knute Rockne the "Bear" is not, not on TV anyway.

It omitted so much. We never learned how he managed to get such good players. We had one mention of his family life and only in passing. We never even saw him at a time when he was not fully aware that cameras and a microphone were turned in his direction.

The ABC sports people generally do a superlative job. But when it comes to that special form called a documentary, they would have done well to borrow a few leaves from the work book of the producer of the program that followed, "The Long Childhood of Timmy," a perceptive and moving narrative about the progress of a retarded child now being trained up to his full, if limited capabilities.

The program was a slightly updated rerun of the original broadcast last season. Once again we saw the little boy surrounded by a warm and affectionate family and suffered with him in his separation from the family upon entrance to a special school for "exceptional children." And we rejoiced in the few added sequences showing that in the 10 months since we last saw the boy, now almost 10, he has progressed from a child with a mental age of three and one-half to one of five—and will progress even further.

Succeeds as Documentary
The important thing was that the program introduced us to the boy and his family, involved us and made his progress important. That is what is important in a documentary about a person.

Recommended tonight: "A Hard Day's Night," NBC, Maria Alberghetti and Barbara 7:30-9:15 EDT, broadcast of the Eden.

Can't Force Medicaiders To Pay Personal Debts

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Medicaid card-holders cannot be forced to pay their personal debts, the State Social Services Department says.

The immunity, contained in Section 137A of the state Social Welfare Law, could affect more than 2.9 million residents with Medicaid cards and another 5 million eligible for the cards.

The Medicaid program provides financial aid to persons deemed medically indigent. A family of four with a net income of $6,000 a year, for example, is eligible for the payment of most of its medical bills if the family is deemed needy.

How Law Reads

"All wages, salary, commissions or other compensation paid or payable by an employer to a person while he is in receipt of public assistance or care supplementary to his income pursuant to this chapter, or while he would otherwise need such assistance or care, shall be exempt from assignment, income execution or from an installment order."

The section was applicable, a spokesman for the state agency said, because the Legislature did not make a specific exemption in the case of Medicaid.

State Sen. William T. Smith, R-Big Flats, described the situation as "alarming" and said that the "fiscal insanity cannot be allowed to continue."

Sen. William E. Adams, R-Buffalo, chairman of the Joint Legislative Committee on the Social Welfare Law, would be asked to schedule a public hearing "at the earliest possible date so that all aspects of this impossible situation may be discussed," he said.

The law also contains the provision that the exemption is applicable "so long as such public assistance or care shall continue or would be needed if the income execution, or installment order, were enforced."

Also, "any employer who shall withhold or pay over to a person presenting an income execution installment payment order, or assignment of any portion of the earnings of such a recipient of public assistance or care, shall be liable in an action by such recipient for the amount so paid or withheld contrary to the provisions of this section."

Wilson to GOP Club:

Wittenberg Plan Progressing

This past weekend, Assemblyman Kenneth L. Wilson of Ulster County spoke to a group of residents from the Town of Shandaken, and informed them that the long awaited Wittenberg State Park is "progressing on schedule."

Wilson also said that as soon as a few additional test borings are completed by the New York City consulting firm of Andrews and Clarke, the master plan for the development of the park will be ready for presentation to the State Department of Conservation, and that the plan should be ready by the middle of next month.

Assemblyman Wilson appeared before a capacity crowd at the Cobblestone Inn in Phoenicia gathered for the annual dinner of the Town of Shandaken Republican Club.

The Ulster County legislator had been invited to the local GOP function to serve as toastmaster and because of the importance of the new state park to the future growth of the area, he also presented an up-to-the-minute progress report on the park.

The Assemblyman said the consulting firm has been working for several months on a general concept of land use for the 600-acre facility, and once the final plans have been submitted to the Conservation Department, and approved by that agency, the department can then proceed with the preparation of the actual engineering maps and plans for the development of the park. Wilson added he is also awaiting a copy of the master plan, and as soon as it is received, he will release it to the public. "These

'Lights Just Went Out'

Six Slain in 90-Minutes of Terror

LOCK HAVEN, Pa. (AP) — Two workers entering the sprawling Hammernill Paper Co. plant almost collided with 39-year-old Leo Held as he strode out with an emptied pistol in each hand.

"What's going on," they later said they asked him.

"The lights just went out," was his reply.

Six persons were slain in the laboratory technician's 90-minute reign of terror Monday. Six others were wounded, three critically.

Quiet, Peaceful Man

The words were the last known to be uttered by Held before he was struck and critically wounded by four police bullets in his backyard in Loganton, about 17 miles from here.

Clinton County Dist. Atty. Alan Lugg said Held, who underwent three hours of surgery for wounds of both wrists, a leg, an arm and a shoulder, had not uttered a word since his capture.

Lacking an explanation from Held, the district attorney, family, friends and relatives of the victims were unable to explain what caused "a quiet peaceful man, devoted to his family" to embark on a bloody rampage.

"It doesn't make any sense to us," said Mrs. Alice Davenport of Woolrich, whose husband Richard, 32, was shot dead in the paper mill where he was a quality control supervisor.

She said she assumed her husband was killed only because he "was in the way" of a bullet.

enport and four others and wounded four more employees.

They said Held, a known gun fancier and avid hunter, moved with an icy coldness and apparently took aim at his targets. He then walked from the building firing random shots into offices as about 50 fellow employees watched from hiding places behind machinery and desks.

"Everything happened so fast, nobody knew what happened," said Leo F. Stahl, a plant supervisor.

Held then drove to Piper Aircraft Corp. at Lock Haven airport where he shot and wounded Mrs. Geraldine Ramm, a member of a car pool which had dropped him about three months ago because of his alleged reckless driving.

Chase Ended in Field

The paper mill technician's next stop was the home of his Loganton neighbors, Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Quiggle, where, police said, he broke in and shot the pair while they slept. Quiggle was killed instantly and his wife critically wounded.

By that time, police caught up with him and the chase ended in a field behind Held's home.

"I told myself it wasn't happening, but it was. It was like a dream that wouldn't go away. A bad dream—a real bad dream," said Stahl, who had hopped in a police car for the ride through this Central Pennsylvania mountain region to Loganton.

He said he found the Quiggle's six-year-old daughter in a downstairs room.

"She had taken the phone off the hook and maybe she was talking to the operator. Anyhow, I heard her say, just as clear as though she was reciting a lesson in the classroom: 'Help me.

Mommy and Daddy have been shot."

Wife Collapses

During the rampage, Held's four children were in school and his wife, Alda, 36, was working in a plastics plant in Jersey Shore, Pa., about 20 miles away. Police said she collapsed when she received word of the shootings.

Monday night, her brother, Harold M. Brungard, a Loganton banker, refused to let newsmen talk to her, but reported:

DR. WENDELL HOOVER

Moderator For LWV's Candidate Night

The League of Women Voters of Kingston has announced that Dr. Wendell Hoover, superintendent of the Kingston Consolidated School System, will serve as moderator for annual Candidates Meeting sponsored by the League which will be held on Oct. 30 at the J. Watson Bailey Junior High School at 8:30 p. m.

Dr. Hoover holds a PhD Degree in Education from New York University and has been involved in the field of education for many years, as a teacher, principal and superintendent.

As moderator for the Candidates Meeting, Dr. Hoover will help to enforce the ground rules set up for all candidates and will recognize questions from the floor.

The League of Women Voters invites all citizens to attend the Candidates Meeting on Oct. 30 and take advantage of the opportunity to personally meet those candidates who are running for the eight at-large offices to the county legislature from the City of Kingston.

"She said there was no indication of any problem this morning before they went to work."

Held's 18-year-old son Larry, a tall, strapping freshman at Pennsylvania State University, agreed, saying nothing seemed to be troubling his father when he drove him back to school Sunday.

"He was a normal, if not better than normal father," said Larry, referring to his father's six years of service on the local school board and leadership in Boy Scout activities. Held also is head of the local volunteer fire company.

Police said they had no motives for the shootings.

"Some of those he shot were supervisors, maybe he had something against supervisors," said the district attorney.

Police had considered that animosity towards members of the car pool might have triggered the shootings, but only two of those shot were in the pool—Mrs. Ramm and David Overdorf, 27, who was wounded in the plant.

The dead included Davenport and Quiggle, Donald V. Walden,

31, of Lock Haven, paper manufacturing superintendent; Carman H. Edwards, 62, of Mill Fall, superintendent of wastes and bacteriological control; Elmer Weaver, 37, and Allen Barrett Jr., 45, both lab employees from Lock Haven.

The other wounded were James Allen of Lock Haven; Richard Carter of Beech Creek and Woodrow Stultz, 46, of Lock Haven.

Question 3

How many County Legislators will represent Kingston?

You can slice $1,000 to $7,000 or more off the price of your new house.

Do you know how?

Buy a house that's heated by Oil.

It's that simple.

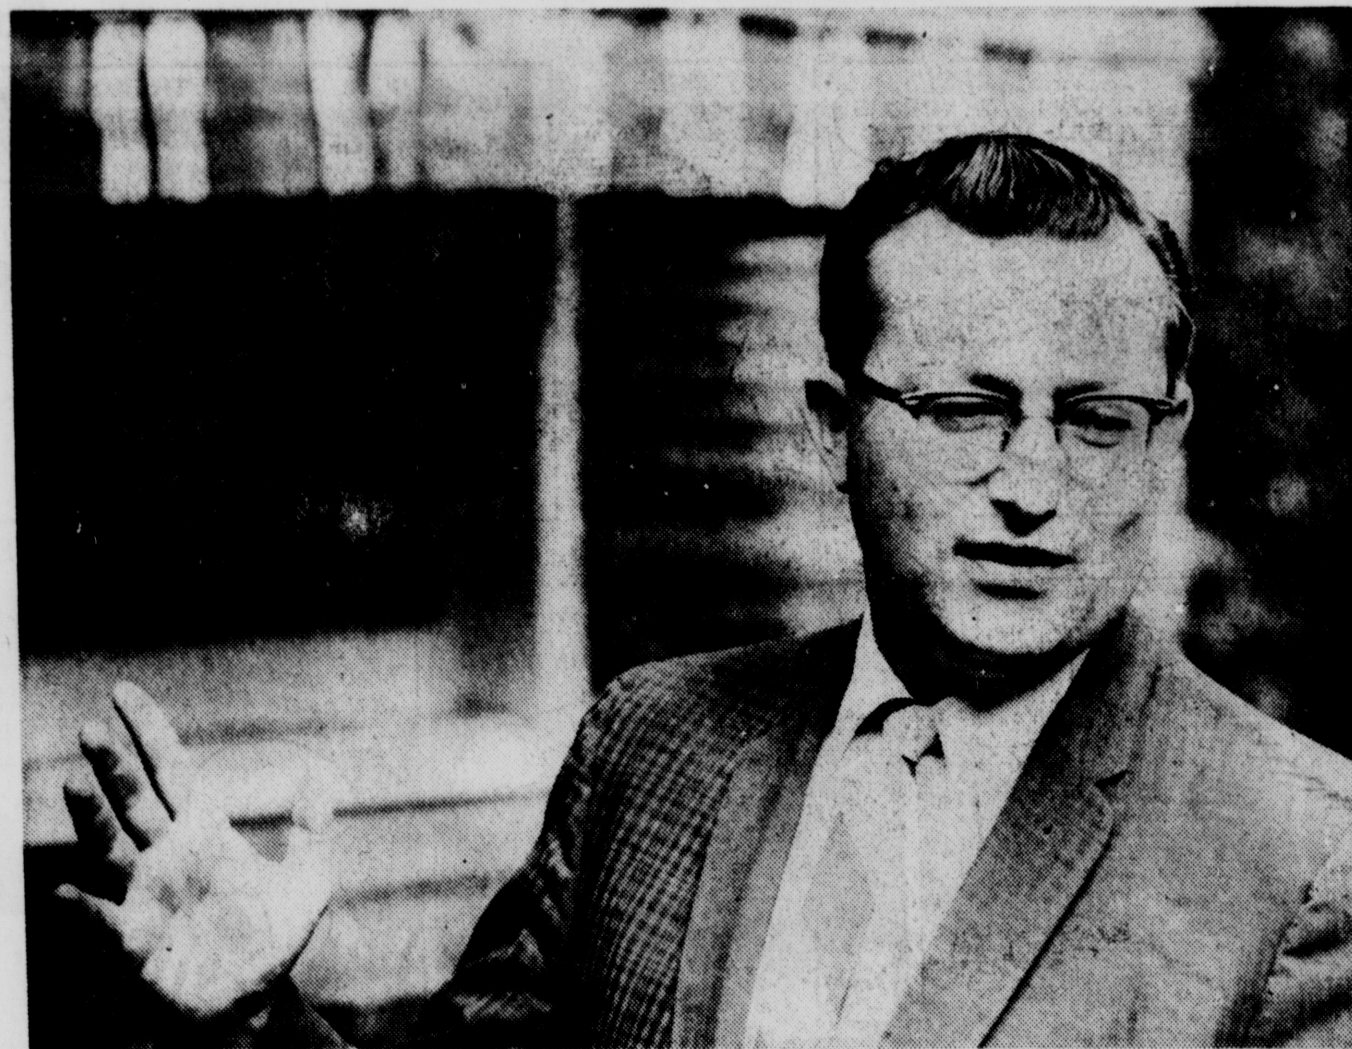

Buying a home that's heated by OIL is like putting money in the bank every year. Facts and figures show that OIL HEAT will save many home owners over $1,000 in just a few years and over the length of a 25-yr. mortgage could easily run from $7,000 to $10,000. You save money and you get the best heating fuel there is—fuel that delivers dependable, clean, healthy heat. What's more, you get all the hot water your family needs. That's because Oil produces hot water faster than your family can use it. In short, OIL HEAT gives you the best for less. Don't you think it's worth a telephone call to your neighborhood Oil Dealer for all the facts?

Amendments and Propositions

Information Concerning Ballot Issues

There is one proposition on the ballot. A proposition is a law which must be approved by the voters after it has been passed in one session of the Legislature, and has been signed by the Governor. It does not amend the Constitution.

There are two proposed Amendments which have passed two separately elected Legislatures and are now submitted to the voters for their approval or disapproval. If approved, they become Amendments to the New York State Constitution.

Proposition Number One Transportation Bond Issue

Approval would authorize the State to borrow $2½ billion for transportation throughout the State. $1¼ billion would be used for highway construction. The rest would be used to pay up to 75 per cent of capital costs to help localities and public transportation agencies improve and coordinate subways, commuter railroads and buses, and develop air and marine facilities. Each project would require approval of the State Commissioner of Transportation and the Legislature. Federal money, when and if granted, would repay the State in part.

THOSE FOR SAY THAT the State cannot afford to wait until federal money is available; that coordinated facilities to transport growing numbers of people and goods must be developed immediately if we are to prevent a crisis in the State's economic development; that in the New York City area the new Metropolitan Transit Authority or the City could use bond money for subway construction and equipment thus freeing Transit Authority money for operating the subways at the present 20 cent fare.

THOSE AGAINST SAY THAT the State should not borrow more money; that tax increases may be needed to pay off the growing public debt; that all subway costs should be paid out of revenues even if fares must be increased; that bond money which permits the new coordinating authorities (such as Metropolitan Transit Authority in New York City and Niagara Frontier Transportation Authority in western New York) to assume planning functions and capital costs will give them control of local transportation facilities.

Amendment Number One Job Development Authority

This would authorize the Legislature to increase the State-guaranteed borrowing power of the Job Development Authority from $50 to $200 million. The Authority makes low-interest loans to non-profit corporations which help finance new industries and expand or rehabilitate existing ones thus improving job opportunities.

THOSE FOR SAY THAT New York must be able to compete with other states in attracting and keeping industry; the Authority has shown sound judgement in making loans; its continued effectiveness depends on this increase in borrowing power.

THOSE AGAINST SAY THAT the impact of Authority loans on the State's economy has been far less than claimed; private enterprise can do this job; the State's credit rating would be endangered by increased liability on bonds; in 1966 the voters defeated an amendment to raise this limit from $50 to $75 million.

Amendment Number Two Blue Ridge Ski Center

This would permit the State to build and operate a ski center with up to 30 miles of trails, 30 to 80 feet wide, in the Blue Ridge Range of the Adirondack Forest Preserve in Essex County.

THOSE FOR SAY THAT this would fill the needs of growing numbers of skiers; its nearness to the Northway, variety of slopes, location midway between Gore and Whiteface Mountains would create a giant ski complex comparable to those in Vermont; the economy of the entire northeast region of the State would benefit.

THOSE AGAINST SAY THAT the "forever wild" character of the forest preserve must be protected; the State should not compete with private enterprise in the ski business; there are more important ways to spend State funds.

Men Behind the Scenes

Chairmen Hold the Reins

The men behind the scenes of any big elective race are the chairmen of the varied political parties. It is they who, through trusted lieutenants and scores of committees, speech writers and fund raisers, campaign chairmen and ordinary party members, wage the battle that either put their candidates in office, or loose the election.

The hopes of the parties rest, in varying degrees, in their chairmen, and the office itself is usually the end of the line for the passing buck.

"Leader or Boss"

The party chairman can either be a "leader" or a "boss," depending upon how successfully he irks the "out party."

Chairmen may deal with the coveted gifts of political patronage, for which they can be besieged by any number of job seekers, and they must possess the ability to heal the factions and the inter-party arguments that quite often beset the most well organized of political organizations.

GOP Sterley

The Chairman of the Ulster County Republican Committee is former Surrogate Court Judge John B. Sterley.

Elected to lead the Republicans in June of this year through the machinery of a party caucus, Sterley was elevated from the position of treasurer of the Committee.

In 1944, Sterley was appointed

HARRY S. HOFFMAN

Surrogate Judge to succeed Harry Flemming, who had resigned from the post. The following year Sterley was elected on his own.

Active in Republican affairs for many years, Sterley served as Republican City Chairman and has been involved in political, banking, and civic affairs in Kingston and in Ulster County.

Followed Wilson

Sterley has been a member

of the Republican County Committee for approximately 23 years, and he assumed the top position after Assemblyman Kenneth L. Wilson stepped down.

Dr. Gerald P. Gorman chairs the Ulster County Democratic Committee. He was elected to the post in July of this year, drawing more votes than incumbent Aaron E. Klein during the party caucus.

JOHN B. STERLEY

Gorman remains as Democratic City Chairman, a post he was elected to in December of 1965.

Medical Career

Gorman opened up his medical doctor's office in Kingston in 1956 and has served in the practice of surgery here for the past 11 years. During that time he has served as a member of the Ulster County Board of Health, president of the Ulster

County chapter of the American Cancer Society.

In 1965, Gorman was the Democratic candidate for coronor, losing by less than 400 votes, after having campaigned for the establishing of a medical examiner system.

A former member of the Board of Education of the Saugerties Central School System, Harry S. Hoffman Jr. is the Conservative Party Chairman.

Hoffman is on the group staff of IBM Group Executive and vice President T.V. Larsen, and is a senior engineer for the giant IBM corporation.

Line C

Admittedly a small party, the Conservatives hold line C on the ballot and may control the difference in a close race between the top major party candidates.

Steve Korchowsky heads the Liberal Party County Committee, a post to which he was elected in September of 1965, and reelected in July, 1967.

Korchowski was the Liberal Party candidate for Mayor of Kingston in 1965.

The Liberal chieftain is a member of the Carpenter's Local.

The Liberals have endorsed one Republican and three Democrats for the top County positions and could make the big difference in the November elections.

Bond Issue Paramount to Rocky

By CHARLES DUMAS

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — As Gov. Rockefeller sees it, the most important question confronting New York voters is not the fate of the remodeled state constitution—but whether the state should undertake the largest single borrowing in its history.

On Rockefeller's orders, the question line of the Nov. 7 ballot was arranged so that the voters will be asked to decide first on his plan for a $2.5-billion transportation bond issue.

It will appear under the heading "Proposition 1."

The much-discussed constitution will be listed three spaces

away, under the title "Question 1."

Sandwiched in between will be two proposed amendments to the present Constitution. They were approved by the Legislature before the charter was overhauled and will be headed "Amendment 1" and "Amendment 2."

Amendment 1 would increase the state-guaranteed borrowing power of the Job Development Authority from $50 million to $100 million. The agency sells bonds and uses the proceeds for struggling industries.

Amendment 2 would permit the state to build and operate a ski center near Schroon Lake, with up to 30 miles of trails, in the Blue Ridge range of the Adirondack forest preserve. Voter approval is sought for an exception to the policy of keeping the preserve "forever wild."

The ballot arrangement was dictated by Rockefeller to separate his bond plan as widely as possible from the controversy over the revised constitution.

The reason was that the governor and his political advisers feared negative reactions toward the new charter might spill over onto the bond issue.

For his part, Rockefeller says he will vote for the new constitution. But he is not pressing

On the other hand, Rockefeller has waged an all-out campaign to persuade the electorate that the state should be allowed to borrow $2.5 billion for wholesale improvements of the state's mass transportation network.

He has earmarked $1 billion for highway construction, $1.25 billion for mass transit facilities and $250 million for airports.

Pooled with federal aid and contributions by local governments and public authorities, he says, the bond issue should support a total program of $5.35 billion, to be spent in the next five years.

The governor has pressed his plan upon the voters in a series of speaking engagements across the state. His effort has been backed by a saturation advertising campaign, financed by a committee of businessmen and others who see the plan as a major plus for New York industry.

Approval of the bond issue has become a must for Rockefeller in terms of its impact on the state budget.

He is banking on $89 million in transportation bond proceeds to keep his present $4.6-billion budget in balance. In addition, he intends to bond at least $300 million worth of highway construction in next year's budget.

The City's War of Words

Garraghan-Bechtold Mayoralty Could Go Right Down to Wire

Despite what many political observers thought a few months ago the race for mayor of Kingston between incumbent Raymond W. Garraghan and his opponent, C. John Bechtold, may well go down to the wire.

In some quarters Garraghan was considered unbeatable and Bechtold, the Republican-Liberal, was merely a sacrificial lamb.

Slow Start . . .

Such has not been the case. Bechtold, after a slow start, has been blasting the mayor on a number of issues. Garraghan, in return, has accused his opponent of a lack of knowledge of the facts.

A typical example of this is the war of words over a proposed city hall downtown. Garraghan had recommended the building of a city hall downtown for a variety of reasons. The mayor said the land was inexpensive ($8,000 per acre for a proposed 2½ acres), the cost of the project was within reason (about $500,000) and the city could afford it since he (the mayor) had reduced the city debt limit by over half a million dollars during his administration.

Mayor Garraghan also cited the woeful condition of the present city hall on Broadway and its lack of parking space and office space.

Bechtold countered the mayor's ideas on a new city hall downtown, referring to the plan as "Garraghan's Folly." The Republican advocated the repair of the present city hall, at some $75,000 over a four or five-year period.

The candidates have been at odds over the solving of Kingston's traffic problems. Bechtold has called for a detailed traffic study. In the meantime he has proposed the widening of South Wall Street from Greenkill Avenue to Wilbur Avenue.

Responding to the Bechtold charges, the mayor claimed he had "severely minimized" the local traffic problem during his two-year term of office. Garraghan termed his erection of a slow sign and no parking signs in front of the Boys' Club on Greenkill Avenue an "achievement."

Garraghan also pointed out that the new Hasbrouck Avenue By-Pass would "solve a lot of problems." Neither candidate indicated they had read Freeman articles quoting State highway officials as saying the bypass could take another five years to complete.

Reneged on Promise

According to Freeman files, Bechtold and his running mate Louis J. Smith, have already reneged on a campaign promise. In an Oct. 4 article they cited the need for new developers for building in Kingston. The duo admitted the plans were complicated but said they would release plans "within a week."

Garraghan has also expressed concern about new business and homes in Kingston but has yet to offer any plans on the subject.

Both the mayor and his opponent seem to agree that the real estate tax is at a limit. Garraghan suggested a sales tax, much like the one Poughkeepsie has. Bechtold has the sales tax "under study."

Garraghan and Bechtold have clashed on housing codes and their enforcement. Bechtold termed a meeting, Oct. 16 between Garraghan and his building department and housing code inspectors as "pure campaign hogwash."

Bechtold claims that Garraghan has appropriated $16,000 for housing code enforcement and the building department but that "nothing has been done since."

Garraghan counters, saying that under the Republican preceding him a housing code commission was set up but no money was appropriated for its operation.

Remarks between the candidates get pretty heated when it comes to the spending of city money. Garraghan has said he's underpaid at $10,000 per year as mayor. Bechtold said he thinks that's enough money for Garraghan for the amount of work he does for the city.

Ray for Manager Plan

Garraghan is for a city manager form of government paying the manager around $20,000 a year or paying him equal amount for the full-time job.

Bechtold thinks a full-time mayor is adequately compensated at $10,000 per year. He adds that he will be a full-time mayor if elected.

Bechtold's thinking on the city manager form of government is in line with a Freeman survey of aldermen on the topic who voted 7-1 against.

Both candidates are in agreement for a "decent wage" for city police and firemen. Bechtold would extend that decent wage to the employees of the Board of Public Works as well.

The issues will be even more hotly debated in the two weeks remaining before the Nov. 7 election. Both candidates can be expected to spend a lot of time in the streets going door to door. Kingston campaigns are traditionally waged that way.

Bechtold Comparative Novice

An edge has to be given to Garraghan in the public speaking department. The mayor has been through the pressures of a campaign, having beaten a strong candidate, Albert Kurdt, by 374 votes in 1965.

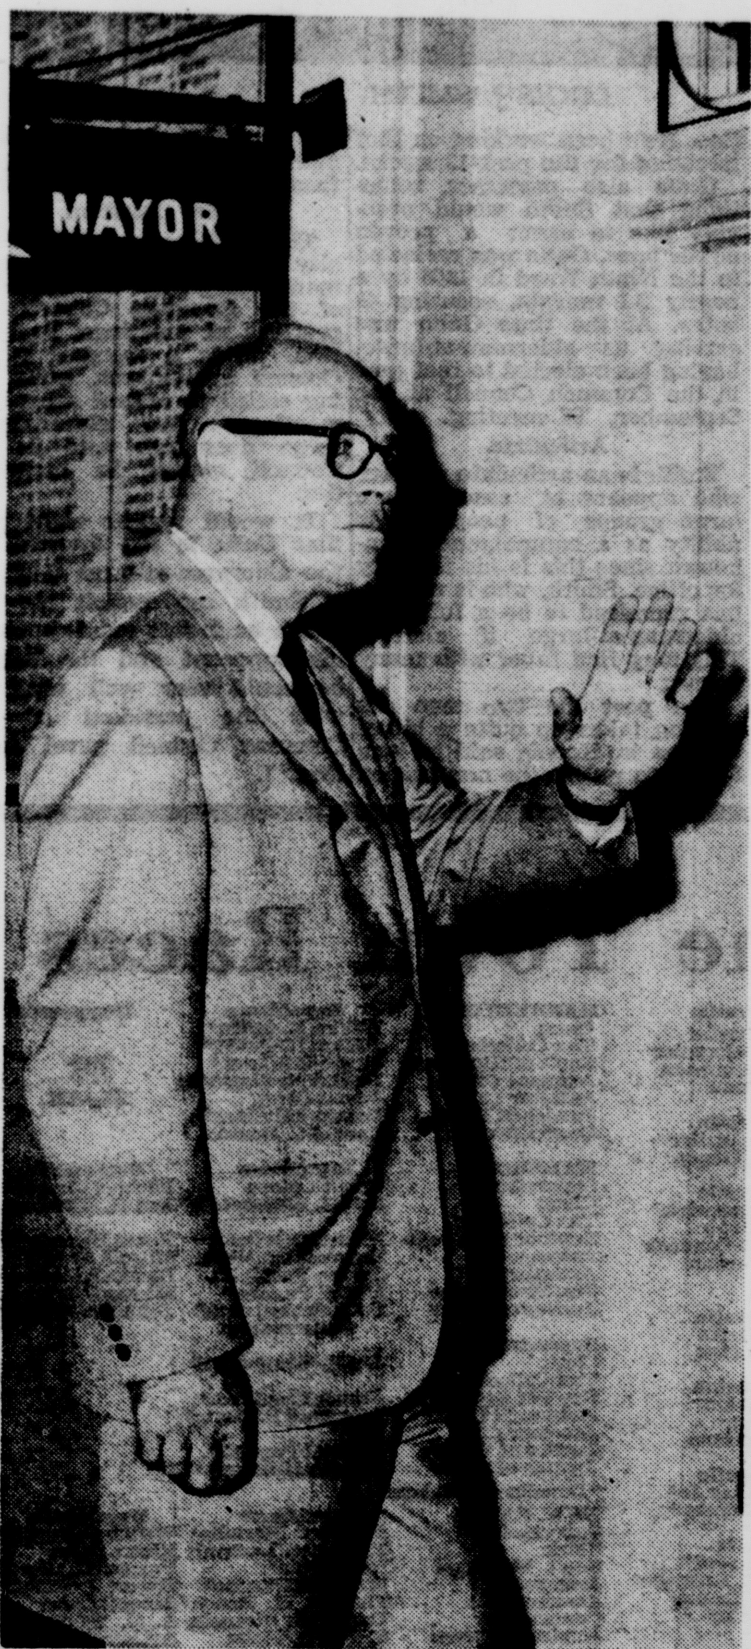

Bechtold is a comparative newcomer in the political wars.

By way of background, Garraghan was born in Haverstraw and came to Kingston in May of 1930 as an associate of the late Austin R. Newcombe. The Newcombe company became one of the largest oil distributors in the Hudson Valley. After the sale of the original Newcombe Company to Cities Service, Garraghan established the oil company which bears his name. Garraghan has been a director of the Windham Bank for many years, where he was once a clerk, and also director of the National Ulster County Bank. He is a former president of the Kiwanis Club of Kingston and a director of the Kingston Area Chamber of Commerce.

Bechtold, a native of Kingston, has been a conductor on the New York Central Railroad for the past 35 years. He is a past fire commissioner and an active Republican committeeman in the second Ward for more than 20 years.

The wealthy businessman and the train conductor will find out which one of them will occupy the mayor's seat for the next two years the night of Nov. 7.

Alderman-at-Large Race

Pits Smith Against Gallo

T. ROBERT GALLO

LOUIS J. SMITH

The race for alderman-at-large in Kingston pits a 31 year old two-term alderman against a retired pharmaceutical salesman.

This contest is expected to be close with T. Robert Gallo, Democrat-Liberal from the Ninth Ward opposing Louis J. Smith, Republican - Conservative, a Second Ward committee-man.

Won't Run

The two are battling for the post vacated by Francis R. Koenig, alderman-at-large under Mayor Raymond W. Garraghan. Koenig, a popular Democrat, chose not to run because of a pressing business schedule.

Voters have seen little discussion of the issues from the two candidates. Rather, the race seems to be primarily a personality battle.

Smith has termed the Gallo-Garraghan team as "ridiculous" basing his statement on the fact that Gallo was opposed to the mayor's budget which was finally passed in special session Jan. 27 this year.

Right To Disagree

Gallo has asserted his right to disagree, in fact has termed dissent an intricate part of the American governmental way of life. Gallo voted against the Garraghan budget at the Jan. 27th meeting.

Smith sees disagreement between an alderman-at-large and his mayor as an undesirable thing and promises complete cooperation with C. John Bechtold if the latter is elected.

Rubber Stamp

Gallo says that the statement by Smith indicates Smith would be little more than a rubber stamp for Bechtold.

Gallo's main criticism of Smith seems to be that Smith is inexperienced in city government. Garraghan says the same

No Contact

In his criticism of the Garraghan-Gallo team Smith has stated that the two Democrats don't like each other. In fact, Smith has stated that Garraghan and Gallo have had no personal contact for many months.

Gallo claims his opponent is a candidate without an issue. So far, Smith has done little but criticize what he terms the "Gallo-Garraghan Shotgun Marriage."

On the campaign trail Gallo's youth may prove a definite advantage. Gallo is a tireless campaigner and has expressed the intention to visit every home in the city before the election. He's been working on that intention for the past 12 weeks.

Gallo also possesses something that Smith would probably like to have: a proven power base. Gallo was reelected in the Ninth Ward in 1965 by a nearly 2-1 margin, securing 49 votes. At the time Gallo was serving as alderman-at-large, having been elected to that post in the Common Council at the September, '65 meeting.

Articulate

Smith is an articulate speaker who appears at ease before large groups of people. His ability as a campaigner is unknown since this is his first try for office. Smith, who is retired, has promised to be a full time alderman-at-large if elected. This may find favor with many voters.

The post the two men are seeking takes up quite a bit of time as is. Koenig said he was forced to refuse the nomination because of the time the alderman-at-large job took away from his insurance business.

Key Position

The position is a key one in city government. The alderman-at-large is the president of the Common Council and presides at meetings. In addition, he is a member of all Council committees, often being called to attend committee meetings. The alderman-at-large does not vote in the Council except in cases of ties.

It would appear right now that Gallo is the favorite for the alderman-at-large post but if Smith can exploit the gap which he insists exists between his opponent and the mayor, he could very well wind up with the president of the Common Council gavel come Nov. 7.

WHERE THE COUNTY LEGISLATORS WILL MEET

12-District 33 County Legislators To Replace Old Supervisor Board

Thirty-three county legislators will be elected from 12 legislative districts, and the County Legislature will replace the old Board of Supervisors.

The legislators will create and pass laws and proposals relative to the county at large, and for this law-making task they will each be paid $2,000 a year.

THE FIRST LEGISLATIVE DISTRICT comprises the Town of Saugerties, and four representatives will be elected from the district.

REPUBLICANS have nominated William D. Brinnier, C. Freeman Lasher, Peter M. Williams and Clifford Snyder to fill the four slots open.

WILLIAM D. BRINNIER, 40, is an attorney and a Justice of the Peace. Chairman of the Ulster County Civil Service Commission, Brinnier is against Federal and State infringement on "local municipal home rule."

C. FREEMAN LASHER, 51, is a self-employed merchant and a GOP committeeman. Lasher feels that his past experience will enable him to promote good sound business judgment and greater economy in county government.

PETER M. WILLIAMS, present Saugerties supervisor, will go for the supervisor and legislator post under local law 1, and he states that his major concern is, "The mounting costs of county government in the last 10 years."

CLIFFORD W. SNYDER, 42, holding a staff position in the engineering facility services of IBM, claims: "I have taken a stand against the growth of welfare and its associated programs."

DEMOCRATS from Saugerties offer G. Thomas Rea Jr., David J. Gobel, Paul M. Brazier and Richard Thornton to the voters.

G. THOMAS REA JR., 43, a self-employed attorney, believes that "every homeowner in the township" could have his investment threatened because of a lack of zoning.

DAVID J. GOBEL, 44, a driver education instructor, believes that a person must take part in county government before he can understand it and that, if elected, "I will study the issues."

PAUL M. BRAZIER, 32, a teacher at the Saugerties High School hits out at the loss of free property in the Town, the "Virginia brick fiasco" and the UCCC "political football."

RICHARD F. THORNTON, 42, and insurance agent, wants to see "a return to the two-party system in Saugerties."

CONSERVATIVES have fielded four candidates:

RICHARD J. LUTHER, an elementary school teacher, is for "long-range county-wide planning" and the "use of Ulster County men and material in construction projects."

HARRY S. HOFFMAN JR., 42, senior engineer at IBM, will seek "reduction and restraint in the 'give-away' programs."

REV. DONALD J. MORGAN, 30, a minister, is against the "bossism" in Saugerties, and the "contempt for the voter."

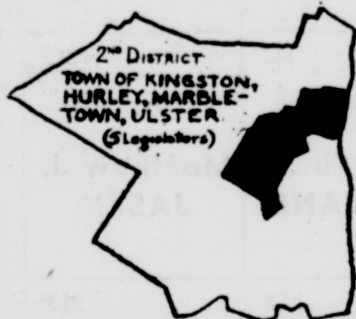

JOSEPH R. MIZEREK, 43, a consulting engineer, is for "enacting laws protecting the average man," and "bringing equilibrium to our county budget."

G7RTRUDE PAGLIARONI, 37, purchasing administrator, is for "recreation for all ages and equitable tax assessments."

JOSEPH G. ROCHE did not respond to the questionnaire.

By WILLIAM S. STEVENS

ALBANY, N. N. (AP)—when the State Constitutional Convention drew to a close after nearly six months of deliberations, one paramount fact emerged — voters will face an enormous decision when they go to the polls Nov. 7.

They will be asked, for example, to determine if the so-called Blaine Amendment barring state aid to parochial schools should be repealed. Some have viewed Blaine as basic to the concept of separation of church and state.

On their shoulder also will rest the burden of declaring whether or not the state should assume local welfare costs, now estimated at $528 million a year.

Their yes or no ballot additionally will shape the future of the state's court system, determining, for instance whether all courts will be paid by the state.

Millions of words on these and other questions have been written and spoken about the relative merits of the revised Constitution.

186 Delegates

It is a product of 186 delegates, who, for the eighth time in the state's 190-year history, met in convention to redesign the basic charter under which all of the state's citizens are governed.

To take effect, the proposals approved by the delegates must be approved by the voters.

Some basic facts about the proposal:

The convention began April 4 and cost about $10 million. The revised document is about 23,000 words in length and comprises 15 articles. It is less than half the verbiage of the present, more than 50,000 word, 20-article Constitution. The present charter was approved generally in an 1898 convention and modified in some respects in the 1938 convention, the last one before this year's meeting.

And while it is shorter than the present State Constitution, the proposed charter is still more than twice as long as the Federal Constitution.

A great deal of the revised Constitution is non-political in nature, but other sections of it reflect in many respects the parity makeup of the convention —

88 Democrats, 85 Republicans and 3 Liberals.

Personality Factors

It also mirrors, to a varying degree, the personalities of the conclave's leadership — Democratic President Anthony J. Travia and Republican Minority Leader Earl W. Brydges.

Their viewpoints, and a wide spectrum of other opinions, will be reflected in the ensuing six weeks as the question of approval or disapproval rages across the state.

In addition to the arguments over approach, the estimated price tag of $2 billion if all the changes are approved, also is expected to become a major point of debate.

In its revised form, the proposed Constitution retains many of the provisions of the present charter. In most cases, the language used to spell out the guarantee or mandate is more simple and direct.

Because there are five less articles in the proposed form than in the current Constitution, an article-by-article comparison is not possible. In some instances,

opposed

ces, sections dealing with certain items were transferred to other articles.

Outstanding Changes

But there are some outstanding differences between the proposed document and the present Constitution. Taken in numerical order, their impact and significant changes — if approved by the voters — will be:

cal order, their impact and significant changes — if approved by the voters — will be:

Article I Bill of Rights

The chief change spells out in detail the procedures that may be permitted in wiretapping or eavesdropping. It would permit wiretapping only on application of a district attorney or the state attorney general. Only the presiding justice of an Appellate court, or a limited number of designated Supreme Court judges could grant permission for wire taps.

Otherwise, the Bill of Rights would preserve guarantees of fair trial, freedom from illegal search or seizure, equal protection of the law, denial of unreasonable bail and protection against discrimination.

Article II Judiciary

What the condition did not do looms important. It left the minimum voting age at 21, but, in a concession to those pressing for a lower minimum age, granted the Legislature power to reduce the minimum to 18.

The convention wiped out any constitutional reference to literacy requirements and relaxed to a certain extent residency provisions in that voters would have to be residents of the state for less time in order to cast a ballot.

Article III Legislature

The proposed Constitution would establish a five-member commission to realign legislative and congressional districts following every 10-year federal census. The four legislative leaders would appoint one member each and the fifth member would be appointed by the Court of Appeals.

The State Senate would be expanded to 60 members. Members of the Legislature would be required to submit detailed expense accounts instead of the present system of receiving a lump sum — lulu — for expenses.

Article IV Executive

Remains generally the same as the present document, but would take away the governor's pocket veto. Under current provisions any bill not signed by the governor within 30 days of the Legislature's adjournment is considered vetoed. The revised measure would provide the reverse, that is, any bill not signed within 30 days would be considered to have become law.

Article V Judiciary

Certainly one of the most hotly debated and controversial articles in the proposed Constitution. Depending on the source, the article has been variously described as a major step forward or a mere continuation of that state's present system.

One important change would establish the Court of Appeals as the main supervisory body for all courts in the state, replacing the present judicial Conference, which comprises the chief judge of the Court of Appeals and the presiding justices of the appellate division of State Supreme Court.

The state-wide court system, including Supreme Court, Surrogate Court, and Family Court would be financed by the state. District Courts, if approved by the voters in county-wide elections, will be established and replace local courts, with the costs paid for by the state.

New York City residents would be granted jury trials for misdemeanor cases where the penalty is more than six months. The Court of Appeals would be able to call for additional judges in various courts, as needed.

At the same time, the convention watered down a controversial measure dealing with the district courts. As originally proposed, the district courts would have had the effect of abolishing local justice of the peace courts and County Courts. As finally approved, however, the Legislature would be empowered to permit district courts and local courts.

Article VI State Departments, Offices and Public Authorities

Under its new terms, the article would permit the state to expand the number of departments, now limited to 20. If the governor sought legislative approval before Feb. 1 of any year to establish or change a department, and the Senate or Assembly did not disapprove within 60 days the governor's plan would be carried out.

The article also would empower the Legislature to decide what governmental records, including those of public authorities, would be open to public inspection.

Article VII Public Officers and Employees

Would make constitutional current law requiring an area's prevailing wage rates be paid to privately-employed workers on state projects. It also would eliminate present requirements for educational background in some civil service promotions.

Article VIII Natural Resources and Conservation

Leaves untouched the basic concept of "forever wild" in the Adirondack and Catskill forest reserves. Also spells out for the first time a so-called Conservation Bill of Rights making it a legislative duty to attack water and air pollution and preserve scenic and natural beauty.

Despite objections, it eliminates previous constitutional references to protection of the Barge Canal system.

Article IX Education

Orders the Legislature to provide for a system of higher education which may include free tuition, grants, scholarships and loans. This represents a retreat for Travia, who had pressed for free higher college education.

Specifically bans discrimination based on religion, creed or national origin. Opponents argued that the religion provision would require parochial schools to accept non-denominational pupils at the expense of pupils of the school's religious persuasion.

Mentions for the first time in the Constitution the State University of New York and the City University of New York.

The mention was seen as to prevent recurring attempts to change the operation of the tuition-free City University system.

Article X State Finance

Empowers the Legislature to approve state borrowing without having a voter referendum. The borrowing permission would require approval by two sessions of the Legislature with an election intervening.

Article XI Local Government

Prevent town officers from serving on county boards of supervisors or legislative bodies, thus virtually eliminating boards of supervisors as they are now in effect. It also would require local governments to re-appportion on the "one-man, one-vote" principal spelled out by the U.S. Supreme Court.

31 Candidates Are Seeking 13 Seats as City Aldermen

Spirited campaigning is underway in Kingston and undoubtedly it will continue until Election Day, Nov. 7, with 31 candidates seeking the 13 seats to make up the next Common Council. Ten incumbent aldermen are running for another term, and candidates for the other three seats are newcomers to the political field.

With the exception of the Ninth, Tenth and Eleventh Wards aldermen now in office are candidates. The Ninth Ward seat will be vacated by T. Robert Gallo (D) who is the party candidate for alderman-at-large.

Alderman James F. Howard (D) of the 10th Ward, and Raymond Armater (R) 11th Ward are not candidates this year.

Alderman William G. Davis (D-L) senior member of the present Common Council, is a candidate for another term as representative of the 13th Ward. He will be opposed by Republican Theodore Letus an IBM employe of 159 Wilbur Avenue, and Isabelle H. McHugh, Conservative party candidate.

Second Term

George Margolis, (R-L) First Ward, is running for a second term. His opponent will be Florence Shea Ludlow (D) who operates a beauty shop at 87 St. James Street, where she also resides. Margolis, a former Republican committeeman from the First and Sixth Wards, is a member of the Masons, Shrine, City Republican Club and Congregation Agudas Achim. He owns a manufacturing company on Crown Street and is a lifelong resident of Kingston. His opponent was Democratic candidate for alderman of the First Ward in 1963 and lost by three votes.

Robert C. Schantz (R) will be opposed by Joseph F. Policano (D-L) and Thomas F. Rieley (Cons) for alderman in the Second Ward a seat Schantz now holds. Schantz has been Democratic committeeman in his ward 10 years. Rieley is currently on the Board of Directors of the Ulster County Community Chest. Policano, a former police commissioner, is secretary to the City Democratic Committee. He is employed at IBM.

John J. Naccarato (R) is running for a third term for alderman in the Third Ward. His opponents are Stanley J. Petro Jr., (D-L) and Joan Belser (C). Naccarato is owner of Naccarato's Shoe store on Broadway and Johnnie's By-pass Tavern. He is president of Central Broadway Businessmen's Association. Petro, lifelong resident of Kingston, graduate of Sienna College, is employed at the Port Ewen branch of the Rondout bank. He is a Navy veteran. The Conservative candidate is former member of Kingston League of Women Voters and mother of five children.

Emillio A. Primo, Jr., (D-L) seeking another term, will be opposed by Frank Jablonski (R) and Ronald F. Cole (C), in the Fourth Ward contest.

Two Way Contest

A two-way contest is scheduled for alderman of the Fifth Ward. Clifford G. Sinsabaugh (D-L) is seeking another term. His opponent will be Frank Fabbie (R-C) candidate. Sinsabaugh veteran of World War II served several years as Democratic committeeman in the 5th Ward. He resigned when nominated as a party candidate for alderman. He served as a member of the Dutchess County Democratic committee executive board. Fabbie has been active in many organizations in the area for many years.

CITY HALL—WHERE THE ALDERMEN WILL MEET

In the Sixth Ward, incumbent Alderman Joseph Epstein, running on the Democrat-Liberal ticket, faces opposition this year by Republican Richard K. Fox. Epstein served as alderman of his ward from Jan. 1, 1932 through Jan. 31, 1937 and made a successful run for the municipal legislative post in 1965. He has been the Democratic member of the County Board of Elections since 1938 and operates a cigar store on lower Broadway.

Edward Norton (D-L) Seventh Ward seeks to defeat his Republican opponent, Richard Burns for a new term. The Conservatives made no nomination for this office.

Peter Mancuso (D-L) candidate is running for another term as representative on the Common Council for the Eighth Ward. His Republican opponent will be Louis H. Schafer. There was no Conservative party nominee for the office. Mancuso is a member of the Democratic Men's Club and Rapid Hose Fire Co. He was Democratic committeeman from the Eighth Ward for five years, and is co-manager of the Shamrock Tavern on Broadway. In 1966, Schafer was recipient of the Ulster County Bar Association's Liberty Bell Award in recognition of his long community service. Schafer served as executive secretary of the Kingston YMCA for 22 years before his retirement in September, 1965.

Ninth Ward

James J. Madden (D-L) and William B. Merrill (R) are contesting for the Ninth Ward seat to be vacated by Gallo, running mate of Mayor Raymond W. Garraghan (D). Madden, a Kingston native, is employed as bartender at Governor Clinton Hotel. A World War II veteran, he is a member of the Democratic Men's Club and American Legion. Merrill is an insurance adjuster and resides at 60 West Chester Street. He is well known in his ward.

A contest is being waged in the Tenth Ward for Alderman James F. Howard's seat on the Common Council. Peter C. Fisher (R) and Solly C. Present (D-L) are the candidates. Fisher, an auto salesman, is a Kingston High School graduate and attended Union and St. Lawrence Universities. He is a member of Moose Lodge and United Commercial Travelers Association. He resides at 19 Liberty Street with his wife, the former Marguerite Conlon. They have two sons, both employed by IBM. Present is manager of the men's and boy's department at Caldor's. Before entering military service in World War II, he operated a store on lower Broadway. He is a member of Congregation Agudas Achim and United Commercial Travelers Association. He and his wife, the former Marion Toffel, reside at 70 Henry Street with their two children.

A three-cornered fight for the seat of Alderman Raymond Armater is slated in the Eleventh Ward. Candidates seeking that post are Joseph F. Conlin (D-L); Manuel B. Lip-ton (R) and Lorraine B. Fisher (C) of Greenkill Avenue. Conlin, employed at IBM is a Navy veteran of World War II. In 1965 he was the unsuccessful candidate for supervisor in his ward, losing by a small margin considering the political setup of the ward, to then Supervisor Robert F. Phinney, (R).

Majority Leader

John L. Machione (R-C) incumbent Twelfth Ward alderman will be opposed at next month's election by James G. Gardiner (D-L) candidate. Machione served as a majority leader of the Common Council under Mayor John S. Schwenk and was elected minority leader by Republican aldermen in the latter part of 1965 when the Democrats took over a majority of seats. Machione, who resides at 23 Janet Street, is an expediter at IBM. He operated the Raimond Beauty shop in Kingston several years before opening an electrolysis salon here. He served as chairman of the Laws and Rules Committee and as chairman of the finance committee of the Common Council. He is past exalted ruler of the Elks Lodge, and past president of St. Joseph's Holy Name Society. He is a graduate of the U. S. Maritime School.

William G. Davis (D-L) senior member of the Common Council is seeking re-election as 13th Ward alderman. His opponents are Theodore Letus (R) and Isabelle H. McHugh (C). Davis, who has served on many of the key committees of the Common Council, resides at 1 Fitch Street. A native of Chichester, he has been a resident of Kingston for more than 40 years. He is employed by the New York Central Railroad. Davis was the first Liberal Party candidate in local history to be elected a member of the Common Council. He has served as county chairman of the Liberal Party. A graduate of business school, Davis has served as secretary-treasurer of Local 898, Brotherhood of Railway and Steamship Clerks. He also held the office of secretary-treasurer of the Liberal Party.

Amendments to Constitution

Retains the present method of submitting amendments to the Constitution. An amendment first must gain approval by two separate Legislatures and then be voted upon by the people.

Establishes for the first time qualifications for Constitutional Convention delegates, spelling out that they must be 21, eligible to vote in the state and live in the state for three years. It bars the governor, lieutenant governor, attorney general, comptroller and judges of the

opposed

Court of Appeals from serving in a convention.

Sets 1992, and every 20 years after that, as times when the people will be asked if they want another convention. It also permits the Legislature to provide for submitting the question at other times.

2 Candidates Seek County DA Position

JOSEPH P. TORRACA

DAVID M. BARNOVITZ

33—KINGSTON DAILY FREEMAN, OCT. 24, 1967

Torraca and Barnovitz Battle in Hard Race

The Ulster County District Attorney is the chief prosecuting attorney for both civil and criminal cases in the county, and his office is the major investigative agency.

It is the District Attorney's office that argues the merits of the state's cases before the court.

The job, arranged on a part-time basis, carries with it a staff of five part-time assistants and two full-time investigators.

$11,500 Annually

The district attorney earns $11,500 per year, and the post calls for a three-year term.

The total operating budget for personal services for the department has been upped from a 1966 figure of $61,220 to a 1967 funding of $75,800.

Second only to the county judge in the order of its elective importance, the November 7th election will determine whether incumbent Joseph P. Torraca, a Republican, will be returned to office, or whether Democratic-Liberal challenger David M. Barnovitz will assume the duties.

JOSEPH P. TORRACA, 43, a resident of the Town of Marlboro, attended Dartmouth College and was graduated from Fordham University in 1947 and

New York Law School in 1950. Torraca states: "I attended both college and law school at night, and during the day worked at various legal professions in order to obtain a practical as well as a theoretical approach."

Served in Marines

The incumbent DA enlisted in the United States Marine Corps in July of 1943, served during World War II in the Pacific, and saw action on islands of Guam and Iwo Jima with the Third Marine Division.

Commissioned a Second Lieutenant, he was honorably discharged as First Lieutenant in 1946.

Torraca was a member of the staff of district attorney of New York County Frank Hogan's office for two years, and as law investigator for the City of New York for two years.

Republican Torraca was also a United States Naval Intelligence Agent for three years.

The incumbent district attorney for Ulster County served as assistant district attorney from 1956 to 1964 under the leadership of Howard C. St. John, Raymond J. Mino, and David W. Corwin.

He was elected to the top slot in 1964 and served from 1965 to the present.

His total legal experience in law enforcement and in the prosecution of crimes closes in on a total of 18 years.

The District Attorney is a member of the Executive Committee of the New York State District Attorney's Association; a member of the National District Attorney's Association, and a member of the International Narcotic Enforcement Officer's Association.

Responding to the League of Women Voter's questionnaire, Torraca declared that he is for the district attorney being a full-time position.

He states: "At present, the position of district attorney is part-time but I feel that with the increase in crime, Supreme Court decisions affecting searches, seizures, and confessions, the extension of the jurisdiction of the justice of the peace courts to hear and determine all misdemeanors, the new Penal Law, etc., it becomes apparent that a district attorney devote all his time and energy to his position."

In Full Accord

Torraca further says, "I am in full accord with the canons of professional ethics that the primary duty of a lawyer engaged in public prosecution is not to convince, but to see that justice is done."

DAVID M. BARNOVITZ, 30, was born in Kingston on November 19, 1937, attended Kingston schools and graduated from Kingston High School in June 1954.

Barnovitz attended Colgate University and received his bachelor of art's degree in 1958. He got his law degree from the New York University School of Law in 1961.

The Democratic-Liberal challenger is currently a partner in the firm of Streifer & Barnovitz with offices on Main Street, Kingston.

Barnovitz served in the U.S. Army Reserve forces from which he received his honorable discharge in 1965.

He was admitted to the Ulster County Bar in 1961.

Barnovitz has practiced before every court in the State of New York, and has made both trial and appellate appearances.

Family Court Work

He has represented numerous clients in the criminal courts and is an Official Law Guardian of the Ulster County Family Court. Barnovitz recently stated:

"The time has come for an all-out war against the growing criminal element in our midst. Such war cannot be fought by merely reacting to crime; we must take the initiative to stamp it out."

Also responding to the questionnaire submitted by the League of Women Voters, wherein the League asked: "On what local controversial issue have you taken a strong stand? And how do you defend your position?" Barnovitz answered:

"Ulster County has the lowest felony indictment conviction ratio of all the 62 counties in the State of New York. Over 86 per cent of all felony cases are either lost or result in deal-making."

Barnovitz further declared "My position is that we should prosecute murderers, rapists, robbers, and other felons for the crimes they commit, thereby making Ulster County a much safer place than it is today."

"The deal-making, and the extraordinarily poor judgement of cases made by the present district attorney's office must stop."

The challenger concluded by saying, "I sincerely believe that my position needs no defense."

Candidate Hits Lack Of Recreation Areas

Speaking before Democrats in the Towns of Hurley and Ulster Saturday, Fred Kuhnelt declared, "there are no public areas set aside by the County for swimming, golf, boating, or camping," and the county legislator candidate pledged himself to seeking out the means to create the facilities.

Kuhnelt, Democratic candidate for the new legislature in District No. 2, which includes the Towns of Kingston, Hurley, Marbletown and Ulster, charged the incumbent supervisors in the four towns with laxity toward the subject of recreation.

Kuhnelt also said that there had been no planning "for the creation of job opportunities for the orderly growth of our community."

The Democrat stated that the Village of Athens, further Upstate, had a population of "roughly 300 people, but it had a public boat launching facility while the greater Kingston area, with a population of over 50,000, has no such facility."

The county legislator candidate said, "Across the Hudson River you will find two public golf courses, Baird and Staatsburg, camping facilities for tenting at Taconic Park and Rudd Pond near Millerton."

"In fact," Kuhnelt went on, "there are a total of five park facilities where bathing, archery, boat livery and launching, hiking and available food and refreshment accommodations are available."

Kuhnelt further stated that Ulster County had the Belleayre Ski Center and the camping facility at Woodland Valley "and that is all."

He concluded by saying that he would seek the available federal and state funds necessary to initiate a recreation program for Ulster County.

"For the county not to avail itself of state and federal funds is, in fact, supporting the recreational facilities of other counties at the expense of our own community," Kuhnelt said.

Three Seeking Two Appeals Posts

35-KINGSTON DAILY FREEMAN, OCT. 24, 1967

Two seats on the seven-man bench of the State Court of Appeals are to be filled in the Nov. 7 election.

Three men seek the posts, Matthew J. Jasen, who is endorsed by four political parties, Republican, Democrat, Liberal and conservative; Charles D. Breitel, who has the Republican, Democrat and Liberal endorsements and Kenneth J. Mullane who is a Conservative candidate.

Under the Court of Appeals system, the chief judge receives a salary of $42,000 and associate judges $39,500 plus $6,000 in lieu of expenses.

The posts to be filled are those of Judge John J. Voorhis of Rochester whose term expires Dec. 31, 1967 and one of the candidates, Judge Charles D. Breitel, who was appointed to his seat in 1966 to fill a vacancy, now seeks election to keep his post.

The court of appeals is the court of last resort with appellate jurisdiction only. The right to appeal to it is limited to classes of cases enumerated by the Constitution which may be further restricted by law.

The court consists of a chief judge and six associate judges who are chosen by the electors of the state for terms of 14 years. No judge can hold his office after the age of 70. Judges can hold no other public office or trust, except that they may be members of a constitutional convention. They cannot receive any fees for their own use.

Five members of the court constitute a quorum and the concurrence of four shall be necessary to a decision; but no more than seven judges shall sit in any case even though the governor may designate any number of additional justices of the Supreme Court to assist when cases accumulate.

Judge Breitel, 58, who now sits on the appeals bench, was a former assistant in the Governor Thomas E. Dewey special rackets investigation in 1935-37. A graduate of the University of Michigan, he received his LL.B. at Columbia University School of Law in 1932.

An adjunct professor of that university since 1963, he is also a member of the Board of Visitors of Columbia Law School. He has served the New York County District Attorney's office, was counsel to Gov. Dewey and a Supreme Court Justice. He is a member of the President's Crime Commission Council, and American Law Institute

He resides in New York City. Jasen, who at 51 is the youngest of the three contenders, resides at Lakeview, L. I. A trial lawyer since 1940, he served overseas during World War II and was a United States Judge at Heidelberg, Germany from 1946-48.

A graduate of Canisius College, University of Buffalo, School of Law and Harvard University Civic Affairs School, he has been a Supreme Court Justice since 1957. The author of a number of articles on law and administration of justice, he is past president of the Lawyer's Club of Buffalo and University of Buffalo Law School Alumni. He was senior partner in the firm of Jasen, Manz, Johnson and Bayger from 1948 to 1957.

Mullane, 58, experienced in corporate law and business

judgements, has been counsel to Dioptric Instrument Company. He has had intensive and extensive experience in the field of wills, estates and trusts, probate and surrogate's practice. Mullane of Central Hanover Bank and Trust Company was one of the leading decisions on "due process."

A resident of 468 Riverside Drive, New York City, he received his AB degree at Mount St. Mary's College, Emmitsburg, Md. in 1929. He received his LL.B. from Harvard Law School in 1933 and he did a year of post graduate work in medieval history at Columbia University, 1929-30.

The Court of Appeals, which had its origins with the Dutch government, was reorganized as it is presently constituted, by an amendment to the Constitution in 1869.

VOTING INFORMATION

To vote, you must be:

21 years old on or before November 7

A U. S. citizen by birth or by naturalization (newly naturalized citizens no longer have a waiting period of 90 days before they are eligible to vote).

A resident of N. Y. State, your county, city or village three months

And you must be registered

Enroll in the party of your choice. You can enroll when you register. Your party enrollment stands unless you change it by re-enrolling during central or local registration periods.

VOTING MACHINE

Election Day is November 7; polls open from 6 a. m. to 9 p. m.

How to use the voting machine:

Pull large handle to close curtains. Do not move it again until you have finished voting. You have three minutes.

Move lever nearest to the name of the candidate for whom you want to vote. Move lever over or next to "yes" or no" when voting on issues. If you change your mind, you can change position of levers.

There is a place to write in on the voting machine BUT, once you open a write-in slot, you cannot change your mind and use a lever for a candidate for that office whose name is printed on the ballot.

When your decisions are final, LEAVE THE LEVERS DOWN.

Pull large handle to open curtains. This records your vote and snaps levers back to their original position. This insures you that your vote is secret.

Race for Treasurer

The two candidates for the three-year term of county treasurer include the Republican incumbent Fred Dubois of New Paltz and Democrat candidate, Arnold Banker of Hardenburgh.

DuBois, who was first elected to the post in 1958 and has been reelected each successive term since, also has a Conservative party endorsement.

Banker, who wishes to unseat DuBois has also been given the nod by the Liberal party.

The treasurer, resident of 125 DuBois Road, New Paltz, is a high school graduate and studied bookkeeping. Director and past president of Federal Land Bank Association, he is also a trustee of the New Paltz Savings Bank.

Banker, who has picked up liberal endorsement as well as that of the Democrats, has pledged to, "protect your monies like a banker and see that it is invested to bring back the largest returns to the county. Also to see that it is spent wisely."

A 37-year resident of Ulster County, he graduated from Margaretville High School and was educated in the field of engineering.

He served as supervisor of the Town of Hardenburgh, entered a father-son farm operation in 1940 and later began a trucking and contracting business specializing in ski lifts. Banker has spent time abroad in estimating and engineering services.

The treasurer's duties are administrative. He pays bills of the county whenever presented with the proper warrant, usually from the county auditor.

He collects certain taxes directly such as those from public service corporations. The remainder of the taxes are levied through collectors of the cities and towns.

The duty of the county treasurer is to collect delinquent taxes for towns and school districts by advertising delinquent properties for sale, securing tax liens and eventually foreclosing if taxes and penalties remain unpaid.

He is the chief fiscal officer, who receives and disburses all county funds. His office requires his being bonded.

He keeps records of all fiscal transactions and is responsible for the distribution of all state and federal aid.

Monies are paid out by the treasury on any expenditures included in the approved county budget and those provided for by state law. Control and supervision of the treasurer's office is exercised by the board of supervisors and the state through its audit system and forms supplied by its accounting department.

Race for Coroner

One of three coroner posts in Ulster County is to be filled in the Nov. 7 election.

Incumbent Republican Arthur C. Chipp of Kerhonkson, who was last elected in 1964, is seeking another three-year term.

Opposing him is Ronald E. Newman of New Paltz who seeks the post on both the Democratic and Liberal ticket. Chipp who resides in Kerhonkson was educated in Kingston Public Schools and at the State University and Rebound Training School for Embalmers.

Director of H. B. Humiston Funeral Home Inc., at Kerhonkson, Chipp is certified by Postgraduate Medical Conference, Law-Medicine Institute Boston University.

Newman says he offers his candidacy as a protest to the coroner system. He strongly advocates the institution of a medical examiner's system, staffed by physicians, to "do the work of physicians".

The investigation of the cause of death is a highly technical task, which he maintains offers to the deceased and his family, the greatest protection.

This, truly, cannot be performed by an undertaker," he claims.

Newman, a graduate of the State University at New Paltz, has made his home in Ulster County since graduation. At present he is a teacher of government at Poughkeepsie Junior and Senior High Schools.

The two coroner posts which do not expire this year are held by Republicans William S. Keyser of Kingston and Henry S. Hartley of Saugerties. Keyser was last elected in 1966 and Hartley in 1965. Both are morticians.

The coroner is an elected official who holds inquests whenever there is an unexplained death or fatal accident. He has the power to call witnesses, hear evidence and seek out professional advice. He may order autopsies and is in charge of the morgue.

No special legal or medical qualifications are necessary for the position. Autopsies may be requested when crimes or negligence is suspected in connection with a death. Autopsies are performed by a pathologist under the supervision of the City of Kingston Laboratory and the coroner has use of the state laboratory facilities.

He presides at coroner's inquests and renders official verdicts as to the cause of death.

Democratic challenger Schick received his bachelors degree from Siena College in 1949, and got his AB and LLB from Albany Law School in 1952.

Admitted in 1952

He was admitted to the New York State Bar in 1952 and on March 15, 1961 was admitted to practice before the Supreme Court of the United States.

Schick entered the U.S. Army Air Force in 1942 and received his discharge in 1945.

In 1952, after his graduation from Albany Law School, he entered the offices of Rusk and Rusk in Marlboro and in 1954 he established his own law office in Kingston.

PRICE TEN CENTS

Nothing to It: Rockefeller

BY LYNN MULVANEY
"No racial discrimination exists" in any state agency.
That was the emphatic reply given today by Governor Nelson A. Rockefeller's office in answer to Congressman Joseph Y. Resnick's charges of discrimination against Negroes, collusion and laxity on the part of state agencies.
Blamed Governor
In this, the latest of the congressman's string of attacks on all levels of government, he placed the blame squarely on the shoulders of the governor, saying "I hold the governor solely and personally responsible for this situation."

Resnick's charge was also denied by the New York State Thruway Authority whom Resnick said has only 60 Negroes on its staff of 2,391.
"This kind of charge comes up periodically," a Thruway spokesman said this morning "and when the person has gotten the attention he seeks, it dies out."
The spokesman said the congressman's figures were correct" but added, "is 60 good or bad?"

"We attempt to comply with the spirit and letter of state policy," he said, "and go out of our way to recruit Negroes. This includes placing ads in Negro newspapers and on radio and television stations."
Conscious of Problems
"We are deeply conscious of the problems involved."
Another denial came today from the New York State Bridge Authority, which Resnick says does not employ a single Negro on its staff of 115.

Vacancies in the agency were filled from lists supplied by the State Civil Service Department.
Edward Burns, administrator of the Bridge Authority claims, "If Negroes or Puerto Ricans are not on the list, it's not our fault."
Laxity on the part of the State Commission Against Discrimination, another Resnick charge, brought forth this comment today from the chairman of the New York State Commission for Human Rights, Robert Mangum:

"In my 25 years of public life I don't think I was ever so bewildered as when I read the story from Washington reporting Congressman Resnick's charges."
"Obviously Rep. Resnick is ignorant of the fact that only last month Gov. Rockefeller authorized an ethnic survey of state employees in the nearly 60 units of state service to both collect information appropriate for review and analysis in the areas of recruitment, testing, appointment and promotion."

Smash Cong Near Saigon

Bomb North's Largest Air Base

BY ROBERT TUCKMAN
Associated Press Writer

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. Air Force, Marine and Navy jets, in a coordinated raid today, bombed North Vietnam's biggest air base—the Phuc Yen airfield 18 miles northwest of Hanoi—for the first time in the war.
The Phuc Yen field, where the North Vietnamese based some squadrons of their Soviet-designed MIG fighters, had been on the Pentagon's prohibited list.
A U.S. spokesman said the American planes flew through challenging MIGs, intense anti-aircraft and missile fire to attack the installation. Pilots reported shooting down a MIG21 and probably destroying a second.

The aerial action was announced as South Vietnamese infantrymen clashed with a guerrilla force just south of Saigon and the Viet Cong shelled two government positions less than 25 miles north of the capital.
While fighting picked up in an arc around Saigon, U.S. Air Cavalrymen in the northern provinces mopped up in a fortified village near the South China Sea where they reported they killed 48 North Vietnamese regulars in seven hours of fighting Monday.
Bomb Rail Yards
Over North Vietnam, American warplanes bombed five railroad yards in scattered areas Monday, including a raid for the second time in as many days on the Haiphong yards 17 miles from the center of the port city. U.S. Navy jets also attacked a highway bridge three-quarters of a mile from Haiphong's heart and the Hoa Lac airfield 20 miles west of Hanoi, which until recent raids was a base for MIG interceptors.

In a delayed report, the U.S. Command disclosed that U.S. gunship helicopters killed 17 Vietnamese civilians by mistake and wounded 23 more in the Mekong Delta last Thursday.
The helicopters attacked a treeline along a canal from where they reported receiving gunfire. A spokesman said the gunships fired at the request of a South Vietnamese regimental commander who said his troops were receiving enemy fire. The spokesman said the incident occurred at dusk and the helicopters were unaware of two small hamlets in the area.

In the fighting around Saigon, several battalions of South Vietnamese infantrymen jumped off at dawn on a search and destroy sweep 18 miles west-southwest of the capital.
In three clashes with guerrilla units in the next five hours, a government spokesman reported 11 guerrillas were killed, seven prisoners were taken, and 24 weapons were seized. The weapons included a Soviet anti-aircraft gun with six barrels, the first such weapon reported captured by Vietnamese troops.

The spokesman said the government force had no casualties.
Vietnamese infantrymen suffered light casualties in one mortar shelling 12 miles north-northwest of Saigon, while eight civilians were wounded in the other, 25 miles north-northwest of the capital.

In the northernmost 1st Corps Area, troops of the U.S. 1st Air Cavalry Division reported killing 48 North Vietnamese in fighting Monday in a fortified village 13 miles northwest of Tam Ky, on a coastal plain between Highway One and the sea.

Major Bombing Lull Considered by U.S.

SAIGON (AP) — The United States is considering a major pause in the bombing of North Vietnam this winter to test Hanoi's willingness to start peace talks, an American diplomat said today.
But There's Scant Hope
There is scant hope among diplomats here that even a prolonged halt in the bombing will induce North Vietnam to sit down and work out any peace settlement that Saigon and Washington would accept.

But because of heavy foreign pressure for a pause, Washington might order one in an attempt to show that the United States is eager for peace but that Hanoi is unwilling to settle for anything less than American capitulation.
The prolonged bombing

pause, if one is decided upon, probably would begin in December with the traditional Christmas truce. Another stand down is ordered for New Year's and a third in January for Tet, the Buddhist new year celebration.
The United States in 1963 waited for more than a month before resuming bombing of the North after the Tet cease-fire. Hanoi gave no sign that it wanted to bargain and the raids were resumed.

The U.S. military is strongly opposed to a major bombing halt because during it Hanoi can move men and war materials into the South with relative impunity. But the weather over North Vietnam at the turn of the year is usually so bad that bombing of major targets is sharply curtailed anyway.
A bombing pause also would not necessarily cover the air war in Laos where American planes hammer the Ho Chi Minh infiltration trail daily.
The United States has never acknowledged this campaign and would be under little pressure to halt it. The weather in Laos is excellent for bombing during the winter months.
Plans for the bombing pause are not expected to be worked out until after the inauguration at the end of October of President-elect Nguyen Van Thieu, who said during his campaign and after his election he would propose a truce in the air war.

Lindsay Raps 'Timid Charter'

JOHN V. LINDSAY

NEW YORK (AP) — Mayor John V. Lindsay says he will vote against the proposed new state constitution, charging it is a "timid document" which "could memorialize mediocrity in New York State for as long as two decades."
Lindsay's announcement Monday brought a quick reply from Anthony Travia, a Democrat and president of the Constitutional Convention which framed the proposed charter. He termed the Mayor's opposition a "most dastardly act."
Lindsay hit at the convention particularly for not proposing more home rule for cities and for proposing the repeal of the present constitutional ban on state aid to parochial schools.

The mayor said he reached his decision early Monday before he had a breakfast meeting with Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller. Both are Republicans but Rockefeller has said he will vote for the charter in the Nov. 7 election.
Rockefeller is alone among the state's top Republicans in endorsing the remodeled charter. The top Democrats have all endorsed the product of a Democrat-controlled convention, but the liberal and conservative parties are against it.
The mayor who said he would not campaign against it, stressed his objections to the home rule and church-state provisions. But he was also critical of the lack of judicial reform and of the decision to present the charter in one package.

Travia said later in a statement: "I believe Mayor Lindsay's statement is short-sighted and political. He has placed personal political ambition above the interest of New York City as well as the whole state."
State Democratic Chairman John J. Burns touched on the same note when he charged Lindsay was opposing the constitution to further his national political ambitions at the expense of Rockefeller.
Lindsay said that if the voters reject the charter he will draft legislation and amendments to the present constitution incorporating the desirable sections of the new document and submit them to the Legislature in January.
"I believe that through forward-looking legislation and individual constitutional amendments, the people of New York State and their elected representatives can succeed where the Constitutional Convention has failed," he said.

On the charter's most controversial item, the repeal of the ban on aid to parochial schools, the mayor said: "The value of a strong system of public education which permits the diversion of public funds to private schools poses a serious threat to the already hard-pressed public school system."
In another development Monday, a group known as the "Catholic Taxpayers against the Constitution" was formed in Buffalo. Roger V. Barth of suburban Eggertsville, the group's president, said its purpose was to "inform Catholics of the dangers of the new state Constitution."

To Meet on County Salary Study

Wage and salary recommendations for Ulster County Highway employees will be the subject of a special meeting of Ulster County Board of Supervisors according to Peter J. Savago, chairman. The meeting will review recommendations of Hanawalt Associates, consultants, who are now studying compensation in the Highway Department.
Savago said the Hanawalt Organization has already submitted its recommendations regarding jobs covered by Civil Service.
The management consulting firm stated that the increases recommended are necessary to bring county salaries in line with going rates in other counties, and to correct inequities between the present pay scales and work being performed by certain employees.

Steel Haulers Roll Again

PITTSBURGH, (AP)—Steel haulers wheel their big trucks onto the highways for the first time in nine weeks today, ending one of the bloodiest strikes in recent years.
A settlement, accepted Monday by the majority of 10,000 to 20,000 haulers, leaves the steel industry with the chore of moving out an estimated half a million tons of steel piled up in warehouses, a task that could take a month.

King-Size Jewelry Job

TEHRAN, Iran (AP)—The crown that the Shah of Iran will place on Empress Farah's head at his coronation Thursday was the biggest job ever undertaken by the famous Parisian jeweler Van Cleef and Arpels, Pierre Arpels said today.
"It is the first crown we have ever made," the jeweler said in an interview.
The Shah's crown was made in Tehran for his father in 1921 by a Russian refugee.

Expect Probe of Radiogram

ABOARD SS INDEPENDENCE (AP)—The captain of the liner Independence says he expects a federal inquiry into the case of the White House radiogram that strayed into the hands of Republican Gov. Ronald Reagan of California.
Capt. Charles Reilly said his officers have already drafted a report on their investigation of the affair, assuming that men from the Coast Guard and the Federal Communications Commission will want one as soon as the Independence docks in New York late today.

Domestic Woes: 3 Area Dead

By WALTER S. CLARK JR.

Domestic difficulties figured in two Mid-Hudson tragedies Monday night, leaving three persons dead and four children motherless and a Kingston woman in serious condition of stab wounds and facing criminal charges.
Authorities in Ulster and Dutchess Counties pressed investigations to learn the circumstances in both cases.
1 in City, 2 in Dutchess
Clarence Perkins, 40, of 89 South Manor Avenue, is dead. His wife, Romia, 42, was in Kingston Hospital under police surveillance as she underwent treatment for knife wounds.
Mrs. Jean Marie Taber, 36, of Meier Road, Town of LaGrange, and Thomas Keady, 33, who resides at 172 North Clinton Street, Poughkeepsie, but who had been staying at the Taber home, were both found dead hanging in a bedroom of the Town of LaGrange home.
Kingston police detectives were still vague in information regarding the death of Perkins, who had been stabbed in the left side of his chest. Ulster County Coroner Arthur C. Chipp said an autopsy disclosed the man died of severe internal hemorrhages due to a penetrating wound of the heart and lacerations of the left lung.
Dutchess authorities said preliminary examination of the

Bechtold on Veto:

Deceit Charges Reiterated

Reiterating his charges of deceit by Mayor Raymond W. Garraghan concerning the 25-year retirement plan for police and firemen, C. John Bechtold, Republican mayoral candidate said today, "We have the right to expect truthfulness and good faith from our chief executive and these two attributes are sadly lacking."
Hits Deception
While Bechtold did not argue the mayor's right to veto legislation he (the mayor) did not approve he did take exception to what he considered deception by the mayor in leading the public to believe he would reconsider his veto when in fact he couldn't.
Bechtold said his Democrat-Conservative opponent vetoed the measure on the 6th of October, three days after it passed unanimously in the council, and then said he was reconsidering his veto on the 10th.

Said Bechtold, "It is now apparent that since Oct. 6 when he actually vetoed the bill, Mayor Garraghan was again playing his favorite game of being somewhat loose with the truth. It is a matter of record that during this interval several local newsmen asked the mayor about this issue and were told deliberate untruths. 'Liar' is perhaps too strong a word to use in describing the chief executive of our city but I'm sure

Status Real Issue
"But regardless of the mayor's apparent inclination to use any means to confuse everyone involved the real issue facing us is the status of the 25-year plan," Bechtold said.
Bechtold said he has asked Minority Leader John Machione (R-12th Ward) to ask for a special meeting of the council to override the mayor's veto.

"The simple fact is, Bechtold concluded, "that we need the 25-year retirement plan in order to attract qualified young men to our police and fire departments. The rising crime rate in Kingston will not be stopped by rejecting programs beneficial to the recruitment of more policemen."

Guns Fire Again at Suez Canal

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Egyptians and Israelis bombarded each other with artillery and mortars today across the Suez Canal near Port Taufiq at the southern end.
An Israeli army spokesman said artillery fire hit and set aflame the oil refineries at Port Ibrahim, across the canal from Port Taufiq. He said the refineries were going up in smoke, cutting off part of Egypt's oil supply.
The spokesman asserted the Egyptians opened up with small arms and then loosed artillery fire, whereupon the Israelis on the east bank of the canal replied. One Israeli casualty was reported.
An Egyptian military communiqué accused the Israeli forces of opening up with machine guns. It admitted that oil refineries were burning.
Israel said U.N. truce observers were informed but both sides reported the firing was still going on.
Israeli newspapers and the man in the street clamored today for vengeance against Egypt after its destruction of the Israeli destroyer Elath, but informed sources said the Jerusalem government planned no hasty reprisals and would "let the Arabs sweat it out for a while."

Money Pouring In as UR Becomes Workable

With the approval of a workable urban renewal program, Oct. 10, money appears to be pouring into Kingston from the Federal Government. Friday it was learned that a loan of $200,673 had been granted the Kingston Housing Authority for rehabilitation of dwellings downtown.

Saturday, Senator Jacob K. Javits revealed that a $365,000 Rondout Neighborhood Center would meet with Department of Housing and Urban Development approval within two or three weeks.

Vital to Downtown
In the words of Mayor Raymond W. Garrahan, the Rondout Center is "vital to the development of downtown. Something we've needed for a long time."

The Rondout Center will be more than just a recreation center. It will house many social service agencies including program for the aged and a day-care program.

The city's share for the center was $97,000, a bond issue for which was quickly approved by the Council. If the program is approved within a few weeks, work on it could begin quickly. A survey of what is required in the center has already been completed by the urban renewal relocation staff. The study was taken in the Fourth, Fifth, Sixth and Seventh Wards.

Another loan appears near approval. It is small, but significant. Senator Javits indicated that a $5,000 painting contract by Kingston Urban Renewal Agency will be approved in a few weeks.

The money will be used to paint between 20 and 25 apartments in the Broadway East Urban Renewal Area. This request by KURA had been in the hands of HUD officials in New York City for at least four months.

Urban renewal officials believe the $5,000 loan will be followed by others which will allow them to rehabilitate apartments downtown, thus easing their relocation problems.

Relocation Topic

Relocation was discussed at a press conference held by KURA Monday. Chairman of the Board G. Scott Alexander presided along with acting executive director Ward B. Tongue.

It was indicated that a new study of Uptown relocation requirements would be made since the present study is at least three years old and is considered out of date. Applications are now being accepted for relocation workers who will subsequently join the relocation staff in a new office Uptown.

Another addition to the KURA staff will be a new executive director. Alexander said the agency recognizes the value of Tongue but that they need a man who is familiar with the problems of development. Tongue will be retained as deputy executive director, his position under former executive director Eric Hemphill. One of the more serious problems of the agency under the Hemphill regime is believed to be solved with the appointment of a full-time inspector for demolition. The man will be Joseph White of the relocation staff. Demolition is expected to start on some 45 buildings in two weeks. It is expected to continue into early February.

The William Young Company will do the demolishing as they have in the past. Young Company was discussed and Alexander was asked why the company was retained in view of its past violations of its contract with KURA. Alexander indicated that 10 per cent of the quarter million dollar contract was being withheld but went on to say the violations were comparatively minor and that certain discrepancies were to be expected.

More Economical

Alexander also pointed out that it would be much more economical to retain Young than to bring in a new demolition company. Alexander added he expected the presence of on-site inspector White to put an end to any violations of contract by Young.

Rehabilitation of Uptown was discussed. It was noted that the majority of the Uptown rehab will be done on commercial dwellings and that no one in Kingston and few people in the state know anything about it. The agency presently has two of its staff working on residential rehabilitation in the Delaware Avenue area but it is not known if either of the men are proficient in the area of commercial rehabilitation. They will, however, be interviewed for the post which will pay between $8,000 and $9,000. The residential rehab specialists now earn less than $6,500 per year. The agency announced that it will stage bi-weekly press conferences. Yesterday's was the first of these.

Area Conference Set For Business Faculty

The area conference for business department chairmen or senior business teachers of Orange, Sullivan, Ulster, and Dutchess Counties will be held on Friday, Nov. 3, in Poughkeepsie.

The morning session will deal with the relationship between business and business education and will be held under the auspices of local industry. It will involve personnel requirements, skill development, and curriculum suggestions.

The afternoon session will be held in Taconic Hall at Dutchess Community College where participants will be greeted by Dean Lawrence Monaco of the Collegiate Technical Division of the college. Anthony Krzywicki, head of the Department of Business Technologies at DCC, will be chairman of a discussion panel. The topic will be Articulation Between High School Business Departments and Community Colleges. The chairman of the accounting and data processing, retailing, business administration, and secretarial science programs of his department will be the panelists. Representatives from the business departments in Ulster, Sullivan, and Orange County Community Colleges have been invited to participate.

The plan of having area leader conferences was established last year by the New York State Bureau of Business and Distributive Education to promote closer relationships between school and industry. Mrs. Thelma L. Loth, business area coordinator of Marlboro High School, has been appointed area leader of Orange, Sullivan, Ulster, and Dutchess Counties.

Against Nothingness

"The new generation is rebelling against the nothingness breeding in the suburbs," Dr. Benjamin B. Wolman, dean of the Institute of Applied Psychoanalysis and professor of psychology at Long Island University, said in analyzing the flight of young people to hippie colonies.

Dr. Wolman said, "What's wrong is that the parents are leading hollow, empty shallow lives and not giving their children anything to hold onto. Parental permissiveness masks the fact that parents had no particular moral norms they cared to pass along. I'm tired of wealthy people who give their children cars, but no moral values, coming to me and saying they don't know what's wrong with their youngsters."

If the parents were conservative, Dr. Wolman suggested children could rebel by becoming radical. If the parents were radicals, their children could become conservative. But their rebellion has come to be against the kind of nihilism they see around them. The hippies become attractive to the youngsters because they seem to have vitality.

This is not an apology for hippies. Their morals repel. It is a plea for parents to give their children the right values before they pick their own wrong ones. Parents have abdicated their responsibilities. They must impose them on themselves before they can expect the younger generation to have any of their own.

Subversives Welcome

The South Vietnamese National Liberation Front, the political arm of the Vietcong we are fighting there, has once again recognized and welcomed the efforts of those Americans who are trying to sabotage the American military effort. The Front has organized a committee to spur Americans to greater efforts to stop the war, not for a just peace, but for a pullout defeat.

In the past, the Front has sent messages of appreciation to anti-war groups here, but this is the first time that a committee of solidarity has been formed to join with, coordinate and accelerate anti-war efforts. The aim is in keeping with the latest assessment of the war by Gen. Vo Nguyen Giap, the North Vietnamese Defense Minister, that the best Communist strategy is to fight a protracted war to wear out American patience. The committee's aim is to help wear down that patience sooner by mounting anti-war demonstrations that will make it appear that the people want the war to end, no matter how.

Fortunately, the majority of Americans are not duped by this Vietcong effort. The patriotic demonstrations this weekend across the country showed that the American people want the war to end, but with justice to South Vietnam, not by deserting that country to the aggressors from the North.

Cooperation in Space

The Soviet Union's request both from the British and French for cooperation to help receive information from the Soviet rocket which reached Venus this week was the first such request since 1960. It was notable for bypassing the United States, whose telescopes are larger than the scopes of any of these countries.

The British not only cooperated but were the first to announce that a soft landing had been made. Sir Bernard Lovell, director of the Jodrell Bank Radio Observatory can receive pictures or messages. The French facilities are more limited and they played only a minor role.

The Soviet request came from the Academy of Sciences, which stated that the information sought about the physical properties of Venus was of "primary interest for world science and goes beyond the importance of one nation's scientific experiment, but of extraordinary importance and significance to mankind."

Perhaps United States scientists have been shunned in this important instance because the Soviet fears they would be too critical and analytical. However, the Venus exploration was thoroughly observed, monitored and studied here anyway.

William W. Scranton, the former Pennsylvania governor whose name was among those mentioned for the nomination for President four years ago, is now one of those eagerly sought for advice by the contenders. In his new role, he is bent on the party's choosing a moderate, as he was four years ago.

After striking for 26 days, the famous dancing Rockettes returned to the precision line at the Music Hall in New York with an agreement to leave their wage and hour difficulties to arbitration. They showed good sense in letting the experts decide their complaints, rather than waste any more time on the picket line.

"Maybe It's Because We Don't Speak the Language"

David Lawrence Says

American-Vietnam Policy-Suggestions

WASHINGTON — Two United States Senators, both conscientious men — one a Democrat and the other a Republican — have just made suggestions as to what the American policy in Vietnam should be. Senator Stuart Symington of Missouri, Democrat, thinks there should be a pause in the fighting to find out what the enemy will do. Senator Wallace Bennett of Utah, Republican, calls for a realistic appraisal and says that "The Third World War, Communist Style," has been going on for 20 years. He adds that the United States faces a grave crisis unless it pursues a firm course and rallies the other nations of the world to support its leadership in the effort to safeguard human freedom.

As for Senator Symington's idea — to stop the bombing and all military operations and see what would happen — an Associated Press dispatch from Hanoi, contributed by an Australian who is a correspondent for Communist papers, makes it clear that the North Vietnam government doesn't want "negotiations" and merely seeks "talks" that could last ten years. Presumably it would continue to infiltrate and to attempt to take over South Vietnam.

Senator Bennett's speech in the Senate on Monday of this week, in describing "The Third World War, Communist Style," says the present battle of South Vietnam "may

Battle of the Bulge and the Battle of Midway were in World War II." He declares that the weakness of the Communist countries, due to postwar exhaustion in 1945 and thereafter, did not permit "any massive attack." He adds:

"Instead of open warfare, they proceeded to foster internal revolutions in these nations, begun with subversion and pursued through the use of native Communist guerrilla forces. This time the world was not to be swallowed whole but chewed up in little bites. This time they hoped to consume many key areas without arousing the sleeping giant which is the United States. This time they even hoped not only to conceal the relationship of these wars to their worldwide objectives but also to give them a noble purpose by calling them 'National Liberation'."

"What would happen now if the United States withdrew before the situation in South Vietnam is stabilized? ... If we allow this to happen, all free nations, particularly the small ones, would be justified in believing that we are unworthy to be trusted as the leader of the free world."

"If we ever lose the right to lead the free world, Communist power would be unchallenged and Communism would eventually become the wave of the future. One by one, the smaller free countries would have to bow under the South Vietnam 'may turn out to be as decisive in der its yoke, and the day could come when we stood isolated and alone. Obviously, we must not risk that great tragedy by trying to isolate ourselves from freedom's problems now."

"It is my firm belief that we should not go into any negotiations with anyone until we can be sure that at the end of the negotiations South Vietnam will still be free and independent."

The Utah Senator believes that "premature withdrawal" or "capitulation" would put all nations in the Pacific—including Korea, Japan, Australia, New Zealand and the Philippines—into jeopardy.

Mr. Bennett explains that to us negotiation is "a process by which decisions are reached through mutual concessions," but that to the Communists "it is merely an extension of the conflict on a different level." He points out that in Korea "negotiations" are still going on after 15 years of "fruitless peace conferences in Geneva."

So, while the "demonstrations" and the protests against the Vietnam War may give some comfort to the parents of boys of draft age, actually such moves merely harden the determination of the enemy to hang on for an expected surrender by the Americans. This kind of strategy is dangerous. Not only may it prolong "World War III, Communist Style," but it could also precipitate someday a war more terrible than all preceding conflicts.

Negro Militant Talks To Riot Commission

WASHINGTON — Because the greatest obstacle to racial peace is the communications barrier, it is vital to keep the lines open between the white majority and Negro minority. This advice came from one of the nation's most outspoken Negro firebrands, Ernie Chambers, a bearded, bushy-haired Omaha barber specializing in Afro cuts and civil rights agitation, who sounded off behind closed doors before the President's Commission on Civil Disorders.

This column has obtained a copy of his confidential advice, which is must reading for whites who are trying to understand how the black militants feel and what they think.

In a voice charged with emotion, Chambers told the commission fiercely: "We have marched, we have cried, we have prayed, we have voted, we have petitioned, we have been good little boys and girls. We have done every possible thing to make this white man recognize us as human beings. And he refuses."

"You can understand why Jews who were burned by the Nazis hate Germans, but you can't understand why black people who have been systematically murdered by the government and its agents — by private citizens, by the police departments — you can't understand why they hate white people."

"A policeman is an object of contempt. A policeman is a paid and hired murderer. And you never find the policeman guilty of a crime, no matter what violence he commits against a black person. In Detroit, you were shooting 'snipers.' So you mounted a .30 caliber machine gun on a tank and shot into an apartment and killed a four-year-old 'sniper'."

Father James Groppi, the militant Negro priest who has been leading Negroes in civil rights demonstrations in Milwaukee, had also come to testify behind closed doors. He nodded his vigorous agreement. "That's right," he said. Chambers kept talking: "Black people doing ordinary, reasonable, peaceful things in this country are attacked by the police, and the police are praised for it. And you talk about giving the police more money and more power..."

"You will appropriate all kinds of money to give the National Guard increased training in how to wipe us out. And it's a funny thing that in all these so-called riots, the police and National Guard kill far more people than the so-called rioters. And as for the sniping, don't you believe that. Why are no cops killed? They ought to be killed. I think the cops should be killed. I believe the National Guard should be fought like they are telling us we should fight in Vietnam..."

"We are being forced by police misconduct to get together to fight the police. You know when I'll believe that singing 'We Shall Overcome' is an effective way to fight the police? When I see you send your Marines, your airmen and your infantrymen into Vietnam led by the Mormon Tabernacle Choir..."

"We are going to fight your people like you fight us. And don't say I'm revealing too much, because if something happens to me, there are other people who come up. They killed Malcolm X and produced Stokely (Carmichael) and Rap (Brown). You kill Rap; he will multiply. You kill Stokely; he will multiply. Now you don't know me; so maybe you don't want to kill me. You might just want me in jail. But you get me off the scene, and I'll multiply..."

"Here is what you are going to give my child. I am going to send him to school and teach him to respect authority. So here is a Cracker teacher standing in front of my child making him listen to 'Little Black Sambo.' See, that's the image the school gives him when he's young to teach him his 'place.' A caricature, wearing outlandish clothing that even the animals in the forest don't want to wear..."

"So he goes through the caricature like I did when I was a small child in grade school. And I don't forget these things. I wasn't born with the attitudes I have now. They were put in me by Crackers. I sat through Little Black Sambo. And since I was the only black face in the room, I became Little Black Sambo..."

Sit and Take It

"He gets a little older, so he can't be Little Black Sambo because he's too old for that. So turn to good old Mark Twain, one of your great writers. And the black child grows from Little Black Sambo into Nigger Jim. And the white kids read this stuff and they laugh at the black child; and he's got to sit there and take it..."

"They use the term 'Nigger' on the floor of Congress. And look at Senator Dodd—good old Christian Senator Dodd; and then old black Adam Clayton Powell. Dodd had more charges against him than you can shake a stick at, and in black and white from his own documents what he had done. And you people sat around debating whether we are going to censure him or whether we are to reprimand him... Then here is Adam Clayton Powell where the charges are very nebulous and uncertain. But the real problem is that he was a black man with too much power. And he was uppity. And he acted just like you have always acted. So you kick him out and say he is a bad man..."

"Some people there (in Omaha) call me militant. How can you call me militant when, in view of all these things I have mentioned to you, I haven't started a riot. I haven't burned a building. I haven't killed a cop. You are looking at somebody who is more rational than any of you—or some of you—because some of you support the war in Vietnam, but you wouldn't support us if we burned down Omaha."

Johnson or Mills Must Budge on Tax Measure

By EDMOND LEBRETON
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The deadlock now gripping President Johnson's tax increase bill is personified by two men who know each other extremely well, have shared many experiences and much responsibility — and don't give in easily.

One is Johnson. The other is Chairman Wilbur D. Mills of the House Ways and Means Committee.

Until one budges, the tax bill is going nowhere. The narrow issue is Mills' insistence that Johnson provide convincing evidence that spending be cut $5 billion to $10 billion—he has never set an exact figure—before Congress moves on taxes.

This collides with Johnson's insistence that Congress first finish appropriating, then let the executive judge where to cut—and meanwhile that the tax increase be approved.

The underlying issues are broader. Johnson, who developed his political philosophy in President Franklin D. Roosevelt's New Deal, is determined that the massive programs he launched against poverty, for education and in welfare will survive the Vietnam-troubled times and endure to be his monument.

Mills Is Conservative

Mills, whose first job was to help keep a small town Arkansas bank afloat during the depression of the 1930's, leans markedly to the conservative side in fiscal matters. But he is no blind Southern reactionary.

He does not insist on a budget balanced every year. He has carefully repeated over and over that he is not demanding that the welfare programs bear the brunt of the economies he advocates.

Mills accepted enough of the new economics to pilot to passage the tax reduction of 1964—despite an unbalanced budget. He wrote into the bill a statement of principles: As the economy grows and provides more government revenues, some should be spent but some should be returned to the private sector in continued tax reductions. Encouragement to private business rather than government spending was to be the major guarantor of prosperity.

The 1964 tax reduction is generally considered an economic smash success. A sluggish economy took off and, though tax rates went up, tax revenue went up. It is for this bill, and for the principle he based it on and to which he constantly refers, that Mills wants to be remembered.

He feels he has been let down, that a commitment to hold down spending has gone by the board. Vietnam, he insists, can be charged with only part of the responsibility for the huge deficit now threatening and demanding the tax increase that would reverse a Mills' preferred course.

Have Drawn Apart

So the President and the congressman primarily responsible for tax legislation, two Washington veterans whose easy working arrangements were a byword, have drawn apart. Associates say there has been practically no direct communication between them since the tax message was sent to Congress Aug. 3.

Mills' indirect messages have been increasingly sharp. The most cutting was his committee's recent shelving of the tax bill "until such time as the President and the Congress reach an understanding" on spending cuts. Mills says the action represents the overwhelming sentiment of the House—and he does not bring out of his committee bills the House won't pass.

Moscow Real Culprit Behind World Disarmament Failure

Chicago Daily News Foreign Service

GENEVA — Why have all serious attempts at disarmament, started since the second World War, failed in a welter of disagreement and recrimination?

Who is to blame? Could the United States have done better?

What if anything can be done at this late stage to get things moving?

All of these questions posed themselves at Geneva this week as the 17-nation disarmament committee struggled to agree on a treaty to restrict the further spread of nuclear arms.

The fact that its modest effort appeared to be bogged down provided a dreary and discouraging finale to more than 20 years of effort, real and phony, but largely real, to scale down and finally eliminate the military armaments of the world.

The first answer would appear to be this: Disarmament is not an end in itself. The United States has fought two world wars, another war in Korea and the present war in Vietnam because it has believed that world freedom and the basic interests of the United States itself make it necessary. In three of those cases partial American disarmament contributed to the outbreak of hostilities. The United States was fully prepared in only one case, that of Vietnam.

While the United States agrees to disarmament in principle, security comes first. Second, safe disarmament implies that any agreement should involve a system of control and inspection.

The United States has insisted upon the need for verification ever since a United Nations Commission for Conventional Armaments was set up on Feb. 13, 1947.

This committee created a subcommittee which held its first meeting on April 23, 1954, in London. It consisted of the United States, Britain, France, Canada and the Soviet Union. On June 11 an Anglo-French plan was presented calling for balanced nuclear and conventional disarmament by stages, with verification by a control organ at the end of each stage. The Russians then presented a counter plan which confirmed what everybody had suspected. The Russians were not willing to accept any real control system worthy of the name.

However, on Dec. 20, 1961, the United States and Russia agreed to set up an 18-nation disarmament subcommittee. The United Nations General Assembly ordered this committee to work out a plan for general and complete disarmament under effective international control. The 18-nation committee became the 17-nation committee now meeting in Geneva, when France haughtily refused to participate.

The first session of this committee was held in Geneva between March 14 and June 15, 1962, and it has been meeting periodically since. France and Red China are both nuclear powers but have no part in the discussions and could not be expected to submit to inspection or control. Japan and India, which are two likely new members of the "Atomic Club," won't renounce the right to have nuclear weapons as long as Red China has them. Israel won't forego such weapons as long as Egypt, Iraq and Syria may get them from Russia.

So the whole thing looks hopeless.

Catholics Capture Big Bloc in Viet

SAIGON (AP) — Roman Catholics, who total just 2 million of South Vietnam's 17 million people, appeared today to have won the largest bloc of seats in the House of Representatives as they did in the Senate. But the House is a political patchwork of factions with no faction in the majority.

The 137-member House, said one local newspaper, "will be really representative of the confused political situation in Vietnam."

The Catholics captured about 20 per cent of the House seats.

Resort Worker Death Probed

Ellenville State Police BCI officers and Ulster County Coroner Arthur C. Chipp, Kerhonkson, today investigated the death of Frederick Thomas Swanston, an employee at the Granit Hotel, whose body was discovered in a water line ditch.

Coroner Chipp, who investigated with BCI Investigator Michael Bonney and uniformed troopers, said James Watkins of Spring Glen found the body of Swanston after 6 a. m. in a ditch on the Cherry Lawn Bungalow Trailer Colony property at Spring Glen.

Chipp said the body was in a "grotesque position" when found.

The body was removed to the county morgue at Kingston Hospital where an autopsy was to be conducted to determine cause of death.

According to the coroner, Swanston left his room last night to visit a friend, Charles Upshaw of Spring Glen. He didn't return to his room and his whereabouts was not known until the body was discovered on the property by Thomas and Rose Archer.

Cause of the man's death and circumstances surrounding his death were under investigation this afternoon.

Penal Law Hearing

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — Thirty witnesses gathered here today to testify at a legislative hearing on two controversial sections of the state's new penal law.

Mayor Frank A. Sedita of Buffalo, Al Scaglione, president of the New York Police Conference and Prof. Travis Lewin of the Syracuse University Law School were among those scheduled to speak before the Senate Codes Committee.

The session deals with sections of the Penal Law restricting the use of deadly force by policemen in subduing suspects and by persons defending themselves or their property.

A similar session was conducted in New York City on Sept. 21 and more may be scheduled later, a committee spokesman said.

Domestic Woes:

bodies of Mrs. Taber, who was estranged from her husband, Raymond, and Keady, indicated both had died sometime last night from strangulation, due to hanging.

City authorities said Mrs. Perkins was taken to Kingston Hospital suffering stab wounds in the back. Hospital officials or police would not disclose the nature of the woman's injuries. Detectives said they believe the South Manor Avenue tragedy resulted from a domestic quarrel.

It was about 10:50 p. m. yesterday that police were dispatched to the Perkins residence after receiving a telephone call.

According to Coroner Chipp investigation disclosed that a long-bladed knife was used in the incident at the Perkins home. Whether more than one knife was used was not disclosed by investigators.

The Perkins have no children.

Sheriff Lawrence B. Quinlan of Dutchess County, who directed investigation of the double-tragedy in the Town of LaGrange with County Medical Examiner Dr. Chester H. Colding Jr. and Assistant District Attorney Albert Rosenblatt, disclosed details of the bizarre case.

Quinlan said Keady had been staying at the Taber home. At 6 p. m. yesterday, Mrs. Taber's four children, Ruth, 17, Raymond, III, 15, Ruby, 8 and Ann, 11, left home to go to a party. They returned home about 9 p. m., and found their mother and Keady apparently had retired as the bedroom door was closed.

Shocking Sight

ing to bed. Shortly after 7 a. m. today the four children awoke and prepared for breakfast before going to school. They missed their mother and as the oldest of the children tried the door of the bedroom after receiving no response to calling, they found the door locked.

Quinlan said the children pushed on the door until it gave way so that one of them could insert a fork in an opening and lift a latch. As they entered the room they were confronted with the shocking sight.

Mrs. Taber and Keady were both dead, hanging from the ends of a nylon clothesline. Neighbors were called and told of the tragedy. Calls were made to the sheriff's office, and Quinlan, Chief Investigator Charles Borchers, and Sergeant Albert Traver rushed to the Taber home.

Noting that both victims of the double-tragedy were clothed, Quinlan said the nylon rope had been tossed over a beam in an opening of the ceiling of a bedroom closet. One end was noosed around the neck of Mrs. Taber, the other was tied around Keady's neck.

"They were facing each other, not far apart," the sheriff said. "Both died sometime during the night, probably before midnight."

Double-suicide or suicide and homicide? That was the question Dutchess authorities were trying to answer but Quinlan said, "I am not satisfied it is double suicide."

The sheriff said there was no indication that a struggle had preceded the hangings. He also noted that questioning of the four Taber children showed that neither their mother or Keady had given any indication of the pending tragedy.

Quinlan, who said Keady was employed as a serviceman for a local oil company, told newsmen that a stool found near the bedroom closet, might have been used for one of the two victims to stand on and then step off into sudden death by strangulation.

Reports of autopsies were awaited. Quinlan said no notes were found in the house and added, "that makes it more puzzling."

Duck Hunter Shot

While duck hunting in the Hudson River off Esopus on Monday, Bernard Symanski, 47, of 259 First Avenue, was accidentally shot in the left hand as his gun discharged. BCI Investigator W. E. Wiedemann of the Kingston State Police investigated. He said Symanski was in a boat on the river and as he reached for his gun to shoot at a duck the gun went off and the bullet hit him between the thumb and forefinger of the left hand. The investigation will continue, Wiedemann said.

Await Sentencing

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — Three brothers await sentencing Nov. 10 for second-degree murder in the shooting of a bartender last Dec. 19 after their conviction by an Erie County Court jury.

The panel deliberated three hours Monday before deciding that Jerome Bussy, 20; his brother Delphine, 17; and their half-brother, Henry L. Rogers, 22, all of Buffalo, were guilty in the death of Nathaniel Jackson, 32.

Jackson was shot twice with a revolver as he tended bar at a tavern on the city's near East Side, police said.

The convictions carry a prison sentence of 20 years to life. The three-week trial was heard before Judge Burke I. Burke.

The governor's office too, told of this survey, which is to be a "sight" survey because personal records do not indicate race designation.

Defending Rockefeller further, Mangum recalled that 26 of 36 enactments to the State Law Against Discrimination were signed into law by the governor — "a record that far exceeds that of any previous administration."

Mangum took the congressman to task further for misnaming the agency. "The name of the commission was changed by an act of the legislature to the State Commission For Human Rights, more than five years ago," he said. "That is about as far as Rep. Resnick is behind the times."

Resnick, who said his investigation had not been "very extensive," reached his conclusions after obtaining employee statistics from the Thruway and Bridge Authorities and one unit of the State University system.

He said he would notify Rockefeller of his findings "to express my concern and to find out what will be done about this situation."

Will Ask Full Report
Rockefeller would also be asked for a full report on job practices and alleged discrimination patterns in all state agencies, as well as county-operated agencies throughout the state, Resnick said.

"The blame for this entire situation must lie with the governor, who has given lip service to the idea of equal job opportunity but who has failed to back his words up with effective action," he added.

"He has successfully built for himself an image as a great champion of Civil Rights and equality. Nevertheless, he has allowed this discrimination to go on right under his nose in major state agencies. The chairmen of these authorities are the personal appointees of the governor and he has the power to correct these practices merely by lifting a telephone," Resnick concluded.

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Michael Sugarman, head of the Albany County anti-poverty program, was free in the custody of his attorney today after pleading innocent in Police Court to a disorderly conduct charge for allegedly failing to move when told to do so by a police officer.

County Liberals Hosts Candidates

The Ulster County Liberal Party will host the Liberal candidates who will appear on the City of Kingston ballot this year.

Quick Action Averts Serious Cantine Fire

Timely arrival and quick action by Saugerties firemen in command of Chief Homer Van Voorhis Monday night, averted what might have developed into a serious fire at the Cantine Company paper mill in that village.

One of Several

The fire was one of several reported in the area, including three in the City of Kingston, at least one of which was termed incendiary origin. Glasco fire units quelled a grass fire after 3 p. m. and Mutual Aid reported New Paltz firefighters were called out shortly after 2:35 p. m. for a bottled gas fire.

Saugerties Fire Commissioner Donald McCaig said all fire companies in that community were called out on a general alarm at 7:30 p. m. after the County Fire Control Center was notified that a fire was in progress at Cantine's. McCaig said when firemen arrived they discovered roof timbers inside the boiler house were smoldering near the main stack.

Firemen used a booster line to quickly quell the fire. McCaig said when the fire companies arrived at the plant, hoses were immediately laid and prepared for immediate use if needed. "The men did a remarkable job in checking the fire," the commissioner said. "If the fire had broken out early in the morning, or if it

A fire official said he understood that work had been done on the smoke stack in the boiler room, and just prior to the fire a slight explosion was heard.

Fire damage was confined to the interior timbers of the roof.

Torah Service Set Wednesday

Consecration and Simchas Torah services will be held Wednesday 7:30 p. m. at Temple Emanuel, 243 Albany Avenue.

New students in the temple religious school will be consecrated and blessed by Rabbi Jonathan Eichhorn.

They are Sandra Kalish, Mitchell Katz, Suzanne Nelson, Jill Neopent, Marcy Perlmutter, Scott Rattner, Ilene Ronder, Jay Simon, Rhonda Kosseff.

Also, Kenneth Popkin, Stephanie Colten, Wendy Jackaway, David Kantor, David Rosenblum, Cindy Spiegel, Richard Hall, Steven Hall, Sandra Hall, Lisa Wadler, Jason Wadler, Ben Witter, Diane Witter, Naomi Katz, Michael Katz, and Lisa Feldman.

2 Persons Hurt In 32 Crash

Two persons were injured at 3 p. m. Monday after the 1964 car in which they were riding was involved in a collision with a pickup truck on Route 32 at the southbound entrance to the Kingston State Thruway at Saugerties.

Kingston State Police said the car was driven by Patrick Gorman, 27, of 3070 Decatur Avenue, the Bronx, and the truck was operated by Robert Wade, 20, of P. O. Box 446, Saugerties. Injured and taken to Kingston Hospital by the Saugerties Ambulance Service were Gorman, who was treated for a laceration of the forehead and bruises of the knees and Mary Gorman, who suffered shoulder injuries and lacerations of the hands and legs, according to Sgt. Donald Paulsen. Trooper C. W. Bremer investigated and reported Wade was driving north on Route 32, and Gorman was attempting a left turn when the vehicles collided.

The building, presently unoccupied, was not damaged, authorities disclosed. Firemen said most of the fire had been extinguished by area residents prior to the department's arrival.

At 9:01 p. m. firemen were called to Furnace Street where another leaf fire was in progress, a spokesman continued. Firemen said leaves and rags had ignited near the curb. The fire's origin is unknown, an official stated.

Later firemen responded to an alarm at the corner of P.O. hall and Highland Avenues last night. Authorities said street leaves had caught fire, but firemen concluded, "... they were definitely set ablaze."

Resnick Scores Funds Cutback For LBJ Anti-Poverty Program

The cutback of anti-poverty program funds proposed by Congress was scored this week in a statement by Ellenville Congressman Joseph Y. Resnick.

Led by the same forces that have opposed the War on Poverty from the very beginning, the House has moved to cut the OEO's budget back to a level of $1.2 billion. Thanks to our Republican colleagues it looks now as if the first anti-poverty aid will have to go to the anti-poverty agency itself. It is a crime and a disgrace that with the nation's domestic problems growing at a faster rate than ever before, and the nation's economy entering its 81st consecutive month of record breaking prosperity, we can turn our backs on our poorest, most underprivileged, and neediest citizens.

I find it hard to believe that the American people will stand for this senseless and politically-inspired cutback to our poor, especially if they know exactly what these so-called "economies" will mean in abandoned services and lost opportunities, particularly for our young people.

Because I believe if the American people knew the real cost of these irresponsible "economies," I have prepared this summary of the specific ways in which the war on poverty will be paralyzed by a budget cutback to 1.2 billion:

A capital investment of $40 million would be lost.

Neighborhood Youth Corps — A total of 250,000 poor youth would be denied assistance, including:
64,000 students enrolled in the In-School program.
165,000 poor youth needing summer jobs.
21,000 school drop-outs enrolled in the Out-of-School program.

Adult Training Programs — Job training assistance would be denied 120,000 hard-core adults in both urban ghettos and rural economically depressed areas.

Legal Services — In the Legal Services program we would have to close over 320 of the 850 currently funded law offices and lay off over 750 of the OEO's 2,000 currently funded attorneys. This would have to be accomplished through eliminating at least one hundred entire programs and closing some offices in many others. It would mean that nearly 300,000 fewer people would receive legal assistance during fiscal year '68.

Head Start Follow Through — The $4 million limit would:
1. Fund the existing pilot projects for 3,000 children for the school year 1967-1968.
2. Preclude any projects being run for the year 1968-69. 185,000 190,000 would be served under the President's budget.

Head Start — The $260 million

limit would:
1. Deny full year Head Start to 92,000 children who would be able to participate under the President's budget level.
2. Cost 9,000 non-professionals their jobs.
3. The greatest impact would be felt in large cities (up to 20-30 per cent) because of the impracticality of reducing smaller programs.

Local Initiative Funds — Program levels would be reduced by nearly 407 per cent. Additional impact of this action is:
1. Elimination of as many as 200-250 of the 1,050 community action organizations.
2. No special summer program.
3. No rural thrust.
4. No program for the aged.

Migrant Program — At the reduced level, the programs will deprive 15,000 migrants of adult basic education, day care, and housing—a 22 per cent reduction. It would be necessary to eliminate almost all small grantees.

Rural Loans — 1. Number of individual loans cut by 6,700 (12,000 to 5,300).
2. Number of Cooperative loans cut by 200 (400 to 200).

VISTA — All of VISTA's new regional training centers would have to be disbanded and the $2 million already committed would be lost. Nearly 1,300 applicants already invited for training later in the fiscal year would now have to be turned down. Approximately 50 per cent of all VISTA projects would have to be closed, depriving an estimated 1.5 million poor people in 300-400 communities of VISTA assistance. The VISTA Associates Program would be abolished.

UPWARD BOUND — The $20 million limit would:
1. Deny participation to 12,000 students who would be served under the President's budget.
2. Eliminate 7,000 students from existing programs. (The 1967 level was 23,000 students).

Comprehensive Health — The $30 million limit would:
1. Curtail operations in the 10 health centers now taking patients and training the poor for subprofessional jobs.
2. Delay progress of the other 33 programs which are not yet operational.

Patterns Supports JDA Proposition

The 15-member executive committee of Mid-Hudson Pattern for Progress, Inc., a citizen's regional planning agency, has thrown its support behind a proposal to increase the lending power of the New York Job Development Authority to $200 million.

The proposal, which will appear on the November 7 ballot as a constitutional amendment,

Cash for Cash

NEW YORK (AP) — During a recent visit here, country-western singer Johnny Cash was robbed of his wallet, which contained money, checks and his identification.

He went to his recording company, Columbia, which gave him a check. But then he had the problem of cashing it without identification. So Columbia also gave him a record album with his picture on it, "Johnny Cash's Greatest Hits." He used that to prove his identity at the nearest bank, and got the check cashed.

The authority was originally established in November, 1961, by voter approval of another constitutional amendment, and went into operation January 1, 1962 with a total state-guaranteed bonding authorization of $50 million.

As it stands now, more than $40 million of this authorization already has been committed in an effort to place the state in a better competitive position to attract new industry, to help its existing industry expand and prosper, and to create more and better job opportunities.

JDA has approved over 300 loans to aid construction of new plants and acquire or expand existing facilities in amounts up to 30 per cent of the cost of land and buildings, according to a statement by Ronald B. Peterson, authority chairman, and State Department of Commerce commissioner.

In turn, this assistance has resulted in more than 13,000 new manufacturing jobs statewide, and the saving of another 5,500 jobs by enabling existing manufacturers to expand rather than discontinue operations or move out of the state.

Payrolls provided by these manufacturing jobs support an additional 40,000 jobs in the state's service and trade industries, Peterson explained in his statement.

The program also has spurred the growth of local nonprofit industrial development corporations, some 200 in number throughout the state. They are the only vehicle through which JDA loans can be made.

C. David Locks, Pattern's president, noted that a total of 17 JDA loans have been granted in the seven-county Mid-Hudson region in the last five years, 11 of them in Orange County. The loans totaled $1,733,353, and involved projects totaling $5,777,843, Locks said, quoting JDA figures. This, in turn, created 624 new jobs and saved another 291 jobs.

Two of the largest loans in Orange County (each totaling $150,000) went to Spence Engineering Co., Inc., of Walden and Active Specialty Corp., which is in the process of moving its operation from Walden to Newburgh.

VAW United Aluminum Works of America, Inc., of Ellenville, Ulster County, received a loan of $294,000; and the V and O Press in Hudson, Columbia County, $360,000.

Only two of the region's seven counties—Dutchess and Sullivan—have not applied for assistance, according to JDA officials. Up until 1966, when the original act was amended, Dutchess and other counties with relatively high employment rates could not qualify for loans. Now, the employment rate is no longer a factor in eligibility.

Pattern for Progress, which is based at the State University College, New Paltz, is a citizen's regional planning, research and development corporation, specifically concerned with helping guide the orderly future development of the region's seven counties—Greene, Columbia, Ulster, Dutchess, Putnam, Orange and Sullivan.

Blood is one of those things that shouldn't have a price tag.

If you belong to our blood program... it won't.

Blood. Any time. Any amount you need. When you need it. And, at no cost. And, since the blood is collected by your local hospitals, it stays right in your community. That's the way it ought to be, and that's the way it is for members of the Blue Cross Blood Program.

Now, you and your family are eligible for unlimited amounts of blood. Whether it's the usual three or four pints necessary for a transfusion, or whether you need as much as twenty to thirty for major surgery, it's no cost to you.

It's the newest Blue Cross benefit developed in cooperation with the Community Blood Council of Greater New York and its cooperating agencies. No other health plan has anything like it.

Here's how it works:

A small percentage of your company, union, or any Blue Cross group donates blood through the Blue Cross Blood Program. This automatically establishes coverage for all members and their families. Many large and small groups, as well as those people who belong to Blue Cross individually, have already signed up for this new benefit.

Shouldn't you?

Trying for Fast Buck
Is Always Hazardous

Q—I must admit that I come under your heading of a speculator, or, I should add, not any more. In the past I was out for a fast buck, but have realized that growth in stocks is the key to my future. I now own RCS Holiday Inns, General Plywood, Applied Devices and Pancoast Pette. Do you recommend selling the last three? — L. O.

A—You have expressed very cogently the danger of trying for a fast buck. Every time you buy a speculative stock, someone is selling it and quite often that someone is better informed than yourself. You cannot realize very much from the resale of the last three stocks on your list — probably about $700. It is impossible for me to say with accuracy whether any of these situations will rebound. The market is indicating that they will not. I suggest you dispose of them and replace them with 20 shares of Del Monte—the world's leading packer of fruits and vegetables.

Q—I have at present $3,000 which I would like to invest.

This money came from an inheritance. I have had a wonderful time with part of this money and now I'm afraid that what's left will slip through my fingers. The only stocks and bonds I know about I'm afraid of. What do you advise? — A.R.

A—You've rather put me at a disadvantage. You're afraid of stocks and bonds and a savings account would obviously make it too easy for you to get at your money and see it slip away. I'm going to advise you very seriously to put $3,000 into Series H savings bonds. These bonds are registered in your name and you will receive a check semiannually from the government.

The yield is 4.15 percent, if held to maturity, and the bonds can be redeemed without advance notice after you have held them six months. Nothing to fear here, is there?

Financial Ruin Seen In Consumer Credit

AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — An American way of life has been built on consumer credit since World War II, but it has also become a typically American way of financial ruin for thousands of families.

Since 1946 consumer credit has risen from $8.4 billion to nearly $95 billion. Almost $30 billion of that debt has been run up since 1960. And since 1960 the number of bankruptcies has grown to 175,000 from 98,000.

The benefits of credit are clear, for it permits a family to enjoy a standard of life beyond its present savings and income. Its dangers are just as obvious and opposite: handled unwisely, credit leads to poverty.

Now that the number of families in financial trouble continues to rise, the extenders of easy credit are becoming worried—just as some analysts have been alarmed for years.

The result, fortunately, is the development of more nonprofit credit counselors.

A study by the Family Service Association of America, a voluntary and nonprofit group, shows that counseling services are operating in "more than 50

communities in the United States and Canada."

Some 32 family service agencies now counsel financially distressed families. Local credit bureaus, to some extent, have been helpful. Credit unions are developing programs. Consumer finance companies have helped.

The net result, however, has been almost insignificant compared to the mounting size of the problem. The most optimistic outlook is that, at least and at last, a start has been made.

In a study of such counseling services, the Family Service Association found that "for every family experiencing bankruptcy, 20 more, it is also believed, are being squeezed in the debt vise."

In its study of 65 families now being counseled, the association found that the median take-home pay was $400 a month; that is, 32 earned higher than that and 32 earned lower. The median non-mortgage debt was $3,600.

At $400 a month, a family's yearly income is $4,800, yet debt among those being counseled totaled $3,600 owed to 11 creditors.

Why were these families permitted to run up such debts? Did the credit agencies fail to make complete investigations? Did the borrower lie about the amount of his other debts? Are lending practices slipshod?

One might assume from the recent proliferation of credit cards, some of them unsolicited by consumers, that credit may be slipshod. Some "easy" terms also are misleading; they are, in fact, quite difficult when it comes to paying.

$265,528 For UR in Ellenville

Governor Nelson A. Rockefeller announced today that the State will provide $265,528 to the Village of Ellenville as the first progress payment on the Village's Central urban renewal project.

"This project is being undertaken to revitalize Ellenville's business district," Governor Rockefeller said. "The new moderate-income housing and pedestrian shopping mall that will be constructed in the project area will benefit the entire community and will provide a new look to the Village's center."

The first payment represents 85 per cent of the State's $312,386 urban renewal grant for the Central renewal project. The remaining funds will be paid after final audits on the project have been completed.

The 53.3 acre project area is bounded by Bear Kill Creek, Liberty Place and Canal, Water, Warren, Park, Center and Child Streets.

The State's program of urban renewal grants was instituted in 1960 to enable municipalities to take maximum advantage of available Federal funds for urban renewal. The State provides up to one-half of the municipal costs of such a program. The State funds will be presented on Wednesday, October 25, to Mayor Eugene Glusker by Assistant State Housing Commissioner Albert E. Bibby.

Phone Worker Hurt in Fall

While working on a utility pole at Pine Hill on Monday, Leonard J. Byer, 49, of Windy Ridge Farm, Phoenicia, was injured when he fell about 15 feet to the ground.

Byer, an installer-repairman employed by the New York Telephone Company, was taken to the Margaretville Hospital and later transferred by Doctors Ambulance of Kingston to Benedictine Hospital.

According to a family member, Byer suffered a broken shoulder, fractured collarbone and rib injuries. Further reports of x-rays are awaited.

Leaves Pickup Listed in City

The schedule for pickup of leaves has been released by the Board of Public Work indicating that leaves will be gathered in the city from Monday, Oct. 30 to Monday, Nov. 20.

The Second Ward will be cleaned on the 30th. Wards 12 and One on Nov. 2; Wards 11 and 10 on Nov. 8; Wards Nine, Eight, Seven and 13 on Nov. 13 and Wards Three, Four and Five on the 20th of November. The schedule will be followed, weather permitting. In case of any changes the public will be notified.

The public is asked to refrain from raking leaves into the gutter too far in advance of the pickup so as to keep the fire hazard to a minimum and to maintain normal drainage.

Vote Starts Today On Pact at Ford

DETROIT (AP) — The 160,000 United Auto Workers who struck Ford Motor Co. 48 days ago begin voting today on a new contract that would send most streaming back to their jobs by the weekend.

The danger of a veto by skilled tradesmen existed but union leaders discounted this possibility.

The contract contains a guaranteed annual income, effective in December of 1968, and the company says it would make them among the best paid and best protected of all U.S. industrial wage earners.

The union's leadership agrees, and the UAW's 200-member National Ford Council overwhelmingly recommended ratification Monday night, despite the "No!" shouts of an estimated 200 to 250 dissident skilled tradesmen who were beaten off when they attempted to storm the meeting.

Fists flew briefly. At least three men were knocked down and several noses bloodied.

Council delegates and UAW international representatives came storming out in a flying wedge as the loudly chanting tradesmen-pickets followed television cameramen into a lobby off the council's downtown meeting hall and threatened to force its doors.

About 20,000 skilled tradesmen and 140,000 production workers employed by Ford will vote separately on the new three-year pact.

Inventory Move Found Success at Area School

At the February meeting of the Ontario Board of Education, Erik Stoutenburgh of Glenford was appointed to a newly created position of Stores Clerk. Since this appointment he has made a complete equipment and furniture inventory of the elementary schools of the district and is now in the process of completing a furniture and equipment inventory at the central building in Boiceville.

The results of the inventory at the elementary schools have provided the board of education with more exact records and have given them specific information on values which will result in the broadening of insurance coverage.

At the Central Building in Boiceville many hours have been spent cleaning, cataloging, giving chase and properly storing all equipment in the basement of the building. Many obsolete items have been sold to the highest bidder. This has been done

Daring Gang

LIVERPOOL, England (AP) — A gang of thieves apparently felt confident after stealing $64,400 worth of cigarettes from a Liverpool brewery in daylight Sunday a block from the central police station.

Many brewery employees saw the gang take the cigarettes and drive off with them in a company truck and nobody tried to stop them.

So the thieves stole a second load, and returned for another. This time the brewers been spent cleaning, cataloging, giving chase through legal advertisements of sale in the local newspapers. A great deal of furniture has been repaired, refinished and placed in the classrooms of the new addition, thereby eliminating the expenditure for new furniture.

Some other items of equipment have been reconditioned and placed in service in the kitchen of the West Hurley Elementary School and in the new kitchen at the high school.

The basement area of the Central Building has been modified to provide adequate dry storage for the school district and plans are being made to implement a central supply program for all schools which will result in better inventory control and lower costs of operation for the district.

Young People Hear Talk on Narcotics

The young people of the First Baptist Church of Kingston were addressed Sunday by District Attorney Joseph P. Torraca and Investigator Thomas Mayone of the district attorney's office.

District Attorney Torraca's topic was Narcotics and the Teenagers. Investigator Mayone showed members of the Baptist Youth Fellowship, the Junior and Senior High School group and their guests, the members of the Youth Fellowship of Trinity Methodist Church, colored slides and discussed and gave a talk on various kinds of narcotics which are in general use today.

Following the talks a period for questions was held.

Squad Car Heist

CHICAGO (AP) — Policeman Michael Debella spotted two young men early Sunday who appeared to have sampled too much wine. So, he placed one of the youths in his police car and set out on foot after the second. But while Debella was on the chase, the squad car pulled away with engine roaring and tires shrieking.

"It was quite frustrating standing there on the sidewalk with no transportation," Debella said later. "I thought the guy in the car would take a little nap until I got back. He was unsteady on his feet and pretty woozy." The car was found later, abandoned.

Marine Corps League

Slate 1968 State Parley Here

Preparations for the 1968 convention of the Department of New York Marine Corps League to be held in Kingston, were discussed at a staff meeting Saturday night in Rochester.

Gilbert E. Gray, who attended the session with Joseph Sullivan, representatives of the Ulster Detachment, has been selected chairman of the convention to be held in July in this city. It is expected that each Detachment will send delegates to the annual convention.

Gray reported at the Saturday session that plans were moving along smoothly on every front and plans are progressing for events to be held as features in addition to the regular schedule of meetings.

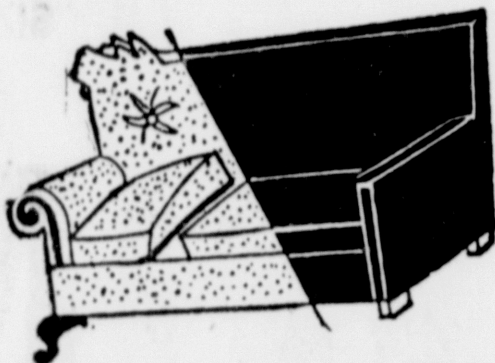

Sullivan reported on the activities of other detachments in the Eastern area of New York State and noted that New York State led the nation in 1966 in membership and efforts are being made to retain the membership leadership this year. Department Commandant Edward Bange announced the 1968 national convention will be held at Bridgeport, Conn.

Savings Banks are people banks.

If Savings Banks had a theme song, it might well be "Home, Sweet Home."

Because Savings Banks are people banks. They specialize in providing personal financial services to help people at every stage of family life. That includes helping them take the biggest single financial step most families ever take—buying a new home.

More than 8½ million people in New York State live in homes and apartments built or bought with Savings Bank mortgage money. That's almost half the people in the state!

Savings Banks have invested more money in homes than all other banks, savings associations and insurance companies in the state combined.

And Savings Banks help people modernize and expand their homes, too. Thousands of homeowners have been able to increase the size (and value) of their homes thanks to low-cost Savings Bank home improvement loans.

Millions more save in Savings Banks and earn the highest interest-dividends paid by any banks in the state.

In fact, more people in New York State save in Savings Banks than in all other banks combined. Latest figure: 11 million accounts.

If there were no Savings Banks, somebody would have to invent them. Because Savings Banks are people banks . . . banks of Grow-Power and progress for the people of New York State.

Alligerville Span One of 11 In Country to Receive Award

Awards come Ulster County's way in many categories. The prize bridges were selected in the most recent was won by a bridge.

The local span was named in er contractors and fabricators of all 17 winning bridges will receive award certificates.

Replaced 89-Year-Old Bridge

The new steel span in Alligerville replaced an 89-year-old wooden bridge with metal superstructure. The original bridge was originally ordered by catalogue from the Wrought Iron Bridge Co., Canton, O., and placed on abutments poured by the town highway crews.

The steel and concrete replacement was constructed 100 feet downstream by the V. J. Costanzi Corporation, Poughkeepsie. Ninety-foot long steel girders were fabricated by the American Bridge Division, U. S. Steel, Pittsburgh, Pa., and set in place with huge cranes. The modern bridge was designed by the Office of the Deputy Chief Engineer (Bridges), New York State Department of Public Works, Albany and is owned by the Department of Highway Bridges of Ulster County.

College at Dutchess Given Recognition

Dutchess Community College received recognition Saturday as "an outstanding example of the comprehensive community college" from a dean of the State University of New York. Dr. James A. Frost, recently acting president at the State College at New Paltz and presently SUNY dean for four-year colleges, gave the principal address at the dedication ceremonies for two new buildings at Dutchess.

Academe," he told his audience of students, faculty, and guests that Dutchess has had the courage to try new concepts in higher education while not entirely breaking with all that tradition contributes. "It is altogether fitting that Dutchess should be dedicating a new library and a new gymnasium," said Dr. Frost. "The ancient Greeks, who contributed so much to the idea of higher education, always stressed the value of a sane mind in a sound body."

At the ceremonies, David C. Schoenag, chairman of the Dutchess County Board of Supervisors, formally presented the library and Falcon Hall, the physical education facility. Those who served on the planning committee for the dedication program are: co-chairmen Anthony A. Adamo and Philip Magnarella, Alfred Lane, Jack C. Miller, John Nadeau, William Nichols, Jane Roush, Marion Russell, Beatrice Sheffield, Richard Skimin, and Ewing Smith, all of the Dutchess staff.

Also students Ralph Dean, Patricia Maldonado, and Ethel Ruane, as well as alumna Susan Lucy.

Local Teacher Serves As Curriculum Aide

Mrs. Viola Opdahl, a member of the social studies department at Kingston High School, will be a consultant at a workshop on the new social studies curriculum to be held at Cathedral High School in New York City Nov. 1.

Mrs. Opdahl was a member of the original committee which met last spring in Albany to work out the details of the first revision of the new curriculum in 11th grade social studies, and she has since served as consultant at a workshop at the Fox Lane School in Westchester County. The workshop at Cathedral is co-sponsored by the New York State Education Department and the Archdiocese of New York.

The "new" social studies aims to increase student understanding of the events of history through this careful investigation of the facts of history. It emphasizes scientific inquiry, use of primary sources whenever possible, and development of the student's own conclusions through this inquiry.

Mrs. Opdahl gave a concrete example of the new curriculum as it applied to the study of the Presidency. "We begin with a concept—for example, leadership. What is leadership, how do we recognize it in local and national politics? From this we go to an understanding of this concept as applied to our own government by considering the roles of strong Presidents in determining foreign and domestic policy. Last, we hope, the student is able to form his own generalization based on his careful investigation of the events of our history. He might conclude that confidence in government is often a result of positive leadership. This idea, drawn from his own thinking about American History, will enable him to establish standards of judgment for future events."

Thinking Man

Mrs. Opdahl's enthusiasm for this "thinking man's" approach to history was very obvious in her discussion of its use in her own classes. "I have found over the past year more student participation and interest and greater understanding of the relationship between the material they study and their life outside the classroom. They also seem better able to express their ideas in writing."

This new approach to instruction in social studies is one aspect of the growing emphasis on student understanding which can be found in all the areas of study in the Kingston Schools.

Mayors Back Transit Issue

The Transportation Bond Issue, or Proposition 1 on this year's ballot, received a boost today in the form of an endorsement from the New York State Conference of Mayors.

In a telegram sent to Governor Nelson A. Rockefeller, the president of the Conference, Mechanville Mayor John H. Connors, said that the organization "by unanimous action of its executive committee, wholeheartedly supports the state $2.5 billion transportation bond issue."

The telegram further stated, "Mayors and other officials of cities and villages will be asked to join in this Conference-led effort, and to encourage support in their communities on Election Day for this important referendum question."

The New York State Conference of Mayors and other municipal officials, now in its 58th year, is the state's official association of cities and villages of which more than 400 are presently members.

It serves as the clearing house for data and developments on local government functions as the liaison with the state and federal government, conducts training sessions and special seminars, and publishes informational materials and reports, all in keeping with the objectives of fostering and promoting progress in local government.

Included on the executive committee of the Conference is Mayor Eugene Glusker of Elmhurst.

Cut Study Time With Know-How

by the Reading Laboratory (Excerpted from the World Publishing Company Book, "Study Faster and Retain More." Illustrations by Roy Doty).

Check up on yourself the next time you study. For all the time you spend on your books, how much of it is really effective, concentrated studying?

We'll take a look at the study environment you should have. If it's not the kind of study environment you do cause then your eyes are closer to the bottom of the page than the top, and you'll be constantly changing your focus down the page.)

The internal environment:

● If you have any problems or if anything's worrying you, get it off your chest before you start studying. For example, if you're wondering whether so-and-so will go out with you Saturday night, call her up and find out!

● If it's not the kind of problem you can take care of with a phone call (you might be waiting for him to call you), a good trick is to write down whatever is bothering you.
Once it's down in black and white, you'll usually be able to stop worrying about it. Besides, problems rarely look very serious once they're written out.

● Or if you have a headache or if you're sleepy, take an aspirin or take a nap and hit the books later. Don't waste your time studying unless you're going to get something out of it.

(NEXT: Learning Efficiently) have, you can be sure that much of your time is being wasted.

There are two kinds of environment — the external and the internal. First the external.

● Study in a quiet room by yourself. NO television, NO distracting records and NO radio. Actually, it's better to have a slight, regular background noise than none at all.
A slight noise, such as normal household or street sounds, will make you raise your whole level of concentration.

● There should be a good light, at least 100-watt, coming over your shoulder. If it's in front of you the glare will tire your eyes.

● Use a straight chair; a kitchen chair is perfect. In an easy chair you'll start daydreaming.

● Hold your book about 14 inches from your eyes and on a 45-degree angle from the table. (Your eyes will tire quickly if the book is laid flat, because they have to move up and down constantly.)

Doing the Right Thing

By ELIZABETH L. POST
OWNER SHOULD BE CON-SULTED BEFORE BORROW-ING WEDDING DRESS

Dear Mrs. Post: I met a lady in the beauty parlor who said that she married off her daughter last year and, as her daughter went to live in Arizona, her wedding gown is at her mother's house. I had told her I am engaged and planning an April wedding. She said what a shame that a $450 wedding dress just lies in her closet. She practically begged me to wear her daughter's dress. She gave me her address and asked me to come over to try the dress on. Would it be proper for me to borrow it? If I do borrow it, as I expected to give her a gift, and if so, what do you suggest I get her?

Dear Sandra: It seems to me it is up to the girl whose dress it is, rather than her mother, to make such an offer. Call the lady and tell her you would feel uncomfortable wearing the dress without specific permission from the bride. If the daughter agrees, you may borrow the dress. Be sure to have it clean and in perfect condition when you return it, and do send both mother and daughter a gift. A crystal vase, a silver picture frame, a leather album or a beautiful ornament would be appropriate thanks for the loan of such an expensive dress.

On Eating Doughnuts

Dear Mrs. Post: Recently, on a coffee break, a number of people were eating doughnuts with a fork and knife. I said that doughnuts were finger food.
One woman replied, "Anyone who knows etiquette knows that the correct way to eat doughnuts is with a knife and fork."
I have an etiquette book which does mention cakes. Please help us with our problem. — Harriett
Dear Harriett: I don't know from which authority the woman got her information, but I've never heard of eating doughnuts with a knife and fork — unless they had a "gooey" icing.
They are finger food, and no etiquette book in my library says otherwise!

A Wife Complains About Her Husband's Manners

Dear Mrs. Post: My husband feels it is all right to sit slouched on the couch when visiting friends or when watching a movie or play. I think this looks very rude. He also talks with a mouthful of food bulging his cheeks, or he may drink a beverage while he still has food in his mouth. Do you think I should have to tolerate these table

Ladies Usually Wait To Be Escorted Up The Aisle

Dear Mrs. Post: When two ladies are attending a wedding and the usher takes one down the aisle, what does the other lady do? Does she wait for the usher to return, or does she follow the other lady and usher-er? I had this problem once and did not know what I should do, so I followed. Others must have wondered about this. — Ruby Whitehurst.

Dear Miss Whitehurst: The second lady ordinarily waits for the next free usher to escort her. But if she sees none about to be free, or there are many others waiting, it is perfectly correct for her to walk down the aisle close behind her friend.

Kingston High School's first varsity soccer team broke into the victory column Monday at Loughran Park with a 5-1 DUSO decision over the winless Fallsburgh Comets.

Coach John Hunter's rapidly improving booters broke in front early against the cellar dwellers as Charlie Korzen-dorfer, an outstanding performer in his first starting role of the season, booted a long shot over the head of goalie Ira Gold.

Two minutes later Fred Seegar pushed the ball past the arms of Gold, after a cross by Steve Lonergan.

Seegar tallied his second goal at three minutes of the second period. Later in the same period, Dave Roberts caught a cross from Korzen-dorfer and rode it into the goal.

After the Comets tallied their only goal on a penalty kick by Ellie Patton in the fourth quarter, Bob Joyet of the home side came off a fast break to beat the Fallsburgh goalie at 3:55 of the final session.

A happy Hunter cited the all-around play of Bob Davis, Korzen-dorfer and Henry Yeh in the big win.

The locals are home Thursday against Monticello, tie with Middletown for the league lead.

BY FRANK ECK
AP Newsfeatures Sports Editor

BOSTON (AP) — "When Ted Williams retires," former Holy Cross southpaw pitcher Frank (Bots) Nekola was saying in 1958. "I have the man who will replace him in left field for the Boston Red Sox."

"Now I'm certain of it," scout Nekola said the next summer when Carl Yastrzemski, then only 20, led the Carolina League in hitting with .377 for Raleigh, N.C.

Carl Michael Yastrzemski, who grew up on Long Island potato fields and played semipro shortstop next to his third baseman father, made 45 errors at Raleigh. But Bots Nekola knew Yaz had the arm and speed to become a left fielder.

Nekola was so high on Yaz as a teen ager that he could make the 60-mile-trip blindfolded from his New Hyde Park home to Bridgehampton where the Yastrzemskis lived.

A number of teams were bidding on Yaz's services but only

CARL YASTRZEMSKI
Nekola had a chance, because Nekola put up the money—$108,000 of it.

Right now Yaz is more popular than Ted Williams, the last man to hit 400.

Yaz now will get $100,000 and he won't have to ask for it.

What makes Yaz so popular? Another Williams, Dick, can best answer that. Says the Boston manager:

"Yaz is a devoted team man all the way. I have never seen any player put forth so much individual and team effort as Carl did during the entire season and in the seven-game World Series.

"He is so dedicated to the game that he changed his hitting habits almost overnight and became a slugger. I can't remember any other player ever being able to accomplish what he did in one year.

"Even with his quick hands and quick bat he is able to swing where the ball is pitched."

Some believe it's sacrilegious to say Carl Yastrzemski right now is more popular than Ted Williams ever was. Not so, Ted was an individualist. Carl is anything but.

Ted Williams thought the fans had no right to boo him. He cursed them even in spring training. When they applauded he refused to tip his cap.

For one hour after the World Series, hundreds of reporters surrounded Yaz. He never once tried to brush them off. When new questioners showed up, Carl repeated his feelings and thoughts on the team as its unofficial leader.

The American League's triple crown winner and most valuable player praised the Cardinals, then said:

"In my six previous seasons here I looked upon them as nothing special. But now I can't wait until spring training begins. I'm looking forward to it. I know all of the players and I know the same way."

The people of the Fens like the way he hustles after a fly ball, charges ground balls, throws runners out and hits baseballs out of sight.

He has done it all this year, and he will be doing it for a few more.

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Thousands of red-coated hunters, spurred on today by bright forecasts for both weather and hunting, watched the clock creep toward sunrise Wednesday — the opening hour of deer and bear season in northern New York.

The Weather Bureau predicted Indian Summer temperatures in the 60s and 70s for opening day, but cooler and possibly showery weather was expected by the season's first weekend.

The Conservation Department said it expects the season to produce a record harvest of deer.

Approximate 500,000 men, women and teen-agers are licensed to hunt big game during the season ending Dec. 5.

Each has either held licenses during previous seasons or has passed a hunter-safety course prescribed by law.

Although the largest influx of hunters is expected over the weekend, motel and lodge owners said they expected a large turnout on opening day. Some hunters headed for the Adirondacks early today, planning on setting up camps in remote areas and scouting for signs of deer.

Booming Business

Gun smiths and sporting goods dealers have done a booming business during the pre-season weeks. A gun smith in suburban West Sand Lake said he has been busy from 8 a.m. through 9 p.m. daily for several weeks, installing telescopic sights, repairing weapons and selling guns and ammunition.

He and many other hunters—possibly 3,000—plan to start their hunting in the Moose River Plains area near the Adirondack community of Indian Lake. There, hunters have been granted special permits to take antlerless deer as well as party permits authorizing parties of hunters to take additional deer.

Conservationists expect a large harvest of deer this year because recent mild winters have enabled the deer to multiply. Severe winters with heavy snow take a large toll through starvation.

Hunting hours are from sunrise to sunset. Season limits per hunter are one deer carrying antlers at least 3 inches long and one bear.

In addition, however, there are five special "party permit" areas in the northern region. In these, parties of two to four hunters have acquired state permits authorizing their group to take one additional buck or doe. Other regulations cover the Moose River area.

The state's Northern Zone, in which the season opens Wednesday at sunrise, extends north of a line through Washington, Saratoga, Fulton, Herkimer, Oneida and Oswego counties and includes all of the Adirondack Forest Preserve.

The season in the Southern Zone, including the rest of the state barring Westchester and Montgomery counties, New York City and Long Island, opens Nov. 20.

Nix and Hart Just a Few

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The backup quarterback who sits on the bench with the headphones and thinks how much better he could do is finally getting a chance this season.

Kent Nix at Pittsburgh, Jim Hart at St. Louis, Gary Cuozzo at New Orleans, Daryle Lamonica at Oakland, Pete Beathard at Houston and Steve Tensi at Denver all are getting a chance to play after riding the bench behind No. 1.

Nix was a taxi squad man at Green Bay last season, seen only during the week while the Packers charged through the National Football League and then beat Kansas City in the Super Bowl.

Traded to Pittsburgh, where he figured to be No. 2 to Bill Nelsen, Nix was promoted to first string when Nelsen's troublesome knee gave out again. The young man from Texas Christian set a Steeler record Sunday with 28 completions against Dallas.

Hart was supposed to tag along behind Charley Johnson at St. Louis. When Johnson was called into the Army, the Cards had to fall back on this untied rookie from Southern Illinois whose only pro experience had been completing four of 11 passes in last year's finale with Cleveland. Hart passed for four touchdowns Sunday against Philadelphia.

Kilmer Failed

When the New Orleans Saints traded their No. 1 draft pick to Baltimore in the deal that brought Cuozzo to the Saints, they figured Johnny Unitas' understudy would take over the job. Billy Kilmer had such a fine pre-season record that Coach Tom Fears went with him for a time but seems to have shifted over to Cuozzo.

Lamonica played second fiddle to Jackie Kemp at Buffalo for years while the crowd hooted. Now he is No. 1 at Oakland and throwing his weight around the American Football League. He passed for four touchdowns Sunday in the rout of Boston.

Beathard chafed under the restraining rope at Kansas City where he was behind Lenny Dawson. So he was traded to Houston. Although he completed only three of 14 passes Sunday, one was for a touchdown in the 24-19 victory over Dawson and his former mates.

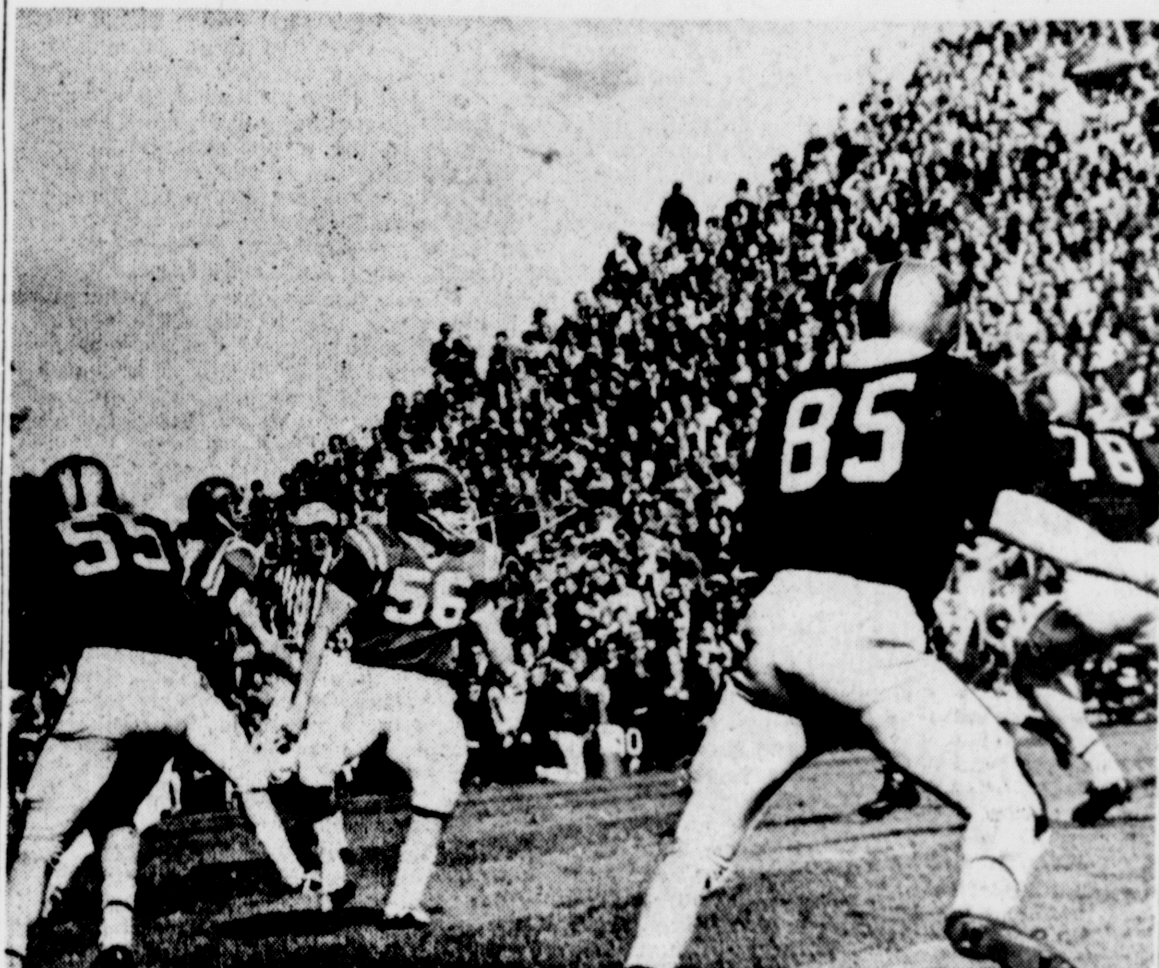

Tensi, injured after he was traded to Denver by San Diego, threw for 234 yards Sunday in a losing effort against the Chargers.

Meredith Not Playing

Craig Morton and Jerry Rhyme are getting their chances to move the Dallas Cowboys while Don Meredith is out of action. Morton's third scoring pass Sunday beat Pittsburgh.

Joe Kapp, a Canadian League star, has moved in as No. 1 at Minnesota. He hit with 15 of 25 for 203 yards and a touchdown and got a 20-20 draw in a duel with Baltimore's Johnny Unitas Sunday.

The return of Bart Starr sent Zeke Bratkowski to his normal backup role at Green Bay after two games as a starter.

UCCC Cross Country Team Nips Dutchess

John Roettger ran the fastest time of the year over the 3.2 Orange Community College course and the unbeaten harriers of Ulster Community College nipped the powerful Colts, 27-28, in a Mid Hudson Conference dual meet Monday.

In gaining their eighth straight verdict, the Senators turned in their best effort of the season. Coach Dick Glazer cited the entire squad with special praise to Roettger and Tom Garofalo, who finished third.

The Senators will entertain Dutchess Community College Wednesday at Dietz Stadium.

West Coast Elevens Pacing AP Grid Poll

Unbeaten Southern California, unanimous choice as the nation's top college football team in the latest Associated Press poll, has what appears to be a breather coming up this Saturday.

At that, though, the Trojans will be more vulnerable than second-ranked UCLA. The Bruins, who replaced Purdue in the No. 2 position, are not scheduled. USC goes up against Oregon, loser of five games in a row before its 31-6 victory over Idaho last weekend.

The Trojans, 6-0 after defeating Washington 23-6 last Saturday, drew first-place votes from all 37 sports writers and broadcasters on the AP's national panel in the latest poll.

Bruins Are 6-0

UCLA collected 303 points on a basis of 10 for a first place vote, 9 for second, 8 for third etc. The Bruins also lifted their record to 6-0 by beating Stanford, 21-16.

Colorado is third followed by Tennessee, North Carolina, Georgia, Purdue, Wyoming, Houston and Indiana.

The major gains were achieved by Tennessee, Georgia and Wyoming. The Volunteers climbed from seventh to fourth after upsetting Alabama 24-13 and dropping the sixth-rated Crimson Tide out of the rankings.

Georgia advanced from eighth to sixth after walloping Virginia Military 56-6 while Wyoming edged from 10th to eighth. The Cowboys downed Wichita State 30-7 for a 6-0 mark.

Indiana Tenth

Indiana took over the No. 10 spot. The Hoosiers beat Michigan 27-20 for their fifth victory against no defeats.

Colorado, also 5-0, takes on

Port Freshmen Nip KHS, 18-13

Moving 30 yards in the final period after recovering a fumble, the Port Jervis frosh football team nipped Kingston, 18-13, Monday at Dietz Stadium.

Both sides exchanged first period scores. Wayne Smith went two yards for the Raiders and Harold Anderson ran 38 yards for coach Frank Modica's gridders.

The KHS team moved in front as Dwight Byrd scampered 28 yards in the third period and Anderson made the extra point.

Port came back in the third session with Butler climaxing a long drive by going over from the one. The extra point was missed and it was 13-12 game.

Then came the fourth period fumble and it cost the locals their third setback in four starts.

Kingston is at Middletown on Monday.

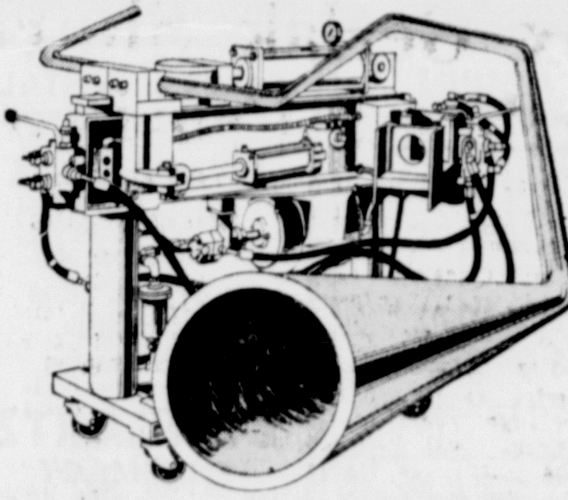

KHS lineup: Ends—Johnson and Grover; tackles—Lackaye and DeForest; guards—Barnes and Grommoli; center—Avery; quarterback—Perry; halfbacks—Geaneules and Byrd; fullback—Anderson. Reserves: McComber, Brocco, Lawrence, Snyder, H. Johnson, A. Johnson, Boddy.

Score by quarters:

The talk in Boston during the World Series had the Red Sox shifting Ken Harrelson to first base, first baseman George Scott to third base and Joy Foy to the trading block.

The fact that Scott happens to be the best first baseman in the business apparently didn't disturb the "insiders." Harrelson at best is a journeyman major leaguer.

The Foy would be traded off to the New York Yankees in turn for a pitcher. Foy happens to be a third baseman. The Yankees, meanwhile, are playing Bill Robinson the outfield bust of 1967, at third base in the Florida Instructional League. Some of the Yankee brass feel Robinson, an expensive investment, can make it at the hot corner.

WHERE DOES ALL of this leave Mike Ferraro of Kingston, who is still on the Yankees' official 40-man player roster?

In the normal course of events, Ferraro will report to the Yankee training camp at Fort Lauderdale next spring and get a "fair" shot at the third base post. Johnny Johnson head of the Yankee farm system, assures one and all that Mike is "very much in the Yankee plans of the future."

If Ferraro fails to make the grade next spring, then what. The Yankees can still option the Kingston lad once more.

IF THE YANKEES DECIDE to send Ferraro back to the farm, he will be faced with an important personal decision. He tells friends he hasn't decided what he'll do if the Yankees send him down again.

Meanwhile, there is a report that the Chicago White Sox might be willing to take Ferraro off the Yankees' hands. How much substance there is to this speculation is unknown. In any event, if Mike leaves that would take the pressure off Bill Robinson and maybe raise his batting average from .198 to .225.

Off the Top of the Head
If there is a high school coach in the area, who can handle young football players better than Ontario's Paul Jordan, we haven't seen him.

The most precious commodity for the Associated Press' Top Ten selectors this season must be aspirin.

Proving what a difference a year makes, does anybody really care about that Notre Dame-Michigan State thing at East Lansing this weekend?

Isn't it about time to start billing that Nov. 18 clash between Southern Cal and UCal as the second "Game of the Decade"?

Football facilities at most UCal schools can stand vast improvement with respect to better seating accommodations, printed game programs, public address system, etc. Year after year, Ontario makes the best showing in this department, even though school authorities have failed to capitalize on a natural setting for a large bleacher section on the hilly east side of the football field.

DOES JOE DI MAGGIO need money so badly he has to shill for the likes of Charles O. (for Owner) Finley with the new Oakland franchise in the American League? Or is Joe D really a lonesome man as many contend?

Isn't it time for all good citizens to come to the aid of the U. S. Olympic team by making a donation at Howard Johnson's in Kingston?

We get the feeling that the tremendous talent of the Ontario High school band, cheer leader and majorettes is often wasted on pitifully small crowds.

The guy was stretching for a gag when he said the New York police nearly declared Yankee Stadium a disaster area in the fourth quarter of the Giants-Packer contest.

A slight exaggeration to be sure, but the Giants were pretty awful. However, if it comforts Giant fans to any extent, we got the impression the Giants weren't that bad and the Packers weren't really that good.

Alex Gerlak Shares Northeast Pro-Pro

Alex Gerlak of Twaalfskill climaxed one of his best seasons in many years on the Northeastern PGA trail Monday by teaming with John Kellar of Pittsfield to capture the association's 1967 Pro-Pro championship.

The Gerlak tandem posted 33-35 to edge several teams that deadlocked with best-ball 68's in the tourney at Shaker Ridge Country Club.

One of the teams tied at 69 was that of Willywick Country Club pro Ian (Scotty) Robertson and Glenn Young of Pinehaven (36-33). Jim Hutchins of Woodstock and Young's father, Claude of Winding Brook also tied at 69 with nines of 36-33.

Also at 69 were: Dick Hughes, Colonie, and John Wall, Glens Falls, 37-32; Ralph Montoya, Little Falls, Bill Gressick, Cats-

kill, 33-36; Ed Bossee, Colonie, and Guy Farina, Caroga Lake, shot 34-36-70, as did Gerlak with a second partner, Bill Conway of Albany at 36-34.

Gressick Elected
Bill Gressick of Catskill Country Club was elected president of the Northeastern at the annual election of officers following the tournament.

Other officers elected were: Jim Murray, Pine Brook, first vice president; Bob Smith, Wolfert's Root, second vice president; John Gaucas, Van Schaick, secretary-treasurer.

Named to three-year terms on the association's board of directors were Larry Ostrander, Windham; Al Stein, Glens Falls; and Marty Czwajkel, Normanside.

Gaucas was voted the association's golfer of the year award.

Csonka Is Named To All-East Team

NEW YORK (AP) — Syracuse's Larry Csonka, who scored all three touchdowns and rolled up 204 yards in leading his team to a 20-14 victory over California Saturday, was named All-East Monday to the weekly E.C.A.C.'s All-East football team.

Also picked for the Eastern College Athletic Conference's team of the week were halfbacks Bob Weber, Princeton, and Vic Gatto, Harvard; quarterback Greg Landry, Massachusetts; ends Pete Lawrence, Dartmouth, and Jim Kavanaugh, Boston College; guards Mike Lundy, Buffalo, and Henry Palasek, Connecticut; tackles Wes Scovanner, Pennsylvania, and Lee Schneider, Rutgers, and center Glenn Grieco, Holy Cross.

Charles Pittman, a Penn State tailback, was named Sophomore of the Week. He returned a second half kickoff 83 yards for the winning touchdown against West Virginia and also rushed 24 times for 137 yards.

Syracuse Boxer Captures Decision

WORCESTER, Mass. (AP) — Hal "TNT" Carroll, Syracuse, N.Y., won a unanimous 10-round decision over Marion Connor of Boston Monday night in a light heavyweight fight at Mechanics Hall.

Carroll scored consistently with stinging left jabs in the first four rounds to build up a lead on points, then held on in fairly even fighting the rest of the way. Connor was ranked 10th by the World Boxing Association.

There were no knockdowns. Both fighters weighed 177.

Attitude Is Key At San Diego

By RON ROACH
Associated Press Sports Writer

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — Many people have wondered what has made the San Diego Chargers the only undefeated team in the American Football League.

The factors are many—quarterback John Hadl, flanker Lance Alworth, two rookie runners, additions to the defensive unit. But Coach Sid Gillman gives most of the credit to attitude for San Diego's 5-0-1 record.

"I truly believe this is one of our best teams," Gillman said Monday. "It's not laden with so much talent but one thing we have is attitude. That's 90 percent of the battle."

"The players just know there's going to be some way to win the football game—punt return, fumble recovery, blocked kick—they know something will happen."

The Chargers have won five Western Division titles and one league crown since the AFL was founded in 1960. But they fell off to a 7-4-1 mark to finish third in the West last year.

Gillman's troops appeared headed for their worst season since 1962 (4-10) during the pre-season exhibitions when they were routed by three National Football League foes.

Quarterback Hadl was throwing almost as many interceptions as completions and the defense looked as if it belonged on a playground.

Then the Chargers suddenly jelled, upending Boston, 28-14 in the season opener. They whipped Houston, 13-3; Buffalo 37-17; Kansas City 45-31 and Denver, 38-21. They tied Boston 31-31.

"Hadl's arrived as a pro," Gillman said. "He's not just a quarterback with a play book. He's able to set himself and pick defenses apart with rhyme and reason."

Defensively, newcomers Scott Appleton and Tom Day on the line and linebackers Johnny Baker and rookie Jeff Stacks have played inspired football.

Sophomore Joe Beauchamp has developed into a "beautiful corner back," said Gillman. Veterans Speedy Duncan, Kenny Graham and Bud Whitehead are playing some of the best football of their lives in the secondary.

Longendyke Blasts 300, 712 in Four-Man Classic

Ralph Longendyke defied tremendous odds to fire the first perfect "300" game of the 1967-68 bowling season Monday night in the 4-Man Classic at Mid-City Lanes. Longendyke, a long time 190-average bowler, tossed 10 straight 1-3 pocket shots, then crossed over to the "Jersey side" for his last two strikes.

The 300 game followed scores of 178 and 234 to give Longendyke a 712 series—highest in the circuit to date and third "700" set of the season. The 300 was the first of his career.

Runnerup was Herb Petersen who collected 684 off 225, 203, 256 in the Summit Classic.

Ernie Bartoff rolled a 287 solo and 647 triple in the 4-Man Classic.

Frank Ferrando unloaded 247-231-667 in the City Minor. Al Bagatta had 248-645 in the Mid-City Mixed and tied at 641 were Ted Wiands, with 270 solo in the Tavern Association, and Vince Carpino 227-641 in the Summit Classic.

Jersey Cagers Lose Home Debut

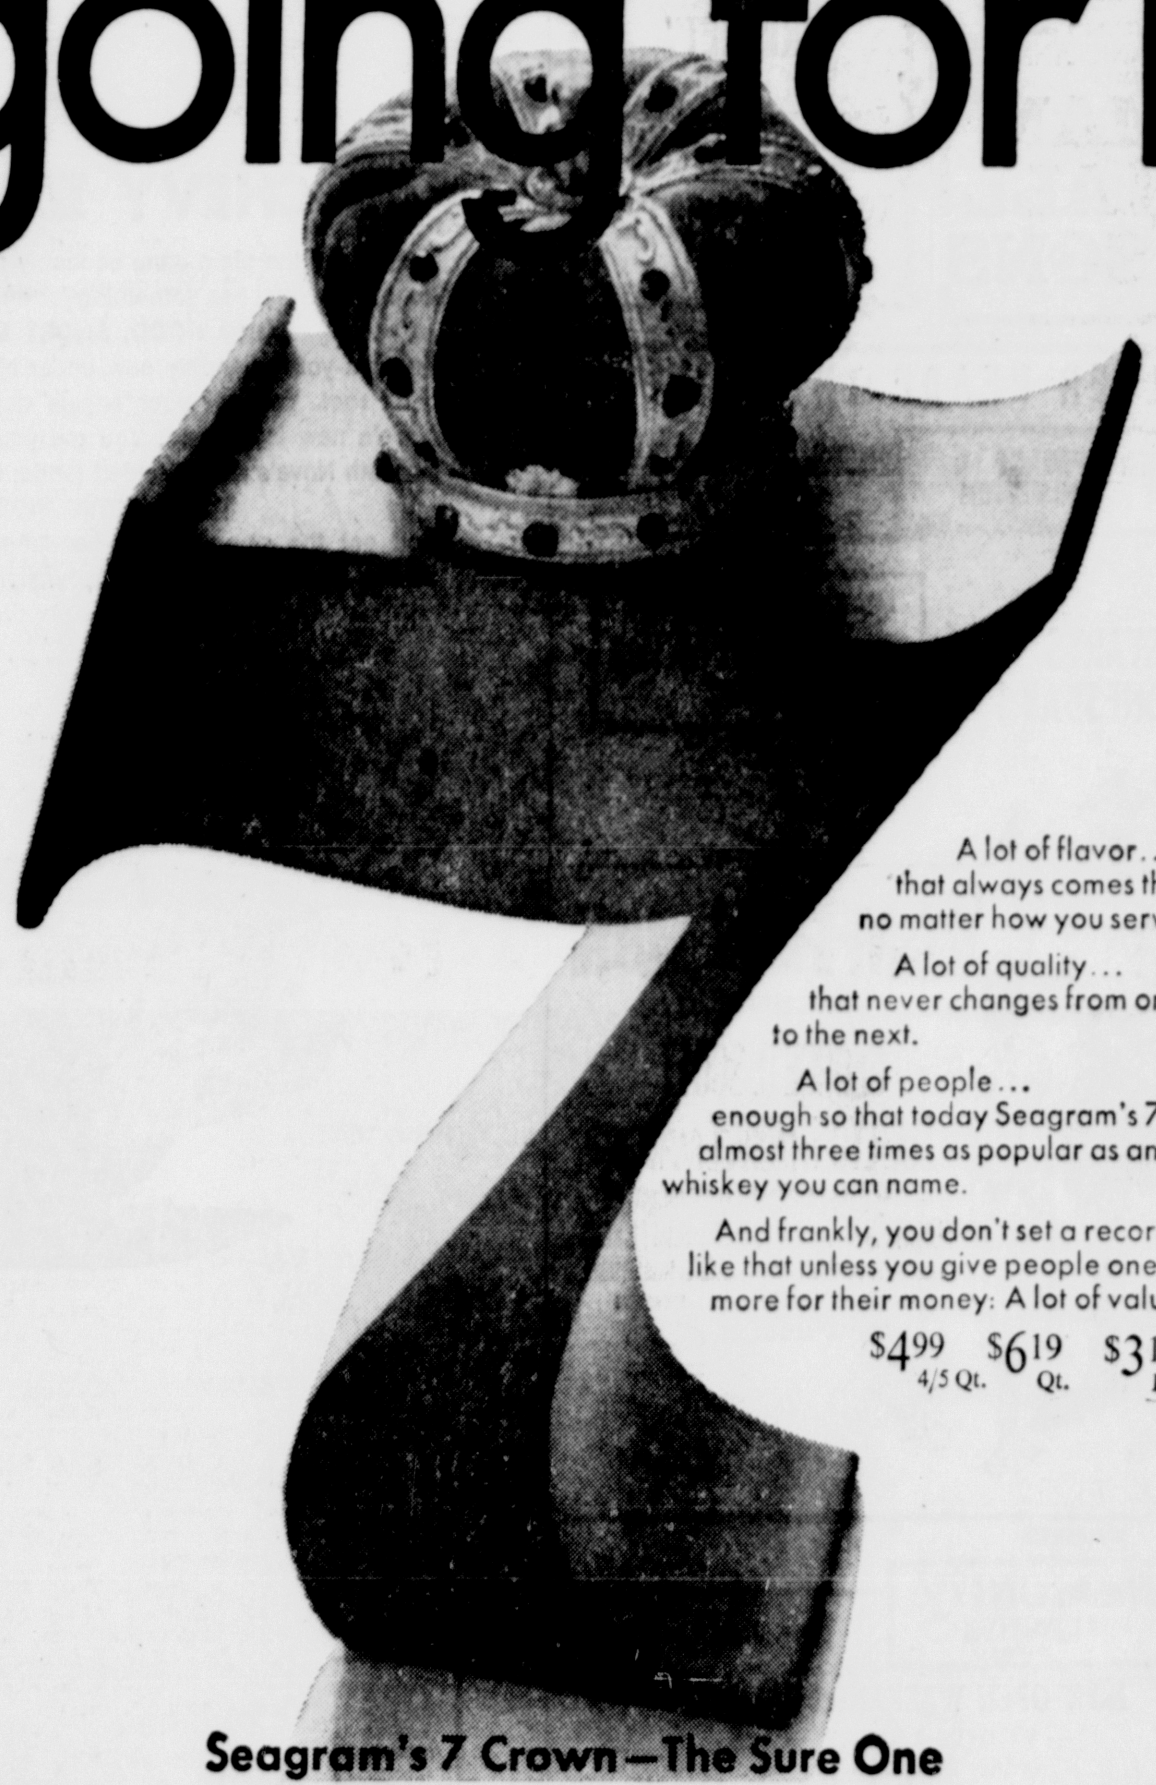

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Professional basketball came to New Jersey Monday with Wilt Chamberlain among the 3,089 spectators. The Americans, pride of Teaneck, could have used him out on the floor.

The Pittsburgh Pipers rallied from a 13-point third-period deficit to down the New Jersey Americans 110-107 in the opening American Basketball Association game for both clubs. Connie Hawkins scored 34 points for Pittsburgh and Charlie Williams added 32.

Dan Anderson hit for 41 points for the Americans, but it wasn't enough.

In the only other league ac-tion, Dallas won its second game against one defeat, knock-ing off Houston 100-83. Houston now is 1-2.

There's a lot going for it.

A lot of flavor... that always comes through, no matter how you serve it.

A lot of quality... that never changes from one bottle to the next.

A lot of people... enough so that today Seagram's 7 Crown is almost three times as popular as any other whiskey you can name.

And frankly, you don't set a record like that unless you give people one thing more for their money: A lot of value.

AP Movie-Television Writer
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The name of George Chakiris appears in the cast of tonight's ABC television special, "Kismet."

George Chakiris, a few images register: The slender, tragic Puerto Rican who danced and acted with gifted skill in the film "West Side Story." The shyly exuberant actor sharing Academy Award honors with his date of the evening, Rita Moreno. And then, the star of a succession of foreign-made movies, most of them eminently forgettable.

Chakiris today remains slender and handsome. Also shy, but he has learned to live with his shyness. And his lessons since winning the Oscar as best supporting actor of 1961 have been profound, though painful.

"I never did a single one of the things you're supposed to do if you aim to pursue a movie career," he remarks. "I should have stayed here and gotten to know the people who were hiring me. I should have gotten a press agent. No, I wouldn't have taken starlets to night-clubs. But I should at least have let people know that I was still in the business."

"I didn't do any of that. But I have no regrets, because I didn't know any better at the time. The only thing I could do was profit by my mistakes."

Success came too fast for Chakiris. He practically stepped from the chorus to a leading role in the biggest musical hit of its day, "West Side Story." He recalled being invited to parties at the homes of his bosses, the Mirisch brothers.

"People like Melina Mercouri, Shirley MacLaine and Natalie Wood were there, and I couldn't think of a thing to say to them," he recalled.

"Then I found myself being co-starred with Yul Brynner in 'Flight from Ashiya.' I wasn't up to it, and the part wasn't right for me. I found out why the producer, Harold Hecht, hired me: because the picture was a Japanese coproduction, and I was big in Japan because 'West Side Story' was such a hit there."

More films followed: "Diamond Head" in Hawaii; "Kings of the Sun," Mexico; "633 Squadron," England; "Robo's Girl," Italy; "The High Bright"

Sun, "England; 'The Theft of the Mona Lisa,' France, Italy; 'The Girls from Rochefort,' France.

Hollywood remained the actor's home, but he returned here only to see friends, take some dancing lessons and pack up for another overseas location. Earlier this year Chakiris decided it was time to halt his wanderings and attend to his domestic career. He put together a night club act and opened at Caesar's Palace in Las Vegas.

"The results were fantastic," he remarked. "Virtually everyone in show business comes to Vegas to see the shows, and out of that engagement I got offers for Ed Sullivan's show and Carol Burnett's. And I wouldn't have been asked to do 'Kismet' if I hadn't done the Vegas act."

WAC Visits Family, Leaves For Okinawa

SP5 Gabrielle Broncato recently visited relatives and friends in Tillson.

Miss Broncato is a graduate of St. Peter's School, Rosendale, and attended Kingston High School. For a time she was employed at the Kingston Knitting Mills. In July, 1961 Miss Broncato entered the Women's Army Corps at Albany. Later she was stationed at Fort Holliard, Md., and then Frankfurt, West Germany. On her return to the United States she was stationed at Walter Reed Army Medical Center for two years where she was with the Chief Administrative Section, Education and Training Branch.

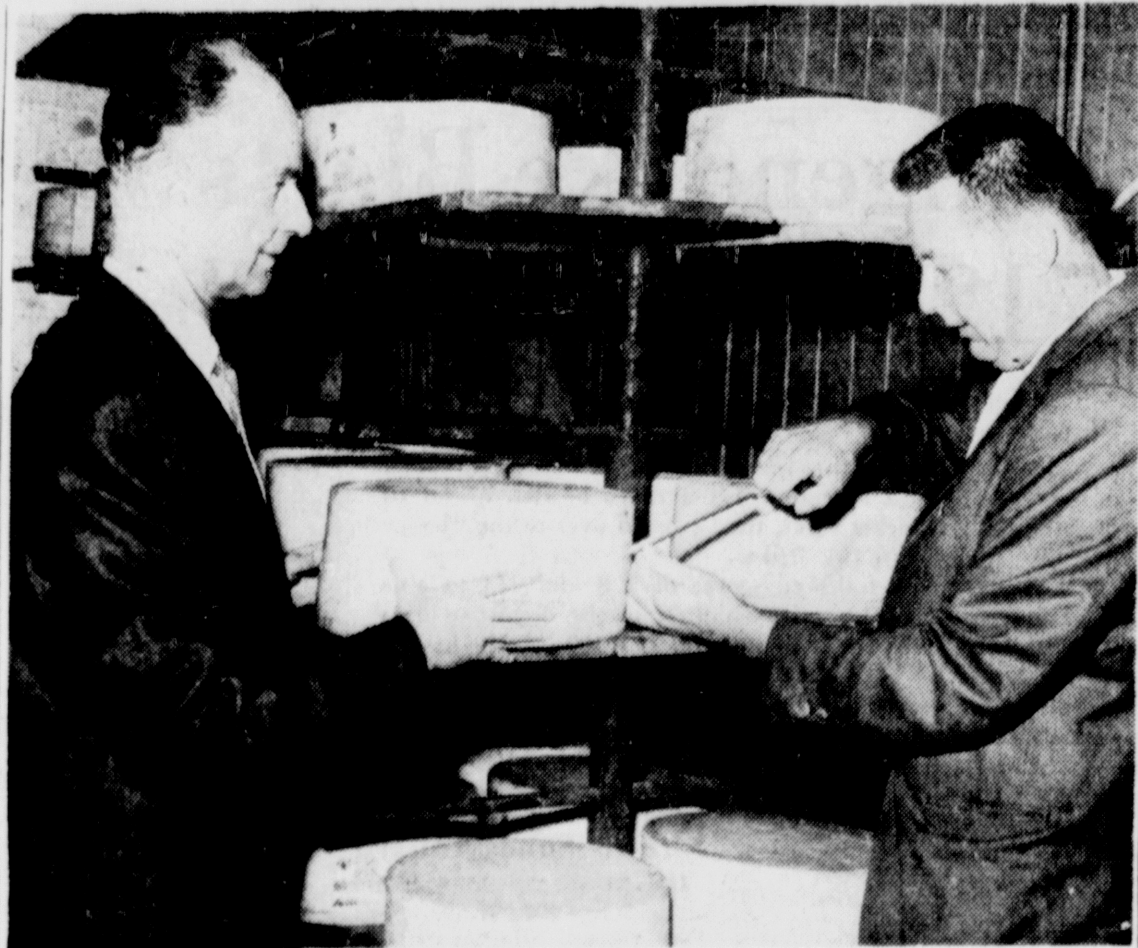

Last Thursday Miss Broncato left for a new assignment and will be stationed for a two year period at Okinawa.

'Sticky' Library

FESTUS, Mo. (AP) — If voters decide in Tuesday's special election they don't want to approve a $65,000 bond issue for a new library after all, the situation is going to get sticky.

The library already is under construction.

Voters approved the bond issue April 4, but the City Council learned the election notice was not properly handled and a new election had to be called.

TASTING BENEFIT—Robert Schneller, owner of Schneller's Meats in Kingston, and Carl Jaekle, internationally known cheese expert, get together to select the gourmet cheese to be served up at the Wine and Cheese Tasting Party here on Sunday, Nov. 5. Fete will be held at the Governor Clinton Hotel to benefit the Hudson Valley Philharmonic Society. Those attending will get chance to sample imported wines and fancy cheese at this second annual event, slated from 5 to 7 p. m. Other attractions besides food and drink will be music and exhibition of paintings. All proceeds go to the Philharmonic and tickets to soiree are available from Schneller, Dr. Richard Messina of Saugerties, or Jon Doyle at Kingston's Community Theatre.

50 HJ Managers To Attend Meet At Motor Lodge

Fifty managers of Howard Johnson's motor lodges in nine states will meet at the Kingston Route 28 motor lodge Oct. 26-27 for the company's annual seminar.

Robert M. James, vice-president and Director of Operations, said the seminar is one of eight similar meetings being held across the nation for representatives of the company's chain of more than 300 motor lodges from Maine to California. Twenty-three motor lodges are located in New York.

"The theme of the seminar is Open-Minded Management," James said. "Our members will review their goals and the challenges of the lodging industry in the future."

"The agenda includes human factors and relationships, guest services, and exercises in problem solving—all directed toward providing better service to the

traveling public."

James said the company is continuing its nationwide expansion program, including construction of additional facilities in its chain of motor lodges and more than 800 restaurants from coast to coast.

Man's Possessions

CHEYENNE, Wyo. (AP) — Carl Moulden of Casper, finally got his fishing tackle and portable ice chest.

But it took a Wyoming Supreme Court decision to do it. Moulden was granted a divorce from his wife, Dorothy, in 1964. He was awarded the fishing tackle, portable ice chest and certain photographic slides.

In 1966 he filed suit contending his former wife refused to let him take the fishing tackle. The district court ruled in his favor, but Mrs. Moulden took the issue to the state supreme court, where the original decision was affirmed.

So much more car

'68 CHEVY II NOVA COUPE

The day of the plain Jane economy car has come and gone. Chevrolet has something far finer to offer.

LONG HOOD, SHORT DECK

You get your economy now under Nova's new swept-back roof. You get your engine dependability under Nova's new long hood. You get your rust prevention beneath Nova's new rounded fenders and larger body.

SUPERLATIVE RIDE

You get the smoothest in handling, too. The wheel stance is wider, the rear suspension has been redesigned, and there is a new cushion-mounted front end.

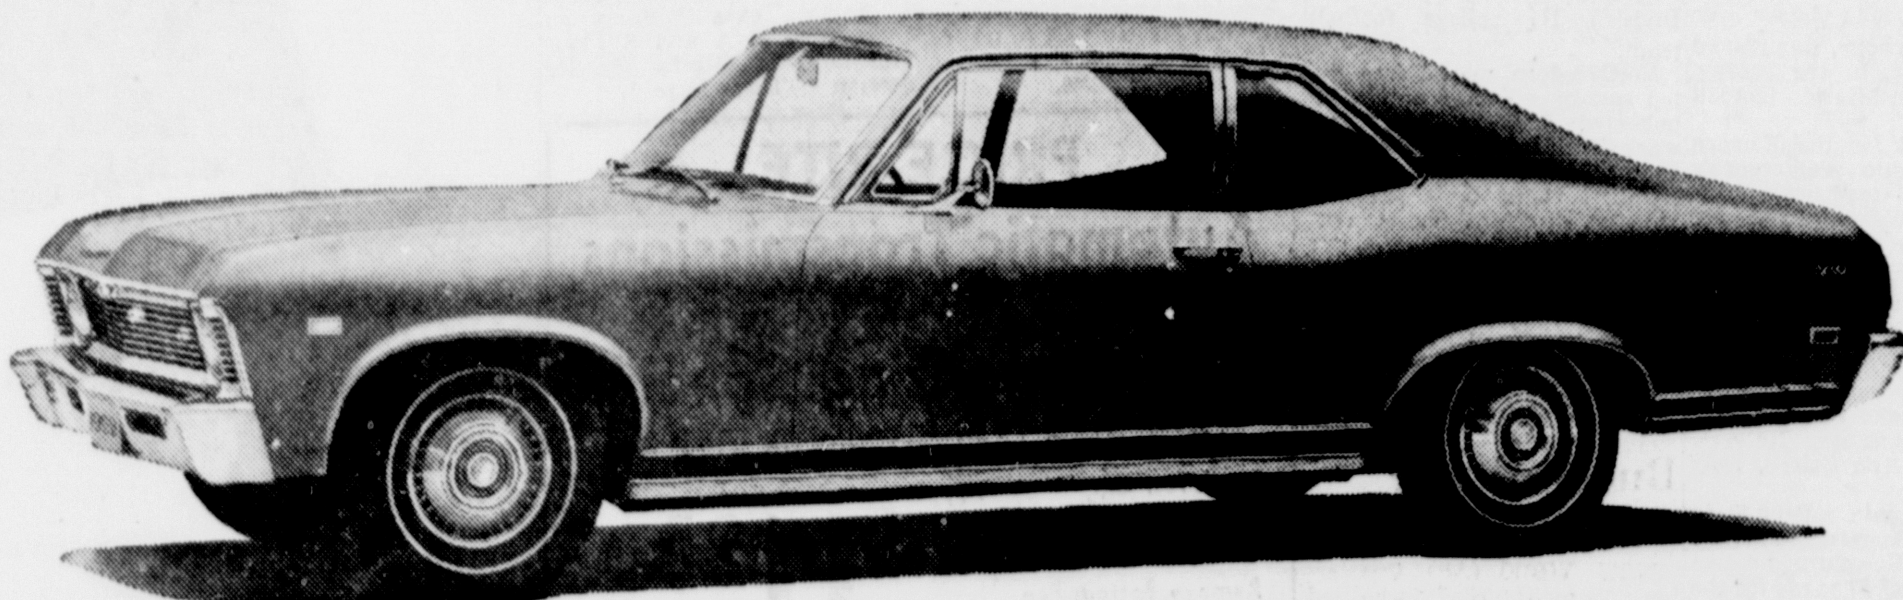

Nova feels like it's a thousand pounds heavier. It rides with amazing silence and smoothness.

NEW ALL OVER

The grille is new. The interior is new. (There's even a special custom interior you can order, the likes of which no economy car has ever offered before.) The standard V8 is bigger, more powerful. So is the standard Six with its new Monojet carburetor that contributes to greater efficiency, economy and performance. There are many new safety features, including energy-absorbing front seat backs to go along with the proved GM-developed energy-absorbing steering column. And when you equip a Nova with the SS package, you look out over a special hood and black accented grille, housing a 350-cubic-inch Turbo-Fire V8.

Front to back, Chevy II Nova's now a driving enthusiast's kind of car but, fortunately for you, it still comes at a saving enthusiast's kind of price. Very low.

For so little: $2261⁰⁰

Be smart! Be sure! Buy now at your Chevrolet dealer's.

Dear Abby

The Second Time Around

(© 1967 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: I am a widow, having loved my husband very much after living many happy years with him. Now, after a reasonable time, I am keeping company with a fine man who has been a widower for a like period. He also loved his wife very much and had a happy life in a lifetime and that after losing one's beloved mate, in time, and would like to spend my remaining years with him. The trouble is, that although I'm sure he loves me, too, he feels that by marrying again he would be disloyal to the memory of his first wife. Because of this we are losing precious time that we could be spending together. I maintain that a person can "fall in love" more than once and that after loss-

DEAR HOPING: It is said that one who has known true happiness in marriage and has lost his mate will remarry for he respects the married state and wishes to know it again. I agree with you. But if your widower friend balks at marriage, no matter what his reason, he probably doesn't want to get married. So, if you do, don't waste any more precious time on him.

DEAR ABBY: In the book of etiquette it says that all personal notes should be written in either dark blue or black ink. Well, how about professional Irishmen who use nothing but GREEN ink?

This man is so proud of the fact he is Irish that he never lets anybody forget it for a minute. He wears green all the time. His house is painted green. He drives a green car, and he has cute little shamrock designs on everything from his business stationery to his mailbox. Don't you think someone ought to tell that "Jolly Green Giant" that GREEN ink is not considered good etiquette?

KNOWS BETTER: I'm sure it wouldn't faze him. And he'd bet you his shillelagh that he's gained more by being a "professional Irishman" than he's lost.

FOR ABBY'S NEW BOOK-LET "WHAT TEEN-AGERS WANT TO KNOW," SEND $1.00 TO ABBY, BOX 69700, LOS ANGELES, CAL. 90069.

If you want to use fragment bids, the first thing to do is to get together with your favorite partner or partners and agree on which ones to use. As a starter, you should stick to sequences that start with a one-over-one response.

In case you missed yesterday's column, a fragment bid is a super jump in a new suit. A regular jump is forcing and supposedly shows strength in the suit. This superjump is also forcing and also shows tremendous support for partner and a singleton or fragment in the new suit.

Fragment bids may well be described as high level bridge. You can get to even a higher level if you add clubs to them.

North's four club call is a fragment bid. What is South's jump to five spades?

Roger Stern of New York who made that five spade bid had never discussed it with Larry Rostler of Jersey City, but Roger and Larry are scientists and Roger felt sure that Larry would know what it meant.

Larry is not one of our fastest players, but after two or three minutes of thought he decided that Roger was saying, "I have first round club control, but the heart suit may be wide open and I have two potential heart losers."

After that, Larry bid six hearts to show the ace of that suit and for Roger went all the way to seven spades.

Of course, they might have gotten there with Blackwood. However, if Roger had used Blackwood and Larry had shown only one ace, Roger would not have known what to do.

Producer of 'Timmy' Excels

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Paul Bryant, coach of the University of Alabama's football team was the subject of an ABC "Profile" Monday night. But the hour, even for a rabid football fan, had to be as disappointing as a movie fan magazine with a lurid headline and nothing much to back it up.

Bryant, coach of a number of winning teams, was presented as a man accused of "brutalizing" football and a man with an overwhelming desire to win games. A lot of viewers must have been people who just happened to stick around after "Cowboy in Africa" and others just waiting for "Peyton Place" to start. And the program was presented with a mild-mannered fellow with a soft Southern accent urging his players to say their prayers, smile a lot, keep clean and have good characters.

Like Interview

As the program progressed it took on the shape of those TV sports interviews in which invariably a player is asked if he thinks his side will win.

The alleged documentary reached some sort of a new high sophistry when we were treated to a postgame—it was a tie—locker room session showing the players on their knees in prayer, followed by a gentle, sad remonstrance from the "Bear" as he is called. A latter day Knute Rockne the "Bear," is not, not on TV anyway.

It omitted so much. We never learned how he managed to get such good players. We had one mention of his family life and only in passing. We never even saw him at a time when he was not fully aware that cameras and a microphone were turned in his direction.

The ABC sports people generally do a superlative job. But when it comes to that special form called a documentary, they would have done well to borrow a few leaves from the work book of the producer of the program that followed, "The Long Childhood of Timmy," a perceptive and moving narrative about the progress of a retarded child now being trained up to his full, if limited capabilities.

The program was a slightly updated rerun of the original broadcast last season. Once again we saw the little boy surrounded by a warm and affectionate family and suffered with him in his separation from the family upon entrance to a special school for "exceptional children." And we rejoiced in the few added sequences showing that in the 10 months since we last saw the boy, now almost 10, he has progressed from a child with a mental age of three and one-half to one of five—and will progress even further.

Succeeds as Documentary

The important thing was that the program introduced us to the boy and his family, involved us and made his progress important. That is what is important in a documentary about a person.

Recommended tonight: "A Hard Day's Night," NBC, Maria Albergheiti and Barbara Eden, 7:30-9:15 EDT, broadcast of the

Can't Force Medicaiders To Pay Personal Debts

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Medicaid card-holders cannot be forced to pay their personal debts, the State Social Services Department says.

The immunity, contained in Section 137A of the state Social Welfare Law, could affect more than 2.9 million residents with Medicaid cards and another 5 million eligible for the cards.

The Medicaid program provides financial aid to persons deemed medically indigent. A family of four with a net income of $6,000 a year, for example, is eligible for the payment of most of its medical bills if the family is deemed needy.

Section 137A of the law states, in part:

How Law Reads

"All wages, salary, commissions or other compensation paid or payable by an employer to a person while he is in receipt of public assistance or care supplementary to his income pursuant to this chapter, or while he would otherwise need such assistance or care, shall be exempt from assignment, income execution or from an installment order."

The section was applicable, a spokesman for the state agency said, because the Legislature did not make a specific exemption in the case of Medicaid.

State Sen. William T. Smith, R-Big Flats, described the situation as "alarming" and said that the "fiscal insanity cannot be allowed to continue."

Sen. William E. Adams, R-Buffalo, chairman of the Joint Legislative Committee on the Social Welfare Law, would be asked to schedule a public hearing "at the earliest possible date so that all aspects of this impossible situation may be discussed," he said.

The law also contains the provision that the exemption is applicable "so long as such public assistance or care shall continue or would be needed if the income execution, or installment order, were enforced."

Also, "any employer who shall withhold or pay over to a person presenting an income execution installment payment order, or assignment of any portion of the earnings of such a recipient of public assistance or care, shall be liable in an action by such recipient for the amount so paid or withheld contrary to the provisions of this section."

"It doesn't make any sense to us," said Mrs. Alice Davenport of Woolrich, whose husband Richard, 32, was shot dead in the paper mill where he was a quality control supervisor.

She said she assumed her husband was killed only because he "was in the way" of a bullet.

Wilson to GOP Club:

Wittenberg Plan Progressing

This past weekend, Assemblyman Kenneth L. Wilson of Ulster County spoke to a group of residents from the Town of Shandaken, and informed them that the long awaited Wittenberg State Park is "progressing on schedule."

Wilson also said that as soon as a few additional test borings are completed by the New York City consulting firm of Andrews and Clarke, the master plan for the development of the park will be ready for presentation to the State Department of Conservation, and that the plan should be ready by the middle of next month.

Assemblyman Wilson appeared before a capacity crowd at the Cobblestone Inn in Phoenicia gathered for the annual dinner of the Town of Shandaken Republican Club.

Lights Just Went Out

Six Slain in 90-Minutes of Terror

LOCK HAVEN, Pa. (AP) — Two workers entering the sprawling Hammermill Paper Co. plant almost collided with 39-year-old Leo Held as he strode out with an emptied pistol in each hand.

"What's going on," they later said they asked him.

"The lights just went out," was his reply.

Six persons were slain in the laboratory technician's 90-minute reign of terror Monday. Six others were wounded, three critically.

Quiet, Peaceful Man

The words were the last known to be uttered by Held before he was struck and critically wounded by four police bullets in his backyard in Loganton, about 17 miles from here.

Clinton County Dist. Atty. Alan Lugg said Held, who underwent three hours of surgery for wounds of both wrists, a leg, an arm and a shoulder, had not uttered a word since his capture.

Lacking an explanation from Held, the district attorney, family, friends and relatives of the victims were unable to explain what caused "a quiet peaceful man, devoted to his family" to embark on a bloody rampage.

"It doesn't make any sense to us," said Mrs. Alice Davenport of Woolrich, whose husband Richard, 32, was shot dead in the paper mill where he was a quality control supervisor.

She said she assumed her husband was killed only because he "was in the way" of a bullet.

The statement contradicted remarks of eyewitnesses at the plant who watched, frozen by shock, as Held fatally shot Davenport.

enport and four others and wounded four more employees.

They said Held, a known gun fanatic and avid hunter, moved with an icy coldness and apparently took aim at his targets. He then walked from the building firing random shots into offices as about 50 fellow employees watched from hiding places behind machinery and desks.

"Everything happened so fast, nobody knew what happened," said Leo F. Stahl, a plant supervisor.

Held then drove to Piper Aircraft Corp. at Lock Haven airport where he shot and wounded Mrs. Geraldine Ramm, a member of a car pool which had dropped him about three months ago because of his alleged reckless driving.

Chase Ended in Field

The paper mill technician's next stop was the home of his Loganton neighbors, Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Quiggle, where, police said, he broke in and shot the pair while they slept. Quiggle was killed instantly and his wife critically wounded.

By that time, police caught up with him and the chase ended in a field behind Held's home.

"I told myself it wasn't happening, but it was. It was like a dream that wouldn't go away. A bad dream—a real bad dream," said Stahl, who had hopped in a police car for the ride through this Central Pennsylvania mountain region to Loganton.

He said he found the Quiggle's six-year-old daughter in a downstairs room.

She had taken the phone off the hook and maybe she was talking to the operator. Anyhow, I heard her say, just as clear as though she was reciting a lesson in the classroom: "Help me."

Mommy and Daddy have been shot."

Wife Collapses

During the rampage, Held's four children were in school and his wife, Alda, 36, was working in a plastics plant in Jersey Shore, Pa., about 20 miles away. Police said she collapsed when she received word of the shootings.

Monday night, her brother, Harold M. Brungard, a Loganton banker, refused to let newsmen talk to her, but reported:

"She said there was no indication of any problem this morning before they went to work."

Held's 18-year-old son Larry, a tall, strapping freshman at Pennsylvania State University, agreed, saying nothing seemed to be troubling his father when he drove him back to school Sunday.

"He was a normal, if not better than normal father," said Larry, referring to his father's six years of service on the local school board and leadership in Boy Scout activities. Held also is head of the local volunteer fire company.

Police said they had no motives for the shootings.

"Some of those he shot were supervisors, maybe he had something against supervisors," said the district attorney.

Police had considered that animosity towards members of the car pool might have triggered the shootings, but only two of those shot were in the pool—Mrs. Ramm and David Overdorf, 27, who was wounded in the plant.

The dead included Davenport and Quiggle, Donald V. Walden.

CARTER'S LITTLE PILLS. Taken by millions for over 75 years in homes like yours

Question 3
How many County Legislators will represent Kingston?

You can slice $1,000 to $7,000 or more off the price of your new house. Do you know how? Buy a house that's heated by Oil. It's that simple.

Buying a home that's heated by OIL is like putting money in the bank every year. Facts and figures show that OIL HEAT will save many home owners over $1,000 in just a few years and over the length of a 25-yr. mortgage could easily run from $7,000 to $10,000. You save money and you get the best heating fuel there is—fuel that delivers dependable, clean, healthy heat. What's more, you get all the hot water your family needs. That's because Oil produces hot water faster than your family can use it. In short, OIL HEAT gives you the best for less. Don't you think it's worth a telephone call to your neighborhood Oil Dealer for all the facts?

The aluminum siding we put on the funeral home has more than paid for itself—I've always wanted to be able to paint the place with a hose and this is just what it's like. I have a slate roof . . . it requires a great deal of care, but Smith Parish just does an excellent job . . . they take care of everything!"

Amendments and Propositions

Information Concerning Ballot Issues

There is one proposition on the ballot. A proposition is a law which must be approved by the voters after it has been passed in one session of the Legislature, and has been signed by the Governor. It does not amend the Constitution.

There are two proposed Amendments which have passed two separately elected Legislatures and are now submitted to the voters for their approval or disapproval. If approved, they become Amendments to the New York State Constitution.

Proposition Number One Transportation Bond Issue

Approval would authorize the State to borrow $2½ billion for transportation throughout the State. $1¼ billion would be used for highway construction. The rest would be used to pay up to 75 per cent of capital costs to help localities and public transportation agencies improve and coordinate subways, commuter railroads and buses, and develop air and marine facilities. Each project would require approval of the State Commissioner of Transportation and the Legislature. Federal money, when and if granted, would repay the State in part.

THOSE FOR SAY THAT the State cannot afford to wait until federal money is available; that coordinated facilities to transport growing numbers of people and goods must be developed immediately if we are to prevent a crisis in the State's economic development; that in the New York City area the new Metropolitan Transit Authority or the City could use bond money for subway construction and equipment thus freeing Transit Authority money for operating the subways at the present 20 cent fare.

THOSE AGAINST SAY THAT the State should not borrow more money; that tax increases may be needed to pay off the growing public debt; that all subway costs should be paid out of revenues even if fares must be increased; that bond money which permits the new coordinating authorities (such as Metropolitan Transit Authority in New York City and Niagara Frontier Transportation Authority in western New York) to assume planning functions and capital costs will give them control of local transportation facilities.

Amendment Number One Job Development Authority

This would authorize the Legislature to increase the State-guaranteed borrowing power of the Job Development Authority from $50 to $200 million. The Authority makes low-interest loans to non-profit corporations which help finance new industries and expand or rehabilitate existing ones thus improving job opportunities.

THOSE FOR SAY THAT New York must be able to compete with other states in attracting and keeping industry; the Authority has shown sound judgement in making loans; its continued effectiveness depends on this increase in borrowing power.

THOSE AGAINST SAY THAT the impact of Authority loans on the State's economy has been far less than claimed; private enterprise can do this job; the State's credit rating would be endangered by increased liability on bonds; in 1966 the voters defeated an amendment to raise this limit from $50 to $75 million.

Amendment Number Two Blue Ridge Ski Center

This would permit the State to build and operate a ski center with up to 30 miles of trails, 30 to 80 feet wide, in the Blue Ridge Range of the Adirondack Forest Preserve in Essex County.

THOSE FOR SAY THAT this would fill the needs of growing numbers of skiers; its nearness to the Northway, variety of slopes, location midway between Gore and Whiteface Mountains would create a giant ski complex comparable to those in Vermont; the economy of the entire northeast region of the State would benefit.

THOSE AGAINST SAY THAT the "forever wild" character of the forest preserve must be protected; the State should not compete with private enterprise in the ski business; there are more important ways to spend State funds.

Men Behind the Scenes

Chairmen Hold the Reins

The men behind the scenes of any big elective race are the chairmen of the varied political parties. It is they who, through trusted lieutenants and scores of committees, speech writers and fund raisers, campaign chairmen and ordinary party members, wage the battle that either put their candidates in office, or loose the election.

The hopes of the parties rest, in varying degrees, in their chairmen, and the office itself is usually the end of the line for the passing buck.

"Leader or Boss"

The party chairman can either be a "leader" or a "boss," depending upon how successfully he irks the "out party."

Chairmen may deal with the coveted gifts of political patronage, for which they can be besieged by any number of job seekers, and they must possess the ability to heal the factions and the inter-party arguments that quite often beset the most well organized of political organizations.

GOP Sterley

The Chairman of the Ulster County Republican Committee is former Surrogate Court Judge John B. Sterley.

Elected to lead the Republicans in June of this year through the machinery of a party caucus, Sterley was elevated from the position of treasurer of the Committee.

In 1944, Sterley was appointed

HARRY S. HOFFMAN

Surrogate Judge to succeed Harry Flemming, who had resigned from the post. The following year Sterley was elected on his own.

Active in Republican affairs for many years, Sterley served as Republican City Chairman and has been involved in political, banking, and civic affairs in Kingston and in Ulster County.

Followed Wilson

Sterley has been a member

of the Republican County Committee for approximately 23 years, and he assumed the top position after Assemblyman Kenneth L. Wilson stepped down.

Dr. Gerald P. Gorman chairs the Ulster County Democratic Committee. He was elected to the post in July of this year, drawing more votes than incumbent Aaron E. Klein during the party caucus.

JOHN B. STERLEY

Gorman remains as Democratic City Chairman, a post he was elected to in December of 1965.

Medical Career

Gorman opened up his medical doctor's office in Kingston in 1956 and has served in the practice of surgery here for the past 11 years. During that time he has served as a member of the Ulster County Board of Health, president of the Ulster

County chapter of the American Cancer Society.

In 1965, Gorman was the Democratic candidate for coronor, losing by less than 400 votes, after having campaigned for the establishing of a medical examiner system.

A former member of the Board of Education of the Saugerties Central School System, Harry S. Hoffman Jr. is the Conservative Party Chairman.

Hoffman is on the group staff of IBM Group Executive and vice President T.V. Larsen, and is a senior engineer for the giant IBM corporation.

Line C

Admittedly a small party, the Conservatives hold line C on the ballot and may control the difference in a close race between the top major party candidates.

Steve Korchowsky heads the Liberal Party County Committee, a post to which he was elected in September of 1965, and reelected to in July, 1967.

Korchowsky was the Liberal Party candidate for Mayor of Kingston in 1965.

The Liberal chieftain is a member of the Carpenter's Local.

The Liberals have endorsed one Republican and three Democrats for the top County positions and could make the big difference in the November elections.

Bond Issue Paramount to Rocky

By CHARLES DUMAS

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — As Gov. Rockefeller sees it, the most important question confronting New York voters is not the fate of the remodeled state constitution—but whether the state should undertake the largest single borrowing in its history.

On Rockefeller's orders, the question line of the Nov. 7 ballot was arranged so that the voters will be asked to decide first on his plan for a $2.5-billion transportation bond issue.

It will appear under the heading "Proposition 1."

The much-discussed constitution will be listed three spaces

away, under the title "Question 1."

Sandwiched in between will be two proposed amendments to the present Constitution. They were approved by the Legislature before the charter was overhauled and will be headed "Amendment 1" and "Amendment 2."

Amendment 1 would increase the state-guaranteed borrowing power of the Job Development Authority from $50 million to $100 million. The agency sells bonds and uses the proceeds for struggling industries.

Amendment 2 would permit the state to build and operate a ski center near Schroon Lake, with up to 30 miles of trails, in the Blue Ridge range of the Adirondack forest preserve. Voter approval is sought for an exception to the policy of keeping the preserve "forever wild."

The ballot arrangement was dictated by Rockefeller to separate his bond plan as widely as possible from the controversy over the revised constitution.

The reason was that the governor and his political advisers feared negative reactions toward the new charter might spill over onto the bond issue.

For his part, Rockefeller says he will vote for the new constitution. But he is not pressing

On the other hand, Rockefeller has waged an all-out campaign to persuade the electorate that the state should be allowed to borrow $2.5 billion for wholesale improvements of the state's mass transportation network.

He has earmarked $1 billion for highway construction, $1.25 billion for mass transit facilities and $250 million for airports.

Pooled with federal aid and contributions by local governments and public authorities, he says, the bond issue should support a total program of $3.35 billion, to be spent in the next five years.

The governor has pressed his plan upon the voters in a series of speaking engagements across the state. His effort has been backed by a saturation advertising campaign, financed by a committee of businessmen and others who see the plan as a major plus for New York industry.

Approval of the bond issue has become a must for Rockefeller in terms of its impact on the state budget.

He is banking on $89 million in transportation bond proceeds to keep his present $4.6-billion budget in balance. In addition, he intends to bond at least $300 million worth of highway construction in next year's budget.

The City's War of Words

Garraghan-Bechtold Mayoralty Could Go Right Down to Wire

Despite what many political observers thought a few months ago the race for mayor of Kingston between incumbent Raymond W. Garraghan and his opponent, C. John Bechtold, may well go down to the wire.

In some quarters Garraghan was considered unbeatable and Bechtold, the Republican-Liberal, was merely a sacrificial lamb.

Slow Start . . .

Such has not been the case. Bechtold, after a slow start, has been blasting the mayor on a number of issues. Garraghan, in return, has accused his opponent of a lack of knowledge of the facts.

A typical example of this is the war of words over a proposed city hall downtown. Garraghan had recommended the building of a city hall downtown for a variety of reasons. The mayor said the land was inexpensive ($8,000 per acre for a proposed 2½ acres), the cost of the project was within reason (about $500,000) and the city could afford it since he (the mayor) had reduced the city debt limit by over half a million dollars during his administration.

Mayor Garraghan also cited the woeful condition of the present city hall on Broadway and its lack of parking space and office space.

Bechtold countered the mayor's ideas on a new city hall downtown, referring to the plan as "Garraghan's Folly." The Republican advocated the repair of the present city hall, at some $75,000 over a four or five-year period.

The candidates have been at odds over the solving of Kingston's traffic problems. Bechtold has called for a detailed traffic study. In the meantime he has proposed the widening of South Wall Street from Greenkill Avenue to Wilbur Avenue.

Responding to the Bechtold charges, the mayor claimed he had "severely minimized" the local traffic problem during his two-year term of office. Garraghan termed his erection of a slow sign and no parking signs in front of the Boys' Club on Greenkill Avenue an "achievement."

Garraghan also pointed out that the new Hasbrouck Avenue By-Pass would "solve a lot of problems." Neither candidate indicated they had read Freeman articles quoting State highway officials as saying the bypass could take another five years to complete.

Renege on Promise

According to Freeman files, Bechtold and his running mate Louis J. Smith, have already renege on a campaign promise. In an Oct. 4 article they cited the need for new developers for building in Kingston. The duo admitted the plans were complicated but said they would release plans "within a week."

Garraghan has also expressed concern about new business and homes in Kingston but has yet to offer any plans on the subject.

Both the mayor and his opponent seem to agree that the real estate tax is at a limit. Garraghan suggested a sales tax, much like the one Poughkeepsie has. Bechtold has the sales tax "under study."

Garraghan and Bechtold have clashed on housing codes and their enforcement. Bechtold termed a meeting, Oct. 16 between Garraghan and his building department and housing code inspectors as "pure campaign hogwash."

Bechtold claims that Garraghan has appropriated $16,000 for housing code enforcement and the building department but that "nothing has been done since."

Garraghan counters, saying that under the Republican preceding him a housing code commission was set up but no money was appropriated for its operation.

Remarks between the candidates get pretty heated when it comes to the spending of city money. Garraghan has said he's underpaid at $10,000 per year as mayor. Bechtold said he thinks that's enough money for Garraghan for the amount of work he does for the city.

Ray for Manager Plan

Garraghan is for a city manager form of government paying the manager around $20,000 a year or paying him equal amount for the full-time job.

Bechtold thinks a full-time mayor is adequately compensated at $10,000 per year. He adds that he will be a full-time mayor if elected.

Bechtold's thinking on the city manager form of government is in line with a Freeman survey of aldermen on the topic who voted 7-1 against.

Both candidates are in agreement for a "decent wage" for city police and firemen. Bechtold would extend that decent wage to the employees of the Board of Public Works as well. The issues will be even more hotly debated in the two weeks remaining before the Nov. 7 election. Both candidates can be expected to spend a lot of time in the streets going door to door. Kingston campaigns are traditionally waged that way.

Bechtold Comparative Novice

An edge has to be given to Garraghan in the public speaking department. The mayor has been through the pressures of a campaign, having beaten a strong candidate, Albert Kurdt, by 374 votes in 1965.

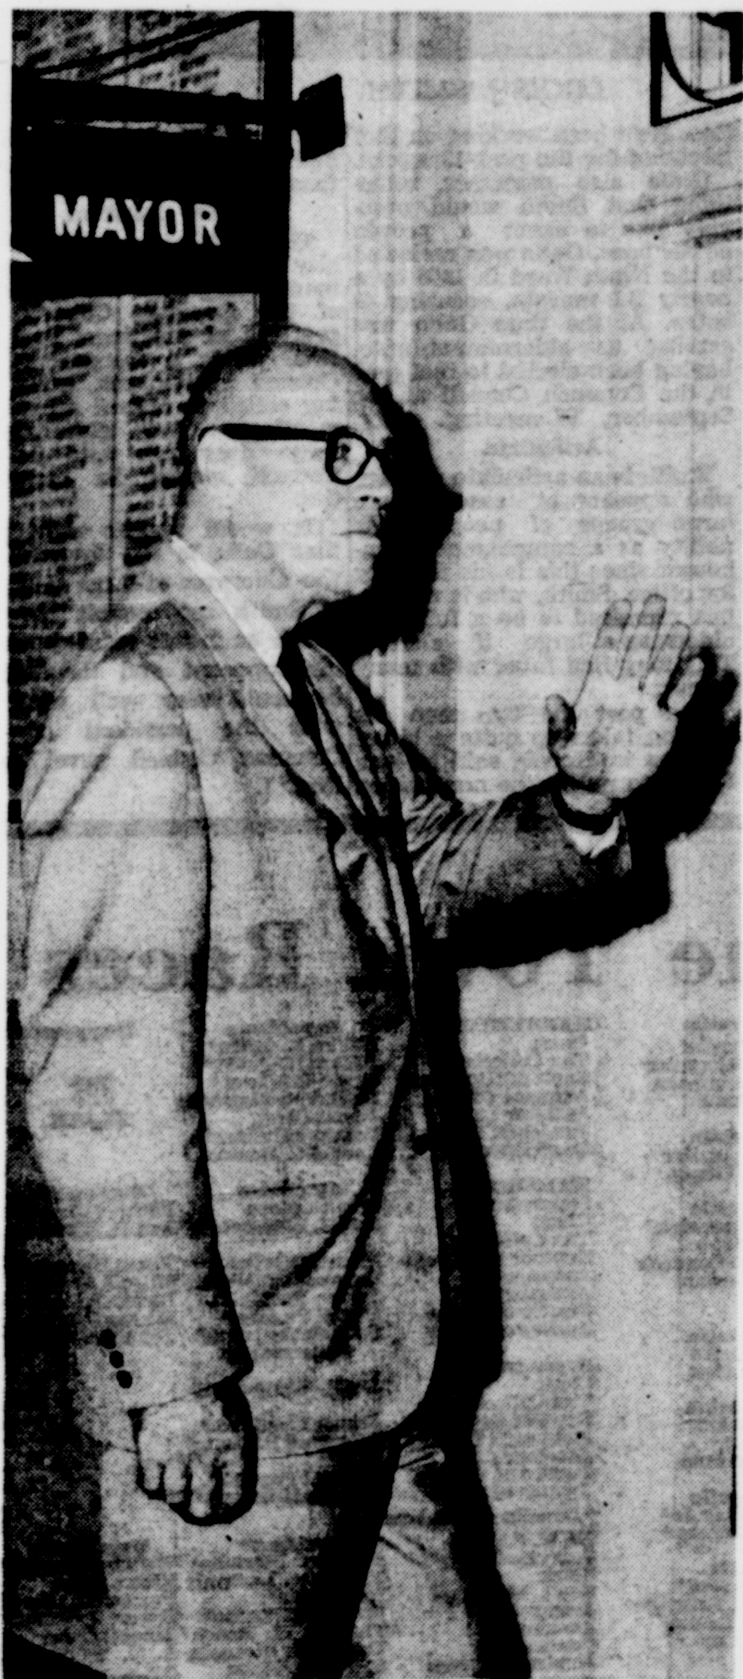

Bechtold is a comparative newcomer in the political wars.

By way of background, Garraghan was born in Haverstraw and came to Kingston in May of 1930 as an associate of the late Austin R. Newcombe. The Newcombe company became one of the largest oil distributors in the Hudson Valley. After the sale of the original Newcombe Company to Cities Service, Garraghan established the oil company which bears his name. Garraghan has been a director of the Windham Bank for many years, where he was once a clerk, and also director of the National Ulster County Bank. He is a former president of the Kiwanis Club of Kingston and a director of the Kingston Area Chamber of Commerce.

Bechtold, a native of Kingston, has been a conductor on the New York Central Railroad for the past 35 years. He is a past fire commissioner and an active Republican committeeman in the second Ward for more than 20 years.

The wealthy businessman and the train conductor will find out which one of them will occupy the mayor's seat for the next two years the night of Nov. 7.

Alderman-at-Large Race Pits Smith Against Gallo

T. ROBERT GALLO

LOUIS J. SMITH

The race for alderman-at-large in Kingston pits a 31-year-old two-term alderman against a retired pharmaceutical salesman.

This contest is expected to be close with T. Robert Gallo, Democrat-Liberal from the Ninth Ward opposing Louis J. Smith, Republican-Conservative, a Second Ward committeeman.

Won't Run

The two are battling for the post vacated by Francis R. Koenig, alderman-at-large under Mayor Raymond W. Garraghan. Koenig, a popular Democrat, chose not to run because of a pressing business schedule.

Voters have seen little discussion of the issues from the two candidates. Rather, the race seems to be primarily a personality battle.

Smith has termed the Gallo-Garraghan team as "ridiculous" basing his statement on the fact that Gallo was opposed to the mayor's budget which was finally passed in special session Jan. 27 this year.

Right To Disagree

Gallo has asserted his right to disagree, in fact has termed dissent an intricate part of the American governmental way of life. Gallo voted against the Garraghan budget at the Jan. 27th meeting.

Smith sees disagreement between an alderman-at-large and his mayor as an undesirable thing and promises complete cooperation with C. John Bechtold if the latter is elected.

Rubber Stamp

Gallo says that the statement by Smith indicates Smith would be little more than a rubber stamp for Bechtold.

Gallo's main criticism of Smith seems to be that Smith is inexperienced in city government. Garraghan says the same

No Contact

In his criticism of the Garraghan-Gallo team Smith has stated that the two Democrats don't like each other. In fact, Smith has stated that Garraghan and Gallo have had no personal contact for many months.

Gallo claims his opponent is a candidate without an issue. So far, Smith has done little but criticize what he terms the "Gallo-Garraghan Shotgun Marriage."

On the campaign trail Gallo's youth may prove a definite advantage. Gallo is a tireless campaigner and has expressed the intention to visit every home in the city before the election. He's been working on that intention for the past 12 weeks.

Gallo also possesses something that Smith would probably like to have: a proven power base. Gallo was reelected in the Ninth Ward in 1965 by a nearly 2-1 margin, securing 49 votes. At the time Gallo was serving as alderman-at-large, having been elected to that post in the Common Council at the September, '65 meeting.

Articulate

Smith is an articulate speaker who appears at ease before large groups of people. His ability as a campaigner is unknown since this is his first try for office. Smith, who is retired, has promised to be a full time alderman-at-large if elected. This may find favor with many voters.

The post the two men are seeking takes up quite a bit of time as is. Koenig said he was forced to refuse the nomination

Key Position

The position is a key one in city government. The alderman-at-large is the president of the Common Council and presides at meetings. In addition, he is a member of all Council committees, often being called to attend committee meetings. The alderman-at-large does not vote in the Council except in cases of ties.

It would appear right now that Gallo is the favorite for the alderman-at-large post but if Smith can exploit the gap which he insists exists between his opponent and the mayor, he could very well wind up with the president of the Common Council gavel come Nov. 7.

WHERE THE COUNTY LEGISLATORS WILL MEET

12-District 33 County Legislators To Replace Old Supervisor Board

Thirty-three county legislators will be elected from 12 legislative districts, and the County Legislature will replace the old Board of Supervisors.

The legislators will create and pass laws and proposals relative to the county at large, and for this law-making task they will each be paid $2,000 a year.

THE FIRST LEGISLATIVE DISTRICT comprises the Town of Saugerties, and four representatives will be elected from the district.

REPUBLICANS have nominated William D. Brinnier, C. Freeman Lasher, Peter M. Williams and Clifford Snyder to fill the four slots open.

WILLIAM D. BRINNIER, 40, is an attorney and a Justice of the Peace. Chairman of the Ulster County Civil Service Commission, Brinnier is against Federal and State infringement on "local municipal home rule."

C. FREEMAN LASHER, 51, is a self-employed merchant and a GOP committeeman. Lasher feels that his past experience will enable him to promote good sound business judgment and greater economy in county government.

PETER M. WILLIAMS, present Saugerties supervisor, will go for the supervisor and legislator post under local law 1, and he states that his major concern is, "The mounting costs of county government in the last 10 years."

CLIFFORD W. SNYDER, 42, holding a staff position in the engineering facility services of IBM, claims: "I have taken a stand against the growth of welfare and its associated programs."

DEMOCRATS from Saugerties offer G. Thomas Rea Jr., David J. Gobel, Paul M. Brazier and Richard Thornton to the voters.

G. THOMAS REA JR., 43, a self-employed attorney, believes that "every homeowner in the township" could have his investment threatened because of a lack of zoning.

DAVID J. GOBEL, 44, a driver education instructor, believes that a person must take part in county government before he can understand it and that, if elected, "I will study the issues."

PAUL M. BRAZIER, 32, a teacher at the Saugerties High School hits out at the loss of free property in the Town, the "Virginia brick fiasco" and the UCCC "political football."

RICHARD F. THORNTON, 42, and insurance agent, wants to see "a return to the two-party system in Saugerties."

CONSERVATIVES have fielded four candidates:

RICHARD J. LUTHER, an elementary school teacher, is for "long-range county-wide planning" and the "use of Ulster County men and material in construction projects."

HARRY S. HOFFMAN JR., 42, senior engineer at IBM, will seek "reduction and restraint in the 'give-away' programs."

REV. DONALD J. MORGAN, 30, a minister, is against the "bossism" in Saugerties, and the "contempt for the voter."

Five Legislators

THE SECOND LEGISLATIVE DISTRICT contains the Towns of Kingston, Hurley, Marletown, and Ulster and will have five legislators.

REPUBLICANS have nominated the following slate:

DOUGLAS V. DYE, 37, a department manager at IBM, supported converting the TB Hospital to an infirmary.

FRANK L. MILLER, 50, an arborist, is for the conservation and proper use of natural resources, water supply.

S. ROBERT KELDER SR., 56, a dairy farmer, is for the removal of junk cars from the area in order to beautify.

RICHARD D. NACE, 47, civil engineer draftsman, wants strict enforcement of present rulings on air, water pollution.

DEMOCRATS have put up: MARIE GORSLINE, 49, a clerk at the Board of Elections, is for "recreation for all ages" at county public facilities.

FRED G. KUHNEL, 35, a sales representative, believes his thinking "always follows sound economic reasoning."

KENNETH E. OSTERHOUDT, bank manager, does not believe a man can be a supervisor and a county legislator.

G7RTRUDE PAGLIARONI, 37, purchasing administrator, is for "recreation for all ages and equitable tax assessments."

JOSEPH G. ROCHE did not respond to the questionnaire.

CONSERVATIVES offer: WILLIAM A. JACKSON, 39, an engineer, is dedicated to Conservative party principals, such as "individual freedom."

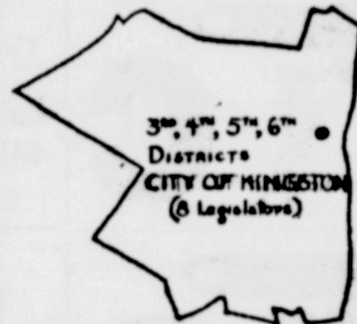

ORVILLE NORMAN, 44, owner and operator of Kingston Garden Center, is against a man running for posts in a town and county.

JOHN E. MARQUARDT, 38, assistant to Assemblyman Kenneth L. Wilson, is for an elected county executive.

Conservatives have also endorsed Douglas V. Dye and Lester C. Elmendorf.

Eight Legislators

THE THIRD, FOURTH, FIFTH AND SIXTH LEGISLATIVE DISTRICTS, with eight legislators, are found within the borders of the City of Kingston.

By WILLIAM S. STEVENS

ALBANY, N. N. (AP)—when the State Constitutional Convention drew to a close after nearly six months of deliberations, one paramount fact emerged—voters will face an enormous decision when they go to the polls Nov. 7.

They will be asked, for example, to determine if the so-called Blaine Amendment barring state aid to parochial schools should be repealed. Some have viewed Blaine as basic to the concept of separation of church and state.

On their shoulder also will rest the burden of declaring whether or not the state should assume local welfare costs, now estimated at $528 million a year.

Their yes or no ballot additionally will shape the future of the state's court system, determining, for instance whether all courts will be paid by the state.

Millions of words on these and other questions have been written and spoken about the relative merits of the revised Constitution.

186 Delegates

It is a product of 186 delegates, who, for the eighth time in the state's 190-year history, met in convention to redesign the basic charter under which all of the state's citizens are governed.

To take effect, the proposals approved by the delegates must be approved by the voters.

Some basic facts about the proposal:

The convention began April 4 and cost about $10 million.

The revised document is about 23,000 words in length and comprises 15 articles. It is less than half the verbiage of the present, more than 50,000 word, 20-article Constitution. The present charter was approved generally in an 1898 convention and modified in some respects in the 1938 convention, the last one before this year's meeting.

And while it is shorter than the present State Constitution, the proposed charter is still more than twice as long as the Federal Constitution.

A great deal of the revised Constitution is non-political in nature, but other sections of it reflect in many respects the party makeup of the convention—

98 Democrats, 85 Republicans and 3 Liberals.

Personality Factors

It also mirrors, to a varying degree, the personalities of the conclave's leadership—Democratic President Anthony J. Travia and Republican Minority Leader Earl W. Brydges.

Their viewpoints, and a wide spectrum of other opinions, will be reflected in the ensuing six weeks as the question of approval or disapproval rages across the state.

In addition to the arguments over approach, the estimated price tag of $2 billion if all the changes are approved, also is expected to become a major point of debate.

In its revised form, the proposed Constitution retains many of the provisions of the present charter. In most cases, the language used to spell out the guarantee or mandate is more simple and direct.

Because there are five less articles in the proposed form than in the current Constitution, an article-by-article comparison is not possible. In some instances, sections dealing with certain items were transferred to other articles.

Outstanding Changes

But there are some outstanding differences between the proposed document and the present Constitution. Taken in numerical order, their import and significant changes—if approved by the voters—will be:

Article I

Bill of Rights

The chief change spells out in detail the procedures that may be permitted in wiretapping or eavesdropping. It would permit wiretapping only on application of a district attorney or the state attorney general. Only the presiding justice of an Appellate court, or a limited number of designated Supreme Court judges could grant permission for wire taps.

Otherwise, the Bill of Rights would preserve guarantees of fair trial, freedom from illegal search or seizure, equal protection of the law, denial of unreasonable bail and protection against discrimination.

Article II

Suffrage

What the condition did not do was important. It left the minimum voting age at 21, but, in a concession to those pressing for a lower minimum age, granted the Legislature power to reduce the minimum to 18.

Article III

Legislature

The proposed Constitution would establish a five-member commission to realign legislative and congressional districts following every 10-year federal census. The four legislative leaders would appoint one member each and the fifth member would be appointed by the Court of Appeals.

The State Senate would be expanded to 60 members. Members of the Legislature would be required to submit detailed expense accounts instead of the present system of receiving a lump sum—lulu—for expenses.

Article IV

Executive

Remains generally the same as the present document, but would take away the governor's pocket veto. Under current provisions any bill not signed by the governor within 30 days of the Legislature's adjournment is considered vetoed. The revised measure would provide the reverse, that is, any bill not signed within 30 days would be considered to have become law.

Article V

Judiciary

Certainly one of the most hotly debated and controversial articles in the proposed Constitution. Depending on the source, the article has been variously described as a major step forward or a mere continuation of that state's present system.

One important change would establish the Court of Appeals as the main supervisory body for all courts in the state, replacing the present judicial Conference, which comprises the chief judge of the Court of Appeals and the presiding justices of the appellate division of State Supreme Court.

The state-wide court system, including Supreme Court, Surrogates Court, and Family Court, would be financed by the state.

District Courts, if approved by the voters in county-wide elections, will be established and replace local courts, with the costs paid for by the state.

New York City residents would be granted jury trials for misdemeanor cases where the penalty is more than six months.

The Court of Appeals would be able to call for additional judges in various courts, as needed.

At the same time, the convention watered down a controversial measure dealing with the district courts. As originally proposed, the district courts would have had the effect of abolishing local justice of the peace courts and County Courts. As finally approved however, the Legislature would be empowered to permit district courts and local courts.

Article VI

State Departments, Officers and Public Authorities

Under its new terms, the article would permit the state to expand the number of departments, now limited to 20. If the governor sought legislative approval before Feb. 1 of any year to establish or change a department, and the Senate or Assembly did not disapprove within 60 days the governor's plan would be carried out.

The article also would empower the Legislature to decide what governmental records, including those of public authorities, would be open to public inspection.

Article VII

Public Officers and Employees

Would make constitutional current law requiring an area's prevailing wage rates be paid to privately-employed workers on state projects. It also would eliminate present requirements for educational background in some civil service promotions.

Article VIII

Natural Resources and Conservation

Leaves untouched the basic concept of "forever wild" in the Adirondack and Catskill forest reserves. Also spells out for the first time a so-called Conservation Bill of Rights making it a legislative duty to attack water and air pollution and preserve scenic and natural beauty.

Despite objections, it eliminates previous constitutional references to protection of the Barge Canal system.

Article IX

Education

Orders the Legislature to provide for a system of higher education which may include free tuition, grants, scholarships and loans. This represents a retreat for Travia, who had pressed for free higher college education.

Specifically bans discrimination based on religion, creed or national origin. Opponents argued that the religion provision would require parochial schools to accept non-denominational pupils at the expense of pupils of the school's religious persuasion.

Article X

State Finance

Empowers the Legislature to approve state borrowing without having a voter referendum. The borrowing permission would require approval by two sessions of the Legislature with an election intervening.

Article XI

Local Government

Prevent town officers from serving on county boards of supervisors or legislative bodies, thus virtually eliminating boards of supervisors as they are now in effect. It also would require local governments to report on the "one-man, one-vote" principal spelled out by the U.S. Supreme Court.

Spirited campaigning is underway in Kingston and undoubtedly it will continue until Election Day, Nov. 7, with 31 candidates seeking the 13 seats to make up the next Common Council. Ten incumbent aldermen are running for another term, and candidates for the other three seats are newcomers to the political field.

With the exception of the Ninth, Tenth and Eleventh Wards aldermen now in office are candidates. The Ninth Ward seat will be vacated by T. Robert Gallo (D) who is the party candidate for alderman-at-large.

Alderman James F. Howard (D) of the 10th Ward, and Raymond Armater (R) 11th Ward are not candidates this year.

Alderman William G. Davis (D-L) senior member of the present Common Council, is a candidate for another term as representative of the 13th Ward. He will be opposed by Republican Theodore Letus an IBM employe of 159 Wilbur Avenue, and Isabelle H. McHugh, Conservative party candidate.

Margolis, a former Republican committeeman from the First and Sixth Wards, is a member of the Masons, Shrine, City Republican Club and Congregation Agudas Achim. He owns a manufacturing company on Crown Street and is a lifelong resident of Kingston. His opponent was Democratic candidate for alderman of the First Ward in 1963 and lost by three votes.

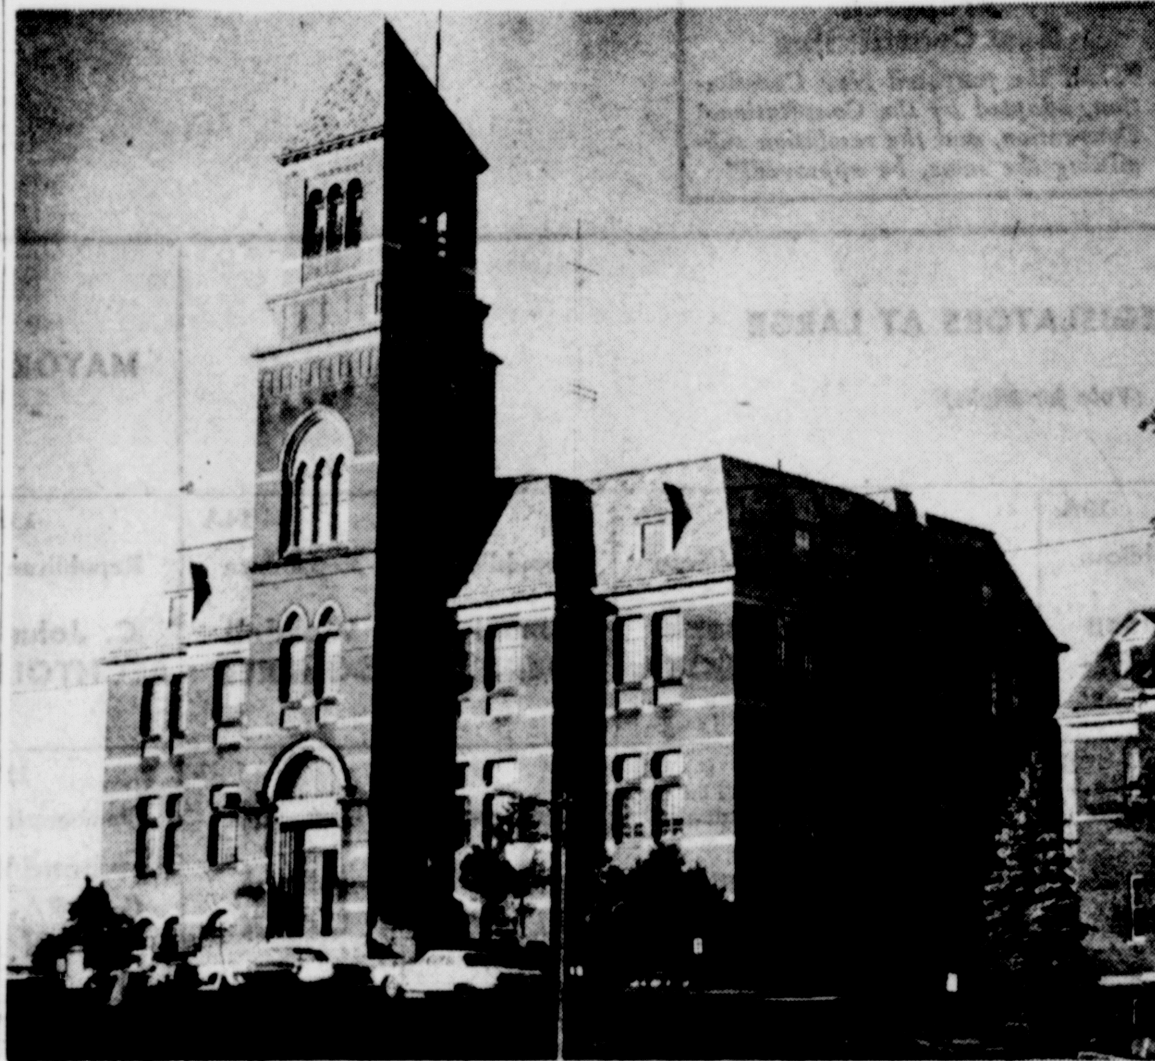

Robert C. Schantz (R) will be opposed by Joseph F. Policano (D-L) and Thomas F. Rieley (Cons) for alderman in the Second Ward a seat Schantz now holds. Schantz has been Democratic committeeman in his ward 10 years. Rieley is currently on the Board of Directors of the Ulster County Community Chest. Policano, a former police commissioner, is secretary to the City Democratic Committee. He is employed at IBM.

John J. Naccarato (R) is running for a third term for alderman in the Third Ward. His opponents are Stanley J. Petro Jr., (D-L) and Joan Belser (C). Naccarato is owner of Naccarato's Shoe store on Broadway and Johnnie's By-pass Tavern. He is president of Central Broadway Businessmen's Association. Two Way Contest

A two-way contest is scheduled for alderman of the Fifth Ward. Clifford G. Sinsabaugh (D-L) is seeking another term. His opponent will be Frank Fabbie (R-C) candidate. Sinsabaugh veteran of World War II served several years as Democratic committeeman in the 5th Ward. He resigned when nominated as a party candidate for alderman. He served as a member of the Dutchess County Democratic committee executive board. Fabbie has been active in many organizations in the area for many years.

In the Sixth Ward, incumbent Alderman Joseph Epstein, running on the Democrat-Liberal ticket, faces opposition this year by Republican Richard K. Fox. Epstein served as alderman of his ward from Jan. 1, 1932 through Jan. 31, 1937 and made a successful run for the municipal legislative post in 1965. He has been the Democratic member of the County Board of Elections since 1938 and operates a cigar store on lower Broadway.

Edward Norton (D-L) Seventh Ward seeks to defeat his Republican opponent, Richard Burns for a new term. The Conservatives made no nomination for this office.

Peter Mancuso (D-L) candidate is running for another term as representative on the Common Council for the Eighth Ward. His Republican opponent will be Louis H. Schafer. There was no Conservative party nominee for the office. Mancuso is a member of the Democratic Men's Club and Rapid Hose Fire Co. He was Democratic committeeman from the Eighth Ward for five years, and is co-manager of the Shamrock Tavern on Broadway. In 1966, Schafer was recipient of the Ulster County Bar Association's Liberty Bell Award in recognition of his long community service. Schafer served as executive secretary of the Kingston YMCA for 22 years before his retirement in September, 1965.

Fisher, an auto salesman, is a Kingston High School graduate and attended Union and St. Lawrence Universities. He is a member of Moose Lodge and United Commercial Travelers Association. He resides at 19 Liberty Street with his wife, the former Marguerite Conlon. They have two sons, both employed by IBM. Present is manager of the men's and boy's department at Caldor's. Before entering military service in World War II, he operated a store on lower Broadway. He is a member of Congregation Agudas Achim and United Commercial Travelers Association. 2 Candidates Seek County DA Position

JOSEPH P. TORRACA

DAVID M. BARNOVITZ

Torraca and Barnovitz Battle in Hard Race

The Ulster County District Attorney is the chief prosecuting attorney for both civil and criminal cases in the county, and his office is the major investigative agency.

It is the District Attorney's office that argues the merits of the state's cases before the court.

The job, arranged on a part-time basis, carries with it a staff of five part-time assistants and two full-time investigators.

$11,500 Annually
The district attorney earns $11,500 per year, and the post calls for a three-year term.

The total operating budget for personal services for the department has been upped from a 1966 figure of $61,220 to a 1967 funding of $75,800.

Second only to the county judge in the order of its elective importance, the November 7th election will determine whether incumbent Joseph P. Torraca, a Republican, will be returned to office, or whether Democratic-Liberal challenger David M. Barnovitz will assume the duties.

JOSEPH P. TORRACA, 43, a resident of the Town of Marlboro, attended Dartmouth College and was graduated from Fordham University in 1947 and

New York Law School in 1950. Torraca states: "I attended both college and law school at night, and during the day worked at various legal professions in order to obtain a practical as well as a theoretical approach."

Served in Marines

The incumbent DA enlisted in the United States Marine Corps in July of 1943, served during World War II in the Pacific, and saw action on islands of Guam and Iwo Jima with the Third Marine Division.

Commissioned a Second Lieutenant, he was honorably discharged as First Lieutenant in 1946.

Torraca was a member of the staff of district attorney of New York County Frank Hogan's office for two years, and as law investigator for the City of New York for two years.

Republican Torraca was also a United States Naval Intelligence Agent for three years.

The incumbent district attorney for Ulster County served as assistant district attorney from 1956 to 1964 under the leadership of Howard C. St. John, Raymond J. Mino, and David W. Corwin.

He was elected to the top slot in 1964 and served from 1965 to the present.

His total legal experience in law enforcement and in the prosecution of crimes closes in on a total of 18 years.

The District Attorney is a member of the Executive Committee of the New York State District Attorney's Association; a member of the National District Attorney's Association, and a member of the International Narcotic Enforcement Officer's Association.

Responding to the League of Women Voter's questionnaire, Torraca declared that he is for the district attorney being a full-time position.

He states: "At present, the position of district attorney is part-time but I feel that with the increase in crime, Supreme Court decisions affecting searches, seizures, and confessions, the extension of the jurisdiction of the justice of the peace courts to hear and determine all misdemeanors, the new Penal Law, etc., it becomes apparent that a district attorney devote all his time and energy to his position."

In Full Accord

Torraca further says, "I am in full accord with the canons of professional ethics that the primary duty of a lawyer engaged in public prosecution is not to convince, but to see that justice is done."

DAVID M. BARNOVITZ, 30, was born in Kingston on November 19, 1937, attended Kingston schools and graduated from Kingston High School in June 1954.

Barnovitz attended Colgate University and received his bachelor of art's degree in 1958. He got his law degree from the New York University School of Law in 1961.

The Democratic-Liberal challenger is currently a partner in the firm of Streifer & Barnovitz with offices on Main Street, Kingston.

Barnovitz served in the U.S. Army Reserve forces from which he received his honorable discharge in 1965.

He was admitted to the Ulster County Bar in 1961.

Barnovitz has practiced before every court in the State of New York, and has made both trial and appellate appearances.

Family Court Work

He has represented numerous clients in the criminal courts and is an Official Law Guardian of the Ulster County Family Court. Barnovitz recently stated:

"The time has come for an all-out war against the growing criminal element in our midst. Such war cannot be fought by merely reacting to crime; we must take the initiative to stamp it out."

Also responding to the questionnaire submitted by the League of Women Voters, wherein the League asked: "On what local controversial issue have you taken a strong stand? And how do you defend your position?" Barnovitz answered:

"Ulster County has the lowest felony indictment conviction ratio of all the 62 counties in the State of New York. Over 86 per cent of all felony cases are either lost or result in deal-making."

Barnovitz further declared "My position is that we should prosecute murderers, rapists, robbers, and other felons for the crimes they commit, thereby making Ulster County a much safer place than it is today."

"The deal-making, and the extraordinarily poor judgement of cases made by the present district attorney's office must stop."

The challenger concluded by saying, "I sincerely believe that my position needs no defense."

Candidate Hits Lack Of Recreation Areas

Speaking before Democrats in the Towns of Hurley and Ulster Saturday, Fred Kuhnel declared, "there are no public areas set aside by the County for swimming, golf, boating, or camping," and the county legislator candidate pledged himself to seeking out the means to create the facilities.

Kuhnel, Democratic candidate for the new legislature in District No. 2, which includes the Towns of Kingston, Hurley, Marletown and Ulster, charged the incumbent supervisors in the four towns with laxity toward the subject of recreation.

Kuhnel also said that there had been no planning "for the creation of job opportunities for the orderly growth of our community."

The Democrat stated that the Village of Athens, further Upstate, had a population of "roughly 300 people, but it had a public boat launching facility while the greater Kingston area, with a population of over 50,000, has no such facility."

The county legislator candidate said, "Across the Hudson River you will find two public golf courses, Baird and Staatsburg, camping facilities for tenting at Taconic Park and Rudd Pond near Millerton."

"In fact," Kuhnel went on, "there are a total of five park facilities where bathing, archery, boat livery and launching, hiking and available food and refreshment accommodations are available."

Kuhnel further stated that Ulster County had the Belleayre Ski Center and the camping facility at Woodland Valley "and that is all."

He concluded by saying that he would seek the available federal and state funds necessary to initiate a recreation program for Ulster County.

"For the county not to avail itself of state and federal funds is, in fact, supporting the recreational facilities of other counties at the expense of our own community," Kuhnel said.

Three Seeking Two Appeals Posts

35-KINGSTON DAILY FREEMAN, OCT. 24, 1967

Two seats on the seven-man bench of the State Court of Appeals are to be filled in the Nov. 7 election.

Three men seek the posts, Matthew J. Jasen, who is endorsed by four political parties, Republican, Democrat, Liberal and conservative; Charles D. Breitel, who has the Republican, Democrat and Liberal endorsements and Kenneth J. Mullane who is a Conservative candidate.

Under the Court of Appeals system, the chief judge receives a salary of $42,000 and associate judges $39,500 plus $6,000 in lieu of expenses.

The posts to be filled are those of Judge John J. Voorhis of Rochester whose term expires Dec. 31, 1967 and one of the candidates, Judge Charles D. Breitel, who was appointed to his seat in 1966 to fill a vacancy, now seeks election to keep his post.

The court of appeals is the court of last resort with appellate jurisdiction only. The right to appeal to it is limited to classes of cases enumerated by the Constitution which may be further restricted by law.

The court consists of a chief judge and six associate judges who are chosen by the electors of the state for terms of 14 years. No judge can hold his office after the age of 70. Judges can hold no other public office or trust, except that they may be members of a constitutional convention. They cannot receive any fees for their own use.

Five members of the court constitute a quorum and the concurrence of four shall be necessary to a decision; but no more than seven judges shall sit in any case even though the governor may designate any number of additional justices of the Supreme Court to assist when cases accumulate.

Judge Breitel, 58, who now sits on the appeals bench, was a former assistant in the Governor Thomas E. Dewey special rackets investigation in 1935-37. A graduate of the University of Michigan, he received his LL.B. at Columbia University School of Law in 1932.

An adjunct professor of that university since 1963, he is also a member of the Board of Visitors of Columbia Law School. He has served the New York County District Attorney's office, was counsel to Gov. Dewey and a Supreme Court Justice. He is a member of the President's Crime Commission Council, and American Law Institute

He resides in New York City.

Jasen, who at 51 is the youngest of the three contenders, resides at Lakeview, L. I. A trial lawyer since 1940, he served overseas during World War II and was a United States Judge at Heidelberg, Germany from 1946-48.

A graduate of Canisius College, University of Buffalo, School of Law and Harvard University Civic Affairs School, he has been a Supreme Court Justice since 1957. The author of a number of articles on law and administration of justice, he is past president of the Lawyer's Club of Buffalo and University of Buffalo Law School Alumni. He was senior partner in the firm of Jasen, Manz, Johnson and Bayger from 1948 to 1957.

Mullane, 58, experienced in corporate law and business

judgements, has been counsel to Dioptric Instrument Company. He has had intensive and extensive experience in the field of wills, estates and trusts, probate and surrogate's practice. Mullane of Central Hanover Bank and Trust Company was one of the leading decisions on "due process."

A resident of 468 Riverside Drive, New York City, he received his AB degree at Mount St. Mary's College, Emmitsburg, Md. in 1929. He received his LL.B. from Harvard Law School in 1933 and he did a year of post graduate work in medieval history at Columbia University, 1929-30.

The Court of Appeals, which had its origins with the Dutch government, was reorganized as it is presently constituted, by an amendment to the Constitution in 1869.

VOTING MACHINE

Election Day is November 7; polls open from 6 a. m. to 9 p. m.

How to use the voting machine:

Pull large handle to close curtains. Do not move it again until you have finished voting. You have three minutes.

Move lever nearest to the name of the candidate for whom you want to vote. Move lever over or next to "yes" or "no" when voting on issues. If you change your mind, you can change position of levers.

There is a place to write in on the voting machine BUT, once you open a write-in slot, you cannot change your mind and use a lever for a candidate for that office whose name is printed on the ballot.

When your decisions are final, LEAVE THE LEVERS DOWN.

Pull large handle to open curtains. This records your vote and snaps levers back to their original position. This insures you that your vote is secret.

Race for Treasurer

The two candidates for the three-year term of county treasurer include the Republican incumbent Fred Dubois of New Paltz and Democrat candidate, Arnold Banker of Hardenburgh.

DuBois, who was first elected to the post in 1958 and has been reelected each successive term since, also has a Conservative party endorsement.

Banker, who wishes to unseat DuBois has also been given the nod by the Liberal party.

The treasurer, resident of 125 DuBois Road, New Paltz, is a high school graduate and studied bookkeeping. Director and past president of Federal Land Bank Association, he is also a trustee of the New Paltz Savings Bank.

Banker, who has picked up liberal endorsement as well as that of the Democrats, has pledged to, "protect your monies like a banker and see that it is invested to bring back the largest returns to the county. Also to see that it is spent wisely."

A 37-year resident of Ulster County, he graduated from Margaretville High School and was educated in the field of engineering.

He served as supervisor of the Town of Hardenburgh, entered a father-son farm operation in 1940 and later began a trucking and contracting business specializing in ski lifts. Banker has spent time abroad in estimating and engineering services.

The treasurer's duties are administrative. He pays bills of the county whenever presented with the proper warrant, usually from the county auditor.

He collects certain taxes directly such as those from public service corporations. The remainder of the taxes are levied through collectors of the cities and towns.

The duty of the county treasurer is to collect delinquent taxes for towns and school districts by advertising delinquent properties for sale, securing tax liens and eventually foreclosing if taxes and penalties remain unpaid.

He is the chief fiscal officer, who receives and disburses all county funds. His office requires his being bonded.

He keeps records of all fiscal transactions and is responsible for the distribution of all state and federal aid.

Monies are paid out by the treasury on any expenditures included in the approved county budget and those provided for by state law. Control and supervision of the treasurer's office is exercised by the board of supervisors and the state through its audit system and forms supplied by its accounting department.

Race for Coroner

One of three coroner posts in Ulster County is to be filled in the Nov. 7 election.

Incumbent Republican Arthur C. Chipp of Kerhonkson, who was last elected in 1964, is seeking another three-year term.

Opposing him is Ronald E. Newman of New Paltz who seeks the post on both the Democratic and Liberal ticket.

Chipp who resides in Kerhonkson was educated in Kingston Public Schools and at the State University and Rebound Training School for Embalmers.

Director of H. B. Humiston Funeral Home Inc., at Kerhonkson, Chipp is certified by Postgraduate Medical Conference, Law-Medicine Institute Boston University.

Newman says he offers his candidacy as a protest to the coroner system. He strongly advocates the institution of a medical examiner's system, staffed by physicians, to "do the work of physicians."

The investigation of the cause of death is a highly technical task, which he maintains offers to the deceased and his family, the greatest protection.

This, truly, cannot be performed by an undertaker," he claims.

Newman, a graduate of the State University at New Paltz, has made his home in Ulster County since graduation. At present he is a teacher of government at Poughkeepsie Junior and Senior High Schools.

The two coroner posts which do not expire this year are held by Republicans William S. Keyser of Kingston and Henry S. Hartley of Saugerties. Keyser was last elected in 1966 and Hartley in 1965. Both are morticians.

The coroner is an elected official who holds inquests whenever there is an unexplained death or fatal accident. He has the power to call witnesses, hear evidence and seek out professional advice. He may order autopsies and is in charge of the morgue.

No special legal or medical qualifications are necessary for the position. Autopsies may be requested when crimes or negligence is suspected in connection with a death. Autopsies are performed by a pathologist under the supervision of the City of Kingston Laboratory and the coroner has use of the state laboratory facilities.

He presides at coroners' inquests and renders official verdicts as to the cause of death.
